U. N. May Seek New Plan in Mideast Crisis

Syrian, Western Resolutions Seen Destined for Doom

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—A move grew in the United Nations today to seek some compromise approach to dissipate the tension between Turkey and Syria. Rival resolutions already submitted to the Assembly appear doomed.

Statements by Russian and Syrian spokesmen abroad meanwhile indicated that the crisis over Russian military aid to Syria and Turkish troop reinforcements along the Turkish-Syrian border was simmering down.

The United States and Turkey have contended all along that Russia whipped up the tension to win the Arabs to the Soviet side.

Many U. N. delegates believe the only plan likely to get Assembly approval would be a watered-down proposal citing Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold as a possible go-between and promising some kind of investigation.

An Assembly session scheduled for today was postponed until Friday morning.

It seemed unlikely that the 82-nation Assembly would give the needed two-thirds majority to Syria's proposal to send a fact-finding commission to investigate the border situation, or to the seven-nation Western resolution expressing confidence that Hammarskjold would mediate the dispute.

* * *

WESTERN diplomats expressed the view that Russian-Syrian warnings that the United States and Turkey are about to touch off a war are so phoney that to appoint an inquiry commission would give them dignity.

Syria, on the other hand, was reported to have told Hammarskjold she would not approve his appointment as mediator on grounds it would mean the Assembly was shirking its duty in favor of the secretary general.

India Delegate V. K. Krishna Menon has suggested that both Syria and Turkey agree on a fact-finding process to help settle their differences and use Hammarskjold's good offices.

Syria has insisted she will press for a vote on her resolution and will accept no substitute plan. However, it was felt she might agree to some face-saving plan such as Menon's.

In Damascus, acting Foreign Minister Hkalil Kallas told the Syrian Parliament's Foreign Affairs Committee he hoped the crisis was fading.

'Cultured' Gunman Robs Blood Bank Of Four Pints

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — A "cultured" gunman, who was careful not to point his weapon at a lady attendant, Wednesday night robbed the community blood bank of four pints of blood.

"I won't hurt you my dear," the robber told Billievelyn Miller when he entered the Spokane blood bank. "Just don't be frightened. Do what I tell you."

She said the man, who appeared "very calm and sweet," held a small pistol in his hand when he approached the counter where she was typing blood.

The robber gathered up his strange loot and walked calmly from the building.

News Conference Candids

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER shows a variety of expressions as he answers questions ranging from inflation to Soviet Marshal Zhukov at his news conference Wednesday. Ike indicated he believes that Red party boss Nikita Khruschev has pulled the rug out from under Marshal Zhukov. He also said he will attend an Atlantic Pact summit meeting at Paris in December.

Sputnik II Said Scheduled For Launching on Nov. 7

WASHINGTON (AP) Russia reportedly plans to blast a larger earth satellite into orbit Nov. 7, the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

The Communist Daily Worker in London said in a Moscow dispatch that "conditions may make it impossible to launch it on that particular day, but the plan is there."

The United States, meanwhile, conducted another missile test at Cape Canaveeral, Fla., late Wednesday night. The device was described as a Jupiter A, believed to be an improved version of the Redstone missile which has a range of 200 miles.

New prediction have been made that Sputnik's carrier rocket may plunge to the earth soon, and that Sputnik itself will follow in a few weeks, perhaps by the end of the year.

The sphere and its rocket section have been streaking around the earth at about 18,000 miles an hour since Oct. 4.

Radio Moscow said Wednesday night that Sputnik's rocket section will come crashing to earth soon, but that the sphere probably will last several more weeks.

At Cambridge, Mass., Dr. Fred L. Whipple of the Smithsonian Astro-physical Observatory reached about the same conclusions. He said there is some chance the rocket's spectacular plunge might be visible in the United States but didn't say where.

A high ranking Air Force officer, Lt. Gen. Donald L. Putt, said the Air Force was surprised Russia had not put up a bigger satellite.

His remarks were made to Aviation Daily apparently before the Moscow report that a heavier Sputnik would be launched.

"The facts are," he told the trade publication, "we don't understand why they don't put a bigger one up there because they have bigger engines."

Putt is Air Force deputy chief of staff for research.

Ike May Be Risking Political Black Eye with Endorsement

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower may be risking a political black eye in his enthusiastic endorsement of Republican Malcolm Forbes in the New Jersey governorship race.

On the other hand, Eisenhower's plug for Forbes in a contest some Republicans regard as a long - shot gamble may be of more significance to the GOP in the 1958 battle for control of Congress than what happens at the polls in New Jersey.

Forbes is running against Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner. If Forbes wins next Tuesday, it would provide, as Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday, "a great big shot in the arm" for Republicans.

If Forbes loses, Eisenhower will have put himself into a situation many will regard as confirmation of reports his own political popularity is slipping noticeably.

At his news conference, Eisenhower was asked only about the Forbes-Meyner race. But press secretary James C. Hagerty said later the President hopes for a victory by Republican Ted Dalton over Democrat J. Lindsay Almond for governor of Virginia.

POLITICIANS read the President's action as indicating he intends to make a stiff fight for the kind of candidates he likes, even if he has to take some political bumps in the process.

These politicians are contrasting this new attitude to the considerably more cautious course Eisenhower followed in 1956, when his own reelection was at stake.

In the case of Forbes, Eisenhower wiped out any chance the Republicans could alibi defeat by contending that local and not national issues decided the contest.

Eisenhower described Forbes as "the young, vigorous type of candidate we should have in politics."

If Forbes wins with Eisenhower's help, the recalcitrants among the Republicans will be under some constraint to pay more attention to keeping the President enthusiastic about them in 1958.

If Forbes loses, the tendency will be to discount the influence within his own party of a second term President barred by constitutional amendment from running again.

That Red Whatnik Turns Out To Be Just Yank Jokenik

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Now about that "whatnik" with the Russian lettering:

It's a fakenik, comrade, a good American practical jokenik.

The whatnik, three feet long with fins and a spinner, was found Monday alongside a mountain highway by a motorist. He turned the gadget over to authorities.

Lettering on the whatnik's side was translated as Russian words for "Russian government." However, the Air Force checked the object and reported Wednesday that the whatnik's parts were as "American as the corner war surplus store. In fact, that's where most of them probably came from," a spokesman said.

He added that the whatnik apparently was planted by a practical joker who had read too many space satellite stories.

Halloweeners Find Water Added To Soap

PEQUANNOCK, N. J. (AP)—Two teen - age boys inadvertently turned a trick into a treat Wednesday when their plan for Halloween mischief ended up all wet.

Julia Lyons, principal of the Pompton Plains Grammar School, spotted the boys soaping 10 cars belonging to teachers. Miss Lyons called the boys' mothers.

As a result, the boys had to add water and elbow grease to the soap and do a thorough job of washing the cars.

Steel Plant Is Scene Of Series of Bomb Blasts, Gun Shots

DAINGERFIELD, Tex. (AP)—Non-strikers carried arms to and from the Lone Star Steel Co. plant near here today after an explosion shook a nearby area Wednesday night. The blast was the latest incident in a series of outbreaks of violence.

The 40-day-old strike has left the area jittery and a small army of peace officers is keeping a tenuous peace.

"I'm toting a pistol," said James Landers, 24, a 127-pound machine operator savagely beaten Wednesday by six burly men he identified as strikers.

"We never had a gun checked before this started," said L. D. Webster of Dallas, vice president of Lone Star Steel, as he admired an ancient cap and ball pistol bearing five notches. The 14-inch weapon was checked at the gate by a plant worker.

Gatehouse guards displayed an arsenal they were keeping for workers who carried them in their cars.

* * *

TEXAS LAW is a bit ambiguous about carrying weapons and officers here have not argued the matter.

Officers fanned out around Lone Star Lake, just west of the huge steel plant, but couldn't pinpoint the blast site. Most reports indicated the blast occurred somewhere in that vicinity.

Daingerfield is a small town about 160 miles east of Dallas.

In the last week, there have been four bombings, four incidents in which rifles or shotguns were fired into homes and uncounted threats against nonstrikers.

Ed Ball of Houston, staff representative for the United Steelworkers Union, insisted the violence was the work of individuals.

The plant employed some 3,600 persons before the walkout started Sept. 21. The union says 2,300 men still are out.

The dispute centers over the company's policy of filling job vacancies, a topic company officials said is not covered by the contract.

Jaycees' Celebration Winds Up Halloween Season Here Tonight

The Halloween season comes to a close in Fayette County Thursday night as the annual Jaycee-sponsored celebration brings down the curtains with a big downtown parade and a party at Gardner Park.

The Halloween Extravaganza follows close on the heels of 'Beggars Night' which brought out an estimated 1,500 youngsters Wednesday. Indications are the trick-or-treat activity was executed without major eruption.

Windows— especially in the downtown district— got a thorough soaping. But other than that, officers had no trouble on the night the streets were full of little spooks.

* * *

EVERY INDICATION is that, barring more rain, the Jaycee celebration will go ahead on schedule tonight.

Spooks, hobgoblins, cartoon characters and other parade marchers are due to form on Temple St. at North St. at 7 p. m., so they will be ready to march at 7:30.

The parade will go down North St. to Court, across Court St. to Main, down Main St. to Circle Ave. and across Circle Ave. to Gardner Park, where the celebration will be held.

Prizes for the best costumes and floats will be awarded at the park. There will be games, and everybody concerned is making a special effort to see that the annual pie-eating contest is a gooey success.

The Washington C. H. High School marching band and the Junior High band will accompany the marchers on their rounds. Treats will be given at the park by the Jaycees.

* * *

THE TRICK-OR-TREAT League was out in force Wednesday night but there were indications it wasn't as heavy this year as it was a year ago. Estimates received by the Record-Herald Thursday morning ran from "none" at some homes all the way up to "over 200" at others.

"And," Police Chief D. Vaiden Long added, "it seemed like it was mostly younger kids—there weren't many of these big bruisers horning in."

City officials proclaimed Wednesday night as Beggars' Night, so that youngsters wouldn't be on the streets all week, and also so that it wouldn't conflict with the Jaycee's parade and celebration tonight.

3rd Man Held In Murder of Akron Grocer

AKRON (AP)—A third man was charged with first degree murder today in the slaying of a grocer here Monday night.

He is John Miller, 26, who was arrested here Tuesday.

Previously charged with murder in the killing of Russell Lee Foutty, 46, was Miller's brother, Richard, 29, and Jack Foutty, 30, nephew of the slain man. Young Foutty is still at large.

The grocer was shot down in the driveway of his home as he resisted a holdup attempt. Police said that before he died Foutty shot and critically wounded one of his assailants, but the others escaped in an automobile. The day's receipts from his grocery, $1,574, were found in the grocer's pockets.

Richard Miller is in Akron General Hospital paralyzed from the waist down as the result of a bullet in his spine. Police said he named Jack Foutty as the finger man in the slaying.

Police said Miller told them he was preparing to hit the grocer on the head with a softball bat, purchased for use in the holdup, when the shooting started.

Bruce W. Hoover, 20, of Akron, is held on a suspicion charge as a member of the robbery gang, but police said he apparently was not connected with the slaying.

'Severe Verdict' Faces Zhukov, Italians Say

ROME (AP) — Italy's Communist party organ today predicted Russia's top leaders would issue a "severe verdict" against Marshal Georgi Zhukov and hinted he would be accused of bonapartism.

The Moscow correspondent of the paper, L'Unita, said the ruling Presidium of the Communist party Central Committee had completed a two-day session on the case of the ousted defense minister Tuesday night.

1956 Total Said Topped By 1,187

2 Government Groups Take Aim Against Disease Drug Claims

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Deaths from influenza and pneumonia increased by 28 per cent last week in the United States, as compared with the week before.

Reporting this today in its weekly summary of the Asian influenza situation, the U. S. Public Health Service said there were 1,187 more deaths from those diseases in 108 cities between Sept. 1 and Oct. 25 than there were last year.

There have been 6,438 more deaths from all causes in 114 cities in the same period.

In Ohio, the total of deaths officially attributed to Asian flu reached at least 23 today. Two more were reported in Cleveland, bringing the total for that area to seven.

A federal health service spokesman said the number of excess deaths is a direct indication of the impact of Asian flu.

He also expressed the opinion there have now been more than six million flu cases in this country since early June.

* * *

THE SUMMARY said the estimated death rate from flu and pneumonia in 108 cities for the week ended Oct. 26 was more than 2½ times that for the same week last year.

Simultaneously with release of the summary, two federal agencies announced intention to take prompt action if manufacturers make false or misleading claims that their drug products are effective in preventing or treating Asian flu.

The Health Service says inoculation with vaccine is the only reliable means of preventing flu.

The Federal Trade Commission, which enforces the federal law against false advertising, and the Food and Drug Administration, which has authority to proceed against ineffective products and false labeling, issued separate statements.

The FTC spokesman said:

"There is no doubt that the commission will proceed against any person or corporation who attempts to associate his product with a disease it cannot prevent, alleviate, nor cure."

The FDA statement pointed out the Health Service's viewpoint on use of vaccine and said:

"Some drug preparations will relieve some of the discomforts of influenza, and these have a proper place in treating the patient. But aside from the vaccine, there are no drugs available to prevent this disease."

New Air-to-Surface Missile Now Operational with U. S.

PINECASTLE AIR BASE, Fla. (AP)—The new air-to-surface guided missile, Rascal, went into operation officially with the Air Force today.

A B47 jet bomber landed here with one of the 32-foot-long, four foot diameter missiles slung beneath its wings.

The arrival marked formal delivery to the Strategic Air Command (SAC) of the new weapon, the first air-to-ground missile assigned to a combat wing.

This was the first public showing of the Bell Aircraft Co.'s Rascal in position, ready for launching. The Air Force said previous displays merely have shown the Rascal at rest on a stand.

The delivery also marked the end of the research and development testing phase for the weapon. B47 crews stationed here already have started training in the handling of the Rascal, although it has not yet been announced which wing and base will be the first to get this equipment.

THE AIR FORCE announced earlier this week that the Rascal, capable of carrying an atomic or hydrogen warhead, had scored direct hits in four firing tests within the last five weeks.

The missile was fired long range (the exact distance a secret but it was described as miles) from a B47 over a New Mexico test range at a ground target with a radius of only 1,500 feet.

The Rascal was put into operation in connection with the opening of the week-long annual SAC bombing, navigation and reconnaissance competition.

Pilots of the two Royal Air Force planes, an Avro Vulcan and a Vickers Valiant, won the first two places in the bomb line in a drawing for starting positions.

As a result, the Vulcan, commanded by Wing Commander Alan D. Frank, 40, roared off this central Florida air base at 10:44 p.m. Wednesday and headed for Dallas, Tex., navigation turning point for the three simulated bombing targets, Kansas City and St. Louis and Atlanta.

The Vulcan, a four-engine medium jet bomber greatly resembling the U. S. Air Force B58 Hustler, took off in a surprisingly short distance and climbed steeply, its nose high.

Altogether, 33 B47s representing a like number of SAC wings, including the two at Lockbourne Air Force Base, Ohio made the five to six hour flight from this base in the opening of the week-long competition.

Army Accuses Sergeant, 40, Of Espionage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has filed espionage charges against M. Sgt. Roy Adair Rhodes, who testified as a government witness at the recent trial of Russian spy Rudolph Abel.

The 40-year-old soldier testified he didn't know Abel and never worked for him.

But Rhodes also said in court he received between $2,500 and $3,000 from the Russians for information he supplied them while assigned to the U. S. Embassy in Moscow. He was there from May 1951 to July 1953.

An Army announcement Wednesday said Rhodes had been charged in court-martial proceedings with two specifications alleging a conspiracy to violate the espionage laws, and one specification alleging he signed an official document without disclosing his prior association with Red agents.

Rhodes, from Eatonton, N. J., now is being held at Ft. Belvoir, Va. Conviction could carry a maximum of life imprisonment.

Abel will be sentenced Nov. 15 The sergeant was brought into the case after testimony indicated Abel had a file on Rhodes under the code name "Quebec."

Trick-or-Treat Treat: 3 Beers

MANSFIELD (AP)—A father complained to police Wednesday night that his child came home with three bottles of beer in his trick-or-treat bag.

Police found the beer-donor, who explained:

"I ran out of cookies and candy so I gave the kids some beer and told them to take it home to their fathers."

4 County Schools Reopen; Absences Up in City System

The flu bug continued its activities in Fayette County Thursday although four Miami Trace schools, which had been closed earlier in the week, reopened their doors. Some schools reported increasing absenteeism, but others showed better attendance than they have had all week.

At Central elementary school in the city system, there was one class Thursday in which 75 per cent of the students were away from their desks. The class teacher was absent too.

City Superintendent W. A. Smith reported that 18.6 per cent of the city's students were not at their desks. That is an increase over the 16.8 per cent absenteeism reported Wednesday.

The four Miami Trace schools which reopened Thursday reported absenteeism as follows: Perry 33.3 per cent; Bloomingburg, 22.9 per cent; Marion School, 20.2 per cent, and Madison Mills, 19.6.

Only one school in the county remained closed Thursday. Chaffin was closed Tuesday and plans to open Friday morning.

* * *

JEFFERSONVILLE had better attendance Thursday than Wednesday. Overall absences Thursday accounted for 15.1 per cent of the school's enrollment. Wednesday the percentage was 18.7. Jeffersonville High School reported absenteeism at 12.9 per cent, against 16 per cent Wednesday. In the elementary school, absenteeism was 18.7 per cent Thursday, as against 21 per cent Wednesday.

Wilson, Milledgeville, Wayne and Eber schools all had more students present Thursday than Wednesday. Wilson reported 12 per cent absent Thursday; 17 per cent were absent Wednesday. Milledgeville had 18.1 per cent absent Thursday; Wednesday's percentage was 21.

Wayne had 16.1 per cent absent Thursday. Wednesday's absentees accounted for 18.9 per cent of the enrollment. Eber's percentage was down to 11.8 Thursday, practically normal. Wednesday's percentage was 14.4

Staunton and Bookwalter both have had perceptible jumps in absenteeism since Wednesday Staunton's absentees Wednesday amounted to 17.6 per cent; Thursday's percentage was 26.8. Bookwalter had 16.3 per cent absent Wednesday, but 21 per cent were absent Thursday.

The best attendance in the county was at Olive with only 5.7 per cent of its students absent.

Reconversion Work To Begin Soon

'Inch' Line To Carry Petroleum Products

There will be a rash of activity, during the next few weeks along the route of Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation's Little Big Inch pipeline through Northern Fayette County as workmen begin reconverting the line from natural gas service to a common carrier of petroleum products.

The workmen are expected to move into the area soon. Several weeks probably will be required to complete this phase of the task.

Baxter D. Goodrich, vice president and chief engineer of Texas Eastern, said that the work involves reconditioning the pipe for a different type of service.

He pointed out that the line was originally built to carry petroleum products, but has been used for 10 years as a natural gas carrier. Upon completion of this reconditioning program the line will be back in the service for which it was originally built.

When the reconditioning program is complete and the Little Big Inch is back in service as a products carrier, activities in this area will be much the same as they have been in the past, Goodrich said.

HE SAID the line has already been emptied of natural gas as part of the reconditioning process. It will now be filled with water and placed under pressure. This will permit thorough testing of the line after which the water will be removed. With some additional work the line will then be ready to accept clean petroleum products.

While the facilities are being tested in this area all persons will be requested to stay away from the pipeline right-of-way and farmers will be asked to keep their livestock from straying on it.

Airplanes flying low along the pipeline right-of-way will be a sign that testing operations are under way. Texas Eastern personnel will inform motorists in the vicinity of testing operations of what is occurring.

Some Heads To Roll For This Political Goof

AUBURN, N. Y. (AP)—The Democratic party sent out post cards announcing a citywide rally Friday night. The last line on the printed cards read: "On Tuesday, Nov. 5, vote row A all the way."

Officers fanned out around Lone Star Lake, just west of the huge steel plant, but couldn't pinpoint the blast site. Most reports indicated the blast occurred somewhere in that vicinity.

Daingerfield is a small town about 160 miles east of Dallas.

In the last week, there have been four bombings, four incidents in which rifles or shotguns were fired into homes and uncounted threats against nonstrikers.

Ed Ball of Houston, staff representative for the United Steelworkers Union, insisted the violence was the work of individuals.

The plant employed some 3,600 persons before the walkout started Sept. 21. The union says 2,300 men still are out.

The dispute centers over the company's policy of filling job vacancies, a topic company officials said is not covered by the contract.

Jaycees' Celebration Winds Up Halloween Season Here Tonight

The Halloween season comes to a close in Fayette County Thursday night as the annual Jaycee-sponsored celebration brings down the curtains with a big downtown parade and a party at Gardner Park.

The Halloween Extravaganza follows close on the heels of 'Beggars Night' which brought out an estimated 1,500 youngsters Wednesday. Indications are the trick-or-treat activity was executed without major eruption.

Windows— especially in the downtown district— got a thorough soaping. But other than that, officers had no trouble on the night the streets were full of little spooks.

• • •

EVERY INDICATION is that, barring more rain, the Jaycee celebration will go ahead on schedule tonight.

Spooks, hobgoblins, cartoon characters and other parade marchers are due to form on Temple St. at North St. at 7 p. m., so they will be ready to march at 7:30.

The parade will go down North St. to Court, across Court St. to Main, down Main St. to Circle Ave. and across Circle Ave. to Gardner Park, where the celebration will be held.

Prizes for the best costumes and floats will be awarded at the park. There will be games, and everybody concerned is making a special effort to see that the annual pie-eating contest is a gooey success.

The Washington C. H. High School marching band and the Junior High band will accompany the marchers on their rounds. Treats will be given at the park by the Jaycees.

THE TRICK-OR-TREAT League was out in force Wednesday night but there were indications it wasn't as heavy this year as it was a year ago. Estimates received by the Record-Herald Thursday morning ran from "none" at some homes all the way up to "over 200" at others.

"And," Police Chief D. Vaiden Long added, "it seemed like it was mostly younger kids—there weren't many of these big bruisers horning in."

City officials proclaimed Wednesday night as Beggars' Night, so that youngsters wouldn't be on the streets all week, and also so that it wouldn't conflict with the Jaycee's parade and celebration tonight.

3rd Man Held In Murder of Akron Grocer

AKRON (AP)—A third man was charged with first degree murder today in the slaying of a grocer here Monday night.

He is John Miller, 26, who was arrested here Tuesday.

Previously charged with murder in the killing of Russell Lee Foutty, 46, was Miller's brother, Richard, 29, and Jack Foutty, 30, nephew of the slain man. Young Foutty is still at large.

The grocer was shot down in the driveway of his home as he resisted a holdup attempt. Police said that before he died Foutty shot and critically wounded one of his assailants, but the others escaped in an automobile. The day's receipts from his grocery, $1,574, were found in the grocer's pockets.

Richard Miller is in Akron General Hospital paralyzed from the waist down as the result of a bullet in his spine. Police said he named Jack Foutty as the finger man in the slaying.

Police said Miller told them he was preparing to hit the grocer on the head with a softball bat, purchased for use in the holdup, when the shooting started.

Bruce W. Hoover, 20, of Akron, is held on a suspicion charge as a member of the robbery gang, but police said he apparently was not connected with the slaying.

'Severe Verdict' Faces Zhukov, Italians Say

ROME (AP) — Italy's Communist party organ today predicted Russia's top leaders would issue a "severe verdict" against Marshal Georgi Zhukov and hinted he would be accused of bonapartism.

The Moscow correspondent of the paper, L'Unita, said the ruling Presidium of the Communist party Central Committee had completed a two-day session on the case of the ousted defense minister Tuesday night.

Army Accuses Sergeant, 40, Of Espionage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has filed espionage charges against M. Sgt. Roy Adair Rhodes, who testified as a government witness at the recent trial of Russian spy Rudolph Abel.

The 40-year-old soldier testified he didn't know Abel and never worked for him.

But Rhodes also said in court he received between $2,500 and $3,000 from the Russians for information he supplied them while assigned to the U. S. Embassy in Moscow. He was there from May 1951 to July 1953.

An Army announcement Wednesday said Rhodes had been charged in court-martial proceedings with two specifications alleging a conspiracy to violate the espionage laws, and one specification alleging he signed an official document without disclosing his prior association with Red agents.

Rhodes, from Eatonton, N. J., now is being held at Ft. Belvoir, Va. Conviction could carry a maximum of life imprisonment.

Abel will be sentenced Nov. 15 The sergeant was brought into the case after testimony indicated Abel had a file on Rhodes under the code name "Quebec."

Trick-or-Treat Treat: 3 Beers

MANSFIELD (AP)—A father complained to police Wednesday night that his child came home with three bottles of beer in his trick-or-treat bag.

Police found the beer-donor, who explained:

"I ran out of cookies and candy so I gave the kids some beer and told them to take it home to their fathers."

1956 Total Said Topped By 1,187

2 Government Groups Take Aim Against Disease Drug Claims

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Deaths from influenza and pneumonia increased by 28 per cent last week in the United States, as compared with the week before.

Reporting this today in its weekly summary of the Asian influenza situation, the U. S. Public Health Service said there were 1,187 more deaths from those diseases in 108 cities between Sept. 1 and Oct. 25 than there were last year.

There have been 6,438 more deaths from all causes in 114 cities in the same period.

In Ohio, the total of deaths officially attributed to Asian flu reached at least 23 today. Two more were reported in Cleveland, bringing the total for that area to seven.

A federal health service spokesman said the number of excess deaths is a direct indication of the impact of Asian flu.

He also expressed the opinion there have now been more than six million flu cases in this country since early June.

• • •

THE SUMMARY said the estimated death rate from flu and pneumonia in 108 cities for the week ended Oct. 26 was more than 2½ times that for the same week last year.

Simultaneously with release of the summary, two federal agencies announced intention to take prompt action if manufacturers make false or misleading claims that their drug products are effective in preventing or treating Asian flu.

The Health Service says inoculation with vaccine is the only reliable means of preventing flu.

The Federal Trade Commission, which enforces the federal law against false advertising, and the Food and Drug Administration, which has authority to proceed against ineffective products and false labeling, issued separate statements.

The FTC spokesman said:

"There is no doubt that the commission will proceed against any person or corporation who attempts to associate his product with a disease it cannot prevent, alleviate, nor cure."

The FDA statement pointed out the Health Service's viewpoint on use of vaccine and said:

"Some drug preparations will relieve some of the discomforts of influenza, and these have a proper place in treating the patient. But aside from the vaccine, there are no drugs available to prevent this disease."

New Air-to-Surface Missile Now Operational with U. S.

PINECASTLE AIR BASE, Fla. (AP)—The new air-to-surface guided missile, Rascal, went into operation officially with the Air Force today.

A B47 jet bomber landed here with one of the 32-foot-long, four foot diameter missiles slung beneath its wings.

The arrival marked formal delivery to the Strategic Air Command (SAC) of the new weapon, the first air-to-ground missile assigned to a combat wing.

This was the first public showing of the Bell Aircraft Co.'s Rascal in position, ready for launching. The Air Force said previous displays merely have shown the Rascal at rest on a stand.

The delivery also marked the end of the research and development testing phase for the weapon. B47 crews stationed here already have started training in the handling of the Rascal, although it has not yet been announced which wing and base will be the first to get this equipment.

THE AIR FORCE announced earlier this week that the Rascal, capable of carrying an atomic or hydrogen warhead, had scored direct hits in four firing tests within the last five weeks.

The missile was fired long range (the exact distance a secret but it was described as miles) from a B47 over a New Mexico test range at a ground target with a radius of only 1,500 feet.

The Rascal was put into operation in connection with the opening of the week-long annual SAC bombing, navigation and reconnaissance competition.

Pilots of the two Royal Air Force planes, an Avro Vulcan and a Vickers Valiant, won the first two places in the bomb line in a drawing for starting positions.

As a result, the Vulcan, commanded by Wing Commander Alan D. Frank, 40, roared off this central Florida air base at 10:44 p.m. Wednesday and headed for Dallas, Tex., navigation turning point for the three simulated bombing targets, Kansas City and St. Louis and Atlanta.

The Vulcan, a four-engine medium jet bomber greatly resembling the U. S. Air Force B58 Hustler, took off in a surprisingly short distance and climbed steeply, its nose high.

Altogether, 33 B47s representing a like number of SAC wings, including the two at Lockbourne Air Force Base, Ohio made the five to six hour flight from this base in the opening of the week-long competition.

4 County Schools Reopen; Absences Up in City System

The flu bug continued its activities in Fayette County Thursday although four Miami Trace schools, which had been closed earlier in the week, reopened their doors. Some schools reported increasing absenteeism, but others showed better attendance than they have had all week.

At Central elementary school in the city system, there was one class Thursday in which 75 per cent of the students were away from their desks. The class teacher was absent too.

City Superintendent W. A. Smith reported that 18.6 per cent of the city's students were not at their desks. That is an increase over the 16.8 per cent absenteeism reported Wednesday.

The four Miami Trace schools which reopened Thursday reported absenteeism as follows: Perry 33.3 per cent; Bloomingburg, 22.9 per cent; Marion School, 20.2 per cent, and Madison Mills, 19.6.

Only one school in the county remained closed Thursday. Chaffin was closed Tuesday and plans to open Friday morning.

• • •

JEFFERSONVILLE had better attendance Thursday than Wednesday. Overall absences Thursday accounted for 15.1 per cent of the school's enrollment. Wednesday the percentage was 18.7. Jeffersonville High School reported absenteeism at 12.9 per cent, against 16 per cent Wednesday. In the elementary school, absenteeism was 18.7 per cent Thursday, as against 21 per cent Wednesday.

Wilson, Milledgeville, Wayne and Eber schools all had more students present Thursday than Wednesday. Wilson reported 12 per cent absent Thursday; 17 per cent were absent Wednesday. Milledgeville had 18.1 per cent absent Thursday; Wednesday's percentage was 21.

Wayne had 16.1 per cent absent Thursday. Wednesday's absentees accounted for 18.9 per cent of the enrollment. Eber's percentage was down to 11.8 Thursday, practically normal. Wednesday's percentage was 14.4

Staunton and Bookwalter both have had perceptible jumps in absenteeism since Wednesday Staunton's absentees Wednesday amounted to 17.6 per cent; Thursday's percentage was 26.8. Bookwalter had 16.3 per cent absent Wednesday, but 21 per cent were absent Thursday.

The best attendance in the county was at Olive with only 5.7 per cent of its students absent.

'Inch' Line To Carry Petroleum Products

There will be a rash of activity, during the next few weeks along the route of Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation's Little Big Inch pipeline through Northern Fayette County as workmen begin reconverting the line from natural gas service to a common carrier of petroleum products.

The workmen are expected to move into the area soon. Several weeks probably will be required to complete this phase of the task.

Baxter D. Goodrich, vice president and chief engineer of Texas Eastern, said that the work involves reconditioning the pipe for a different type of service.

He pointed out that the line was originally built to carry petroleum products, but has been used for 10 years as a natural gas carrier. Upon completion of this reconditioning program the line will be back in the service for which it was originally built.

When the reconditioning program is complete and the Little Big Inch is back in service as a products carrier, activities in this area will be much the same as they have been in the past, Goodrich said.

HE SAID the line has already been emptied of natural gas as part of the reconditioning process. It will now be filled with water and placed under pressure. This will permit thorough testing of the line after which the water will be removed. With some additional work the line will then be ready to accept clean petroleum products.

While the facilities are being tested in this area all persons will be requested to stay away from the pipeline right-of-way and farmers will be asked to keep their livestock from straying on it.

Airplanes flying low along the pipeline right-of-way will be a sign that testing operations are under way. Texas Eastern personnel will inform motorists in the vicinity of testing operations of what is occurring.

C. C. Arbogast, Racehorse 'Smithy,' Killed in Crash

C. C. Arbogast, 73, of St. Paris, widely known blacksmith, whose specialty was shoeing race horses, died about 9:40 p. m. Wednesday when his pickup truck ran off a Champaign County road, hit a bridge, and capsized into a ditch.

The mishap occurred on State Route 506 at Nettle Creek about a mile and a quarter south of the U. S. 36 intersection. Arbogast, alone in the light truck, was on his way home to St. Paris from Xenia.

Dr. M. J. Towle, acting Champaign County coronor, said he died of a skull fracture, a crushed chest, and other injuries resulting from the crash.

Deputy Leslie Leasure, investigating for the Champaign County sheriff's office, said Arbogast's truck was out of control for about 200 feet and that "he must have been traveling very fast." Leasure added that Arbogast had no record for speeding.

* * *

THE NORTHBOUND auto apparently went off the right side of the highway, ran through a ditch about 180 feet, flew into mid - air, hit the side of the bridge and landed upside down on the bank across the creek. Arbogast must have died instantly, the acting coronor said.

Officers said they intend to make some investigation into the reasons why Arbogast's truck left the road. Dr. Towle said he was "quite sure" the victim did not suffer a heart attack.

Born in Champaign County, Arbogast lived all his life in the St. Paris area, although his work with racehorses made him known throughout the state and especially in Fayette County.

HE HAD COME HERE for many years to set up his shop on the Fairground, where so many race horses always have wintered. During the last 15 or 20 years, he had shod literally hundreds of trotters and pacers and many fine harness and saddle horses, during the heyday of horse shows here. He often stayed here nearly all winter, living in a hotel.

He had come here for the Fair, too, year after year. For the last several years, he had set up his forge in a tent near the gate to the race track and had come to be almost as much of a fixture at the Fair as the stables and grandstand.

He is survived by his wife, Sylvia, a daughter, Mrs. Loren McInturff of St. Paris, a grandson and three step-grandchildren.

Services will be at 2 p. m. Saturday in the Wikham Funeral Home, St. Paris, where friends may call from 7 to 9:30 p. m. Thursday. Burial will be at St. Paris.

Smoking Is Blamed For King's Death

LONDON (AP)—A British doctor declared in a book published today that the death of King George VI resulted from his heavy indulgence in cigarettes.

The king died in 1952 after an operation for lung cancer. The immediate cause of death was coronary thrombosis.

Dr. Lennox Johnson, in his book "The Disease of Tobacco Smoking and Its Cure," said he learned from one of the King's surgeons that although the monarch rarely smoked in public, he was a "consistently heavy smoker" in private life.

$162,000 Cache Report Is 'True'

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — Vernon L. Maynor, former Durham policeman, told nothing but the truth this week when he said he found an armload of money — about $162,000—buried on his property.

Two men were helping him dig a drainage ditch when he found it, although they didn't get a very good look at the bills.

It was wrapped nearly in packages, he said.

"All of the bills," he remarked, "were dated before 1946."

Maynor today admitted with a wink that the $162,000 was in Confederate money.

Chest Campaign Still $7,933 Short of Goal

Red Feather Drive To Be Extended, Officials Announce

The Fayette County Community Chest held $15,566.58 Thursday morning, but this is $7,933.42 less than is needed to meet the request of the 11 participating organizations. Thus, the campaign, which started Oct. 7, has reached about 65 per cent of its $23,500 goal in a little more than three weeks.

Community Chest officials had expressed the hope that the campaign could be completed sucessfully by the end of October, but with nearly $8,000 to go, Perse Harlow, executive secretary, said Thursday that "it's obvious the campaign will have to be extended if the goal is to be reached"

Harlow said only about $1,000 had been turned in by campaigners during the last two days.

The wave of illness that has been sweeping the county was blamed for slowing down the campaign.

* * *

CHEST OFFICIALS admitted they are disappointed over the progress made, but hasten to say they are not discouraged. They express confidence that, once the people get back to normal health, the canvasses will pick up again.

A check Thursday, Harlow said, shows reports have not yet been received from 60 business, industries, professional groups organizations and employe groups. This phase of the campaign started Oct. 7, a week earlier than the house-to-house campaign in the residential sections of Washington C. H., the four villages and rural areas of the county.

The check also shows, Harlow said, that 90 of the nearly 250 solicitors in Washington C. H. and 78 of the approximately 125 in the rural areas have not reported. He commented that some of the solicitors probably have completed their canvasses, but have not yet reported.

REPORTS from Bloomingburg and Jeffersonville have not yet come in. The Bloomingburg campaign is being made by Mrs. Elton Elliott and Mrs. Harry Craig and a group of Bloomingburg High School Y-Teen girls.

The canvass in Jeffersonville is being made by Mrs. Tommy Sams, chairman, Mrs. Verna Howland, Miss Mary Dunn, Mrs. Blanca McKee, Mrs. Jack Mitchell, Mrs. Faye Tracey, Mrs. Marguerite Flax and Miss Vivian Mabra.

'Old Drum', Whose Death Inspired Famous Speech, To Have Monument

By GERALD S. SNYDER
Central Press Assn.

WARRENSBURG, Mo — The growing list of those sending donations to build a memorial to Old Drum, the hound dog that inspired Sen. George Graham Vest's famous tribute to a dog, is nearly complete.

Dog lovers and animal sympathizers from a half a dozen countries have sent contributions to the Old Drum fund, which is now only $200 short of the $2,500 needed to complete the memorial.

Donations have been received from school children, from sportsmen's associations, from former President Harry Truman ("I am very much interested in a movement to build a memorial to Old Drum"), and from countless other persons from all parts of the world.

Sen. Vest's famous dog speech was delivered in the Johnson County courthouse here Sept. 23, 1870, during the trial of a suit to collect damages for the shooting of Old Drum.

* * *

THE LAWSUIT resulting from Old Drum's death made history and Sen. Vest's eulogy still ranks as one of the most beloved tributes ever made to man's best friend.

The speech Vest made (he was then a young lawyer) won the case for Charles Burden whose favorite hound, Old Drum, had been shot by a neighbor, Leonidas Hornsby.

Hornsby had sworn to kill the first dog that came onto his property after a number of his sheep had been found dead. Hornsby shot Drum after he'd found the dog prowling around his yard one night, but whether Old Drum actually ever killed any sheep has never been proved.

Burden sued Hornsby for damages and the battle that ensued was long and involved. Finally it was Hornsby who took the case to the Court of Common Pleas at Warrensburg, and it was there that Senator Vest represented Burden.

In his closing appeal to the jury, before a packed courtoom, Vest played on the human emotions to such an extent that he created a classic speech which has since been reprinted millions of times, and translated in almost all languages.

Incidentally, the jury found for Burden, granting the full sum asked for damages.

* * *

A PLAQUE on which the speech will be inscribed will be placed under the statue—to be dedicated around June 1, 1958. It will read, in part:

"Gentlemen of the Jury. . .The one absolutely unselfish friend that a man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him and the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous is his dog.

"A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground, where the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side.

"He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer, he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounters with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince.

"When all other friends desert he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces, he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens.

"If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him to guard against danger, to fight the last scene of all comes, and death takes the master in its embrace and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by his graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even to death."

Butch, a nine-year-old black-and-tan coon hound, has been chosen to model for the statue of Old Drum. This is the pose in which Old Drum will be immortalized in durable bronze.

A REPLY TO Misrepresentation!

Three candidates for the County Board of Education injected my name in ads appearing October 25 and October 29, apparently feeling that by so doing they would gain votes for themselves.

In justice to the voters, their misrepresentations should be clarified.

ALL that has ever been requested of Superintendent Hilty and the County Board of Education has been an honest, competent and unbiased survey of the educational needs of our children. This was the sole purpose of the filing of the Citizens Committee petition in 1955.

On February 6, 1957, the Court recognized the urgent need for an impartial study of the County's school problems and said, "I feel that it certainly should be recommended strongly to whoever is on this citizen's committee that they do employ some outside source, someone that does not have this feeling of animosity that has emanated for perhaps a year over this Citizen's Committee, so that they can make the correct and necessary recommendations as to the formation of the school district of Fayette County."

Superintendent Hilty, the County and Miami Trace School Boards have already spent thousands of dollars of tax money to prevent a survey, - enough to pay for a survey.

Do they fear that a survey will give you a chance to approve a better educational program than the one they propose?

Do they fear that a study might expose an extravagance, incompetent planning and organization which still means a bad school situation?

CONTRARY TO WHAT THEY SAY, A CITIZENS COMMITTEE SURVEY CANNOT DESTROY MIAMI TRACE OR DISREGARD THE WILL OF THE VOTERS.

Any Citizens Committee sponsored study, any study by the State Board of Education can only lead to recommendations which are placed on the ballot and are subject to the approval of Miami Trace voters.

Why does this group which sponsors misleading information, also participate in casting reflection on the integrity of member of the State Department of Education, Ohio State, Miami and Akron Universities, Probate Court Judges and many others?

For what purposes and to serve whose purposes, have personal abuse, boycott threats, attempt to get people's jobs, and community hate been generated and used in relation to the school affairs of Fayette County? I have proof of these assertions.

Be sure and read my next message. It will give further information on the activities of some of those who support the ideas which have placed us in our present deplorable situation.

C. C. Arbogast, Racehorse 'Smithy,' Killed in Crash

C. C. Arbogast, 73, of St. Paris, widely known blacksmith, whose specialty was shoeing race horses, died about 9:40 p. m. Wednesday when his pickup truck ran off a Champaign County road, hit a bridge, and capsized into a ditch.

The mishap occurred on State Route 506 at Nettle Creek about a mile and a quarter south of the U. S. 36 intersection. Arbogast, alone in the light truck, was on his way home to St. Paris from Xenia.

Dr. M. J. Towle, acting Champaign County coronor, said he died of a skull fracture, a crushed chest, and other injuries resulting from the crash.

Deputy Leslie Leasure, investigating for the Champaign County sheriff's office, said Arbogast's truck was out of control for about 200 feet and that "he must have been traveling very fast." Leasure added that Arbogast had no record for speeding.

* * *

THE NORTHBOUND auto apparently went off the right side of the highway, ran through a ditch about 180 feet, flew into mid - air, hit the side of the bridge and landed upside down on the bank across the creek. Arbogast must have died instantly, the acting coronor said.

Officers said they intend to make some investigation into the reasons why Arbogast's truck left the road. Dr. Towle said he was "quite sure" the victim did not suffer a heart attack.

Born in Champaign County, Arbogast lived all his life in the St. Paris area, although his work with racehorses made him known throughout the state and especially in Fayette County.

* * *

HE HAD COME HERE for many years to set up his shop on the Fairground, where so many race horses always have wintered. During the last 15 or 20 years, he had shod literally hundreds of trotters and pacers and many fine harness and saddle horses, during the heyday of horse shows here. He often stayed here nearly all winter, living in a hotel.

He had come here for the Fair, too, year after year. For the last several years, he had set up his forge in a tent near the gate to the race track and had come to be almost as much of a fixture at the Fair as the stables and grandstand.

He is survived by his wife, Sylvia, a daughter, Mrs. Loren McInturff of St. Paris, a grandson and three step-grandchildren.

Services will be at 2 p. m. Saturday in the Wikham Funeral Home, St. Paris, where friends may call from 7 to 9:30 p. m. Thursday. Burial will be at St. Paris.

Smoking Is Blamed For King's Death

LONDON (AP)—A British doctor declared in a book published today that the death of King George VI resulted from his heavy indulgence in cigarettes.

The king died in 1952 after an operation for lung cancer. The immediate cause of death was coronary thrombosis.

Dr. Lennox Johnson, in his book "The Disease of Tobacco Smoking and Its Cure," said he learned from one of the King's surgeons that although the monarch rarely smoked in public, he was a "consistently heavy smoker" in private life.

$162,000 Cache Report Is 'True'

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — Vernon L. Maynor, former Durham policeman, told nothing but the truth this week when he said he found an armload of money — about $162,000—buried on his property.

Two men were helping him dig a drainage ditch when he found it, although they didn't get a very good look at the bills.

It was wrapped nearly in packages, he said.

"All of the bills," he remarked, "were dated before 1946."

Maynor today admitted with a wink that the $162,000 was in Confederate money.

Chest Campaign Still $7,933 Short of Goal

Red Feather Drive To Be Extended, Officials Announce

The Fayette County Community Chest held $15,566.58 Thursday morning, but this is $7,933.42 less than is needed to meet the request of the 11 participating organizations. Thus, the campaign, which started Oct. 7, has reached about 65 per cent of its $23,500 goal in a little more than three weeks.

Community Chest officials had expressed the hope that the campaign could be completed sucessfully by the end of October, but with nearly $8,000 to go, Perse Harlow, executive secretary, said Thursday that "it's obvious the campaign will have to be extended if the goal is to be reached"

Harlow said only about $1,000 had been turned in by campaigners during the last two days.

The wave of illness that has been sweeping the county was blamed for slowing down the campaign.

* * *

CHEST OFFICIALS admitted they are disappointed over the progress made, but hasten to say they are not discouraged. They express confidence that, once the people get back to normal health, the canvasses will pick up again.

A check Thursday, Harlow said, shows reports have not yet been received from 60 business, industries, professional groups organizations and employe groups. This phase of the campaign started Oct. 7, a week earlier than the house-to-house campaign in the residential sections of Washington C. H., the four villages and rural areas of the county.

The check also shows, Harlow said, that 90 of the nearly 250 solicitors in Washington C. H. and 78 of the approximately 125 in the rural areas have not reported. He commented that some of the solicitors probably have completed their canvasses, but have not yet reported.

'Old Drum', Whose Death Inspired Famous Speech, To Have Monument

By GERALD S. SNYDER
Central Press Assn.

WARRENSBURG, Mo — The growing list of those sending donations to build a memorial to Old Drum, the hound dog that inspired Sen. George Graham Vest's famous tribute to a dog, is nearly complete.

Dog lovers and animal sympathizers from a half a dozen countries have sent contributions to the Old Drum fund, which is now only $200 short of the $2,500 needed to complete the memorial.

Donations have been received from school children, from sportsmen's associations, from former President Harry Truman ("I am very much interested in a movement to build a memorial to Old Drum"), and from countless other persons from all parts of the world.

Sen. Vest's famous dog speech was delivered in the Johnson County courthouse here Sept. 23, 1870, during the trial of a suit to collect damages for the shooting of Old Drum.

* * *

THE LAWSUIT resulting from Old Drum's death made history and Sen. Vest's eulogy still ranks as one of the most beloved tributes ever made to man's best friend.

The speech Vest made (he was then a young lawyer) won the case for Charles Burden whose favorite hound, Old Drum, had been shot by a neighbor, Leonidas Hornsby.

Hornsby had sworn to kill the first dog that came onto his property after a number of his sheep had been found dead. Hornsby shot Drum after he'd found the dog prowling around his yard one night, but whether Old Drum actually ever killed any sheep has never been proved.

Burden sued Hornsby for damages and the battle that ensued was long and involved. Finally it was Hornsby who took the case to the Court of Common Pleas at Warrensburg, and it was there that Senator Vest represented Burden.

In his closing appeal to the jury, before a packed courtroom, Vest played on the human emotions to such an extent that he created a classic speech which has since been reprinted millions of times, and translated in almost all languages.

Incidentally, the jury found for Burden, granting the full sum asked for damages.

* * *

A PLAQUE on which the speech will be inscribed will be placed under the statue—to be dedicated around June 1, 1958. It will read, in part:

"Gentlemen of the Jury. . .The one absolutely unselfish friend that a man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him and the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous is his dog.

"A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground, where the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side.

"He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer, he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounters with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince.

"When all other friends desert he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces, he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens.

"If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him to guard against danger, to fight the last scene of all comes, and death takes the master in its embrace and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by his graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even to death."

Butch, a nine-year-old black-and-tan coon hound, has been chosen to model for the statue of Old Drum. This is the pose in which Old Drum will be immortalized in durable bronze.

A REPLY TO Misrepresentation!

Three candidates for the County Board of Education injected my name in ads appearing October 25 and October 29, apparently feeling that by so doing they would gain votes for themselves.

In justice to the voters, their misrepresentations should be clarified.

ALL that has ever been requested of Superintendent Hilty and the County Board of Education has been an honest, competent and unbiased survey of the educational needs of our children. This was the sole purpose of the filing of the Citizens Committee petition in 1955.

On February 6, 1957, the Court recognized the urgent need for an impartial study of the County's school problems and said, "I feel that it certainly should be recommended strongly to whoever is on this citizen's committee that they do employ some outside source, someone that does not have this feeling of animosity that has emanated for perhaps a year over this Citizen's Committee, so that they can make the correct and necessary recommendations as to the formation of the school district of Fayette County."

Superintendent Hilty, the County and Miami Trace School Boards have already spent thousands of dollars of tax money to prevent a survey, - enough to pay for a survey.

Do they fear that a survey will give you a chance to approve a better educational program than the one they propose?

Do they fear that a study might expose an extravagance, incompetent planning and organization which still means a bad school situation?

CONTRARY TO WHAT THEY SAY, A CITIZENS COMMITTEE SURVEY CANNOT DESTROY MIAMI TRACE OR DISREGARD THE WILL OF THE VOTERS.

Any Citizens Committee sponsored study, any study by the State Board of Education can only lead to recommendations which are placed on the ballot and are subject to the approval of Miami Trace voters.

Why does this group which sponsors misleading information, also participate in casting reflection on the integrity of member of the State Department of Education, Ohio State, Miami and Akron Universities, Probate Court Judges and many others?

For what purposes and to serve whose purposes, have personal abuse, boycott threats, attempt to get people's jobs, and community hate been generated and used in relation to the school affairs of Fayette County? I have proof of these assertions.

Be sure and read my next message. It will give further information on the activities of some of those who support the ideas which have placed us in our present deplorable situation.

Armco's Worthy Offer Could Help Many

The entire citizenship of our whole community should be grateful to Armco Drainage and Metal Products, Inc., one of the leading industries of this locality, for launching its new program of aid to education.

Within the next few years there could be many employees of this plant here to take advantage of corporation's fine program which pays college tuition costs for degree holding employees who desire to further their education.

Over this nation quite a number of big industries have recognized the advantage of financial and other types of educational encouragement to ambitious employees to help young people obtain better preparation in such fields of endeavor as engineering, science, business administration and accounting and perhaps other lines.

Industry has recognized the need to help many young people who take enough pride in their own advancement to definitely add to their value as employees. Such aid also makes those who are helped feel a greater loyalty to the factory or other business institution offering such a program.

There is many a young man, or woman, who would like to obtain more education along lines of employment where there is growing demand for efficiency, particularly in those branches of work that today's greater technology requires in systematic knowledge of the industrial arts.

Many of these employees may have family responsibilities and other calls for the money they earn at present, which prevent them from taking further college work.

These are the people that big companies like Armco are seeking to help. This big steel corporation has started such a worthy plan for the benefit of those who appreciate such an opportunity, in all of its many plants in this country.

We hope more and more employees of Armco in this city and county will grasp the offer made to them. Such a step easily could lead to future leadership in whatever future course they pursue.

Gang Killing: Unlawful Justice

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Here in the city that nearly every day can greet a dawn with a homicide, there came a sudden death gave the millions pause.

It was not a routine death in a city where many strange ways of death are routine.

This was a gangster death, the going away with five bullets in his body of the kind of a man who dies with big money in his pocket but who when alive, while often arrested is rarely convicted.

It is an example of the shivery "law beyond the law," the tale of a man who many people think deserves to be killed but he is killed not by the people, but by his people.

His death may be justice but it is not law. Police officials announced 100 detectives have been assigned to search for the killers, but very few of the 8½ million people who live here think the 100 badgewearers will ever bring the two killers to successful trial. Nor do they worry much.

For some reason that amazes more civilized nations, many Americans and some of the law officers they hire feel that justice is done when one underworld character exterminates another, a legal and moral attitude is indefensible as it is indigenous.

When I read in the papers that Albert Anastasia had been slain in the same New York hotel out of which Arnold Rothstein, the gambler, had struggled, clutching a dying belly, I could not escape the thought that these gangsters, like the German forces I had met in war, were military creatures of a military mind and sometimes were guilty of confronting a new situation with a habit rather than an improvisation.

As an observer of death on many fronts, however, some artistic and some inartistic, I must say the two-man execution of Anastasia marks a postwar low mark in the art of public assassination.

The two gunmen must have been nervous; that is bad. First, as their victim is sitting in a barber chair, they start talking to the barber.

Then they fired 10 shots at close range and were lucky that one of the five hit, according to the papers.

This percentage of target inaccuracy illustrates the danger of conversation during business hours. In wartime I have met able, disciplined soldiers who would hang their heads at this kind of performance.

But they must have had a well organized plan for they had flanking protectors and blockers outside the shop to take care of the outside possible interrupters. And I rather doubt that the men who shot Anastasia ran for a subway.

I realize this theory requires the employment of at least five men to kill one. But it is hard to figure how they could have used fewer and been sure of coping with the traffic problem.

What Are Russia's Objectives?

By George Sokolsky

The battleground of this period in the war between the Soviet universal state and the NATO group of nations is called the Middle East, an area which is described definitely in the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1957 as follows:

"For the purposes of this section, the term 'general area of the Middle East' means the area between and including (1) Libya on the west, (2) Turkey on the north, (3) Pakistan on the east, and (4) Saudi Arabia and Ethiopia on the south."

This is very broad and ungeographical but it serves to focus attention on the effort of Soviet Russia to surround, to isolate, and eventually to overcome Turkey, our best and perhaps only true ally in that part of the world.

The Turkish government has given circulation to a map showing the situation of Turkey in 1941.

The Nazis were in the Balkans and all southern Russia. Hitler had attempted to encircle Turkey by establishing a Nazi satellite government in Syria. That would have completed the circle and against that Turkey held out.

Today Turkey is faced by the same kind of encirclement. Although Greece and Turkey should be in alliance, Greece has been stirred up against Turkey over Cyprus which in the circumstances of the world today has become a snare and a nuisance. Bulgaria is a Russian satellite.

Soviet Russia lies opposite Turkey on the Black Sea and Syria has now become a Soviet satellite. Turkey is surrounded by enemies and there can be little question but that Soviet Russia plans the reduction of Turkey to the status of Egypt, namely, that of a country whose independence depends upon Soviet good will.

Just as Nasser would like to get out of the trap which he forged for himself, So Turkey prefers not to have anything at all to do with Soviet Russia.

The question then arises what we, Turkey's principal ally and defender, are willing to do. We cannot say of Turkey, as we may of other allies, that the Turks did not come to our aid when needed.

The Turks fought in Korea, by our side, with all that this small country was able to give. The Turks have been loyal to us. Are we going to be loyal to the Turks?

This could mean a general war. A very intelligent man once raised this question: Soviet Russia is a great distance ahead of us in the development of guided missiles and other non-conventional instruments of war.

Is not this the right moment for the Russians to produce a sudden attack upon us, one that is so swift and demaging that retaliation becomes trivial in comparison with the damage done here?

To this I replied, "No!" There is a pattern to Soviet conduct which has been constant and orthdox. This pattern would indicate that Soviet Russia does not destroy any of the physical equipment of the countries that she conquers.

There is less an ambition to overthrow than to absorb. To a materialistic Marxist it is ridiculous to burn down a church; it makes more sense to use it as a stable or as a club for young people.

What would be the advantage, the materialistic advantage, of destroying Detroit or Pittsburgh when both cities are so useful in the production of goods and equipment? It would seem to me that the Russian program, particularly as devised by the humorist Khrushchev, would be:

1. To scare the countries of Western Europe and of the Mediterranean into rejecting American friendship as to expensive;

2. To create district of the American government within the United States;

3. To use Sputniks like neon signs to establish Russia's superiority in fields that used to be America's specialty;

4. To keep the Middle East in constant disorder;

5. To weaken our economy by keeping us permanently on a war basis;

6. To pour billions into our stock exchange operations through Zurich, Amsterdam and London, to keep the stock market fluctuating like a roller-coaster.

If war comes, it will be accidental, but the above are the jobs that Soviet Russia expects will win the ultimate victory of reducing the West to a secondary position.

If the United States is isolated without a fighting war, Soviet Russia has achieved its objective.

Drug, Treatments Among Discoveries

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Two new drugs for treating rheumatoid arthritis and gout, a steroid for relieving itching and burning eyes, and a method of improving eyesight by use of electric current are the medical advances I'd like to discuss today in our monthly review of what's new in medicine.

The arthritis drugs are chloroquine and colcemide.

Chloroquine is reported to be good for long-term and safe control of certain cases of crippling rheumatoid arthritis.

While it gives no immediate evidence of any anti-inflammatory effect on joint swelling and pain, it appears to inactivate the disease process in the body as a whole.

Colcemide is a modern streamlined version of the 3,457-year-old drug, colchicine.

Both drugs are extracted from a particular variety of European and Asiatic crocus that blooms in the autumn.

Colcemide is reported to be highly effective in suppressing painful and distressing arthritic symptoms that accompany acute gouty attacks.

The new eye preparation is Metreton Ophthalmic Suspension, a steroid-antihistimine, which can be used for a wide variety of resistant allergic eye conditions.

It is reported to be especially helpful when the eyes are bothered with reactions from hay fever or asthma. Investigators say it gives prompt relief from itching, tearing and burning.

Application of mild electric current to the temples is said by two Maryland doctors to have improved vision greatly in 10 persons with varying degrees of visual loss.

In the cases studied the impaired vision apparently was due to vascular problems. The investigators reported the patients improved with the treatment "probably because of improved nutrition to the visual apparatus as a consequence of improved circulation."

It is nice for the public to know about the new advances in medicine, but it is also equally important to understand that medicines should always be taken under the advice of the doctor.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

T. W.: I have a cousin who suffers from hookworm disease. Can you tell me something about it?

Answer: Hookworm mainly affects people in the tropical and southern temperate zones.

The symptoms are laziness, weakness, loss of physical and mental ability, loss of weight and anemia.

The cure consists of the use of thymol or carbon tetrachloride, but always under the doctor's supervision.

ANASTASIA MAN—Handcuffed, Anthony Coppola, chauffeur and bodyguard of Albert Anastasia, who got his gangland come-uppence from blazing guns in a hotel barbershop, makes his secretive way from a patrol van to detention pen in New York. Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A PURSE-PROUD patroness of the arts asked a dealer, "Do these artists whose pictures cost so much learn to paint when they grow up, or do they inherit their talent?"

"My dear lady," the dealer replied patiently, "this heredity business is nonsense. Truthfully, did you ever hear of the mothers and fathers of Picasso and Rouault?"

"No, I didn't," admitted the patroness, "and to tell you the truth, I never heard of Picasso and Rouault, either."

The late Emile Henri Gauvreau, live wire editor in his day of some flamboyant papers and mags, stoically summed up his career in this sententious sentence: "I was part of that strange race of people, aptly described as spending their lives doing things they detest to make money they don't want to buy things they don't need to impress people they dislike."

WASHINGTON (AP)—No one mentioned Sputnik by name but the shadow of the Russian satellite across President Eisenhower's news conference Wednesday was just as real as if it had been revolving around his head.

The questions and answers reflected the shock of Sputnik on both the American people and the Eisenhower administration — a shock into an acute realization of Russian progress in missiles, science and scientific brains.

Nothing showed better the kind of silly paradise in which this country has been living than Eisenhower's own words in explaining his desire to promote American-British cooperation in nuclear development.

Under laws now on the books—they've been there for years—this country can't share its nuclear secrets with its allies although cooperation with them might have put the allies ahead of Russia.

These laws apparently were meant to prevent the secrets from falling into Russian hands. The Russians have been doing all right by themselves. Eisenhower pointed out:

"Most of our security laws . . . were written at a time when we thought we had a monopoly. Now we are getting to the point where we know that a great many of our secrets are known to the enemy, but they are still secret from our friends, which seems rather an anomalous situation."

As a result of Sputnik, Eisenhower will go to Paris in December for an Allied summit meeting to talk more cooperation on defense among the Allies. The British spurred him into that idea.

They had a real shock from Sputnik. Since the Russians were able to build a missile to shoot Sputnik into outer space, they should be able to build missiles that could be showered on Britain from Moscow.

Just how long the shock of Sputnik will affect the American people will depend in large part on what kind of leadership Eisenhower shows in keeping the public aware of the need for scientific development, especially in missiles and outer space progress.

This was brought home to him by one questioner who quoted an interview with Dr. Vannevar Bush. The World War II scientific director said he isn't optimistic about our overtaking the Russians in the outer space field unless the public is alerted, and that the alerting is the President's job.

Eisenhower in effect said he was aware of that but indicated it's a pretty complicated problem.

Candidate's One Plea; 'Don't Vote for Me'

"Don't vote for me," he told a "Know Your Candidate" rally.

The 65-year-old retired aluminum welder was not an enthusiastic candidate to begin with, and entered the race only at the urging of his friends. He says he's looking forward more to a long-planned trip to California than he is to being mayor.

Armco's Worthy Offer Could Help Many

The entire citizenship of our whole community should be grateful to Armco Drainage and Metal Products, Inc., one of the leading industries of this locality, for launching its new program of aid to education.

Within the next few years there could be many employees of this plant here to take advantage of corporation's fine program which pays college tuition costs for degree holding employees who desire to further their education.

Over this nation quite a number of big industries have recognized the advantage of financial and other types of educational encouragement to ambitious employees to help young people obtain better preparation in such fields of endeavor as engineering, science, business administration and accounting and perhaps other lines.

Industry has recognized the need to help many young people who take enough pride in their own advancement to definitely add to their value as employees. Such aid also makes those who are helped feel a greater loyalty to the factory or other business institution offering such a program.

There is many a young man, or woman, who would like to obtain more education along lines of employment where there is growing demand for efficiency, particularly in those branches of work that today's greater technology requires in systematic knowledge of the industrial arts.

Many of these employees may have family responsibilities and other calls for the money they earn at present, which prevent them from taking further college work.

These are the people that big companies like Armco are seeking to help. This big steel corporation has started such a worthy plan for the benefit of those who appreciate such an opportunity, in all of its many plants in this country.

We hope more and more employees of Armco in this city and county will grasp the offer made to them. Such a step easily could lead to future leadership in whatever future course they pursue.

The Nation Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—No one mentioned Sputnik by name but the shadow of the Russian satellite across President Eisenhower's news conference Wednesday was just as real as if it had been revolving around his head.

The questions and answers reflected the shock of Sputnik on both the American people and the Eisenhower administration — a shock into an acute realization of Russian progress in missiles, science and scientific brains.

Nothing showed better the kind of silly paradise in which this country has been living than Eisenhower's own words in explaining his desire to promote American-British cooperation in nuclear development.

Under laws now on the books—they've been there for years—this country can't share its nuclear secrets with its allies although cooperation with them might have put the allies ahead of Russia.

These laws apparently were meant to prevent the secrets from falling into Russian hands. The Russians have been doing all right by themselves. Eisenhower pointed out:

"Most of our security laws . . . were written at a time when we thought we had a monopoly. Now we are getting to the point where we know that a great many of our secrets are known to the enemy, but they are still secret from our friends, which seems rather an anomalous situation."

As a result of Sputnik, Eisenhower will go to Paris in December for an Allied summit meeting to talk more cooperation on defense among the Allies. The British spurred him into that idea.

They had a real shock from Sputnik. Since the Russians were able to build a missile to shoot Sputnik into outer space, they should be able to build missiles that could be showered on Britain from Moscow.

Just how long the shock of Sputnik will affect the American people will depend in large part on what kind of leadership Eisenhower shows in keeping the public aware of the need for scientific development, especially in missiles and outer space progress.

This was brought home to him by one questioner who quoted an interview with Dr. Vannevar Bush. The World War II scientific director said he isn't optimistic about our overtaking the Russians in the outer space field unless the public is alerted, and that the alerting is the President's job.

Eisenhower in effect said he was aware of that but indicated it's a pretty complicated problem.

Gang Killing: Unlawful Justice

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Here in the city that nearly every day can greet a dawn with a homicide, there came a sudden death gave the millions pause.

It was not a routine death in a city where many strange ways of death are routine.

This was a gangster death, the going away with five bullets in his body of the kind of a man who dies with big money in his pocket but who when alive, while often arrested is rarely convicted.

It is an example of the shivery "law beyond the law," the tale of a man who many people think deserves to be killed but he is killed not by the people, but by his people.

His death may be justice but it is not law. Police officials announced 100 detectives have been assigned to search for the killers, but very few of the 8½ million people who live here think the 100 badgewearers will ever bring the two killers to successful trial. Nor do they worry much.

For some reason that amazes more civilized nations, many Americans and some of the law officers they hire feel that justice is done when one underworld character exterminates another, a legal and moral attitude is indefensible as it is indigenous.

When I read in the papers that Albert Anastasia had been slain in the same New York hotel out of which Arnold Rothstein, the gambler, had struggled, clutching a dying belly, I could not escape the thought that these gangsters, like the German forces I had met in war, were military creatures of a military mind and sometimes were guilty of confronting a new situation with a habit rather than an improvisation.

As an observer of death on many fronts, however, some artistic and some inartistic, I must say the two-man execution of Anastasia marks a postwar low mark in the art of public assassination.

The two gunmen must have been nervous; that is bad. First, as their victim is sitting in a barber chair, they start talking to the barber.

Then they fired 10 shots at close range and were lucky that one of the five hit, according to the papers.

This percentage of target inaccuracy illustrates the danger of conversation during business hours. In wartime I have met able, disciplined soldiers who would hang their heads at this kind of performance.

But they must have had a well organized plan for they had flanking protectors and blockers outside the shop to take care of the outside possible interrupters. And I rather doubt that the men who shot Anastasia ran for a subway.

I realize this theory requires the employment of at least five men to kill one. But it is hard to figure how they could have used fewer and been sure of coping with the traffic problem.

What Are Russia's Objectives?

By George Sokolsky

The battleground of this period in the war between the Soviet universal state and the NATO group of nations is called the Middle East, an area which is described definitely in the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1957 as follows:

"For the purposes of this section, the term 'general area of the Middle East' means the area between and including (1) Libya on the west, (2) Turkey on the north, (3) Pakistan on the east, and (4) Saudi Arabia and Ethiopia on the south."

This is very broad and ungeographical but it serves to focus attention on the effort of Soviet Russia to surround, to isolate, and eventually to overcome Turkey, our best and perhaps only true ally in that part of the world.

The Turkish government has given circulation to a map showing the situation of Turkey in 1941.

The Nazis were in the Balkans and all southern Russia. Hitler had attempted to encircle Turkey by establishing a Nazi satellite government in Syria. That would have completed the circle and against that Turkey held out.

Today Turkey is faced by the same kind of encirclement. Although Greece and Turkey should be in alliance, Greece has been stirred up against Turkey over Cyprus which in the circumstances of the world today has become a snare and a nuisance. Bulgaria is a Russian satellite.

Soviet Russia lies opposite Turkey on the Black Sea and Syria has now become a Soviet satellite. Turkey is surrounded by enemies and there can be little question but that Soviet Russia plans the reduction of Turkey to the status of Egypt, namely, that of a country whose independence depends upon Soviet good will.

Just as Nasser would like to get out of the trap which he forged for himself. So Turkey prefers not to have anything at all to do with Soviet Russia.

The question then arises what we, Turkey's principal ally and defender, are willing to do. We cannot say of Turkey, as we may of other allies, that the Turks did not come to our aid when needed.

The Turks fought in Korea, by our side, with all that this small country was able to give. The Turks have been loyal to us. Are we going to be loyal to the Turks?

This could mean a general war. A very intelligent man once raised this question: Soviet Russia is a great distance ahead of us in the development of guided missiles and other non-conventional instruments of war.

Is not this the right moment for the Russians to produce a sudden attack upon us, one that is so swift and demaging that retaliation becomes trivial in comparison with the damage done here?

To this I replied, "No! "There is a pattern to Soviet conduct which has been constant and orthdox. This pattern would indicate that Soviet Russia does not destroy any of the physical equipment of the countries that she conquers.

There is less an ambition to overthrow than to absorb. To a materialistic Marxist it is ridiculous to burn down a church; it makes more sense to use it as a stable or as a club for young people.

What would be the advantage, the materialistic advantage, of destroying Detroit or Pittsburgh when both cities are so useful in the production of goods and equipment? It would seem to me that the Russian program, particularly as devised by the humorist Khrushchev, would be:

1. To scare the countries of Western Europe and of the Mediterranean into rejecting American friendship as to expensive;

2. To create district of the American government within the United States;

3. To use Sputniks like neon signs to establish Russia's superiority in fields that used to be America's specialty;

4. To keep the Middle East in constant disorder;

5. To weaken our economy by keeping us permanently on a war basis;

6. To pour billions into our stock exchange operations through Zurich, Amsterdam and London, to keep the stock market fluctuating like a roller-coaster.

If war comes, it will be accidental, but the above are the jobs that Soviet Russia expects will win the ultimate victory of reducing the West to a secondary position.

If the United States is isolated without a fighting war, Soviet Russia has achieved its objective.

Drug, Treatments Among Discoveries

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Two new drugs for treating rheumatoid arthritis and gout, a steroid for relieving itching and burning eyes, and a method of improving eyesight by use of electric current are the medical advances I'd like to discuss today in our monthly review of what's new in medicine.

The arthritis drugs are chloroquine and colcemide.

Chloroquine is reported to be good for long-term and safe control of certain cases of crippling rheumatoid arthritis.

While it gives no immediate evidence of any anti-inflammatory effect on joint swelling and pain, it appears to inactivate the disease process in the body as a whole.

Colcemide is a modern streamlined version of the 3,457-year-old drug, colchicine.

Both drugs are extracted from a particular variety of European and Asiatic crocus that blooms in the autumn.

Colcemide is reported to be highly effective in suppressing painful and distressing arthritic symptoms that accompany acute gouty attacks.

The new eye preparation is Metreton Ophthalmic Suspension, a steroid-antihistimine, which can be used for a wide variety of resistant allergic eye conditions.

It is reported to be especially helpful when the eyes are bothered with reactions from hay fever or asthma. Investigators say it gives prompt relief from itching, tearing and burning.

Application of mild electric current to the temples is said by two Maryland doctors to have improved vision greatly in 10 persons with varying degrees of visual loss.

In the cases studied the impaired vision apparently was due to vascular problems. The investigators reported the patients improved with the treatment "probably because of improved nutrition to the visual apparatus as a consequence of improved circulation."

It is nice for the public to know about the new advances in medicine, but it is also equally important to understand that medicines should always be taken under the advice of the doctor.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

T. W.: I have a cousin who suffers from hookworm disease. Can you tell me something about it?

Answer: Hookworm mainly affects people in the tropical and southern temperate zones.

The symptoms are laziness, weakness, loss of physical and mental ability, loss of weight and anemia.

The cure consists of the use of thymol or carbon tetrachloride, but always under the doctor's supervision.

Try and Stop Me

A PURSE-PROUD patroness of the arts asked a dealer, "Do these artists whose pictures cost so much learn to paint when they grow up, or do they inherit their talent?"

"My dear lady," the dealer replied patiently, "this heredity business is nonsense. Truthfully, did you ever hear of the mothers and fathers of Picasso and Rouault?"

"No, I didn't," admitted the patroness, "and to tell you the truth, I never heard of Picasso and Rouault, either."

Philadelphia Curfew Used as Model

By JIM FRANCIS
Central Press Assn.

PHILADELPHIA—What happens when a major American city adopts a curfew law to curb juvenile delinquency? Does it cut down the crime rate or limit the activity of teen-agers?

Surprisingly, in the more than two-years that Philadelphia has been operating under a curfew law, the number of arrests among teen-agers has increased.

"The curfew law has resulted in more arrests because there is greater enforcement by the police," said City Councilman Paul D'Ortona, father of the curfew law and prime mover in its adoption as a permanent ordinance in America's third largest city.

D'Ortona, a young looking grandfather, carried on an intensive campaign for several years against strong opposition to have the law adopted.

"Our law here covers the youngsters under 17 years of age. But because police are now keeping a closer watch on teen-agers, they are naturally arresting more young people, especially those over 17. That's why the number of arrests has increased. However, the police favor the law; the youngsters and their parents, too, think it is a fine law," he said.

• • •

HERE IS HOW the curfew law operates in the Quaker City:

Any youngster under 17 years of age (Philadelphia has more than 350,000 boys and girls in this category) is allowed on the streets until 10:30 p. m. from Sunday through Thursday. Friday and Saturday nights the curfew is extended to midnight.

If a boy or girl is on the streets or in a business establishment after the curfew hour and is picked up by the police, the parents receive a stern reprimand from a magistrate.

For the second violation there are fines ranging from $5 to 100. Business places like neighborhood shops or stores that permit youngsters to stay after the curfew, are also subject to fines from $25 to $300.

Paul D'Ortona

D'Ortona, who was raised in the tough fourth ward of South Philadelphia, is a former Pennsylvania legislator. The rapid increase in crime among young people, reports of gang fights and other teen-age conditions appalled him and he decided to do something about it.

• • •

WHEN D'ORTONA introduced his initial resolution in city council in mid-1954, there was opposition to it from several fronts, including social agencies, juvenile experts and even the district attorney.

However D'Ortona made a series of 78 appearances before groups large and small throughout the city explaining his plan and the bill became law on Jan. 26, 1955.

A year later when he reintroduced the measure to council for permanent adoption after the one-year operation, there was virtually no opposition against its adoption. Newspapers supported the measure police officials backed it, and there was general support for it in many other quarters.

"The greatest proof of the law's effectiveness is in the number of letters from parents themselves," D'Ortona said.

"The parents and their children know the rule helps them. Now, parents know that when 10:30 p. m. comes, their children will be home and not in some hoagie shop or all-night movie or other unsuitable place," he added.

"If the curfew did nothing but keep the kids out of undesirable places, it has done good," D'Ortona noted.

• • •

SURPRISINGLY, most of the violations against the law have come in some of the city's better neighborhoods. The biggest number of violations in the period from January-September, 1956, came in a police district in a good, middle-class neighborhood. There were 445 violations.

Yet in another police district which serves a highly congested neighborhood, there were only 137 violations in the same period.

D'Ortona feels the curfew law has placed greater responsibility on the parents than the children. The rule, he feels, makes parents more concerned about where thir children are as the curfew hour approaches.

"The youngsters can't kid their folks and tell them they're going visiting friends. If they are picked up, the police report it to the parents and then the kids are in for real trouble at home," he said. "It is much better to have prevention than punishment," D'Ortona added.

Officials of a number of other American cities have come here to study the law and its operation for adoption in their own communities, and the city council has had thousands of requests for copies of the law.

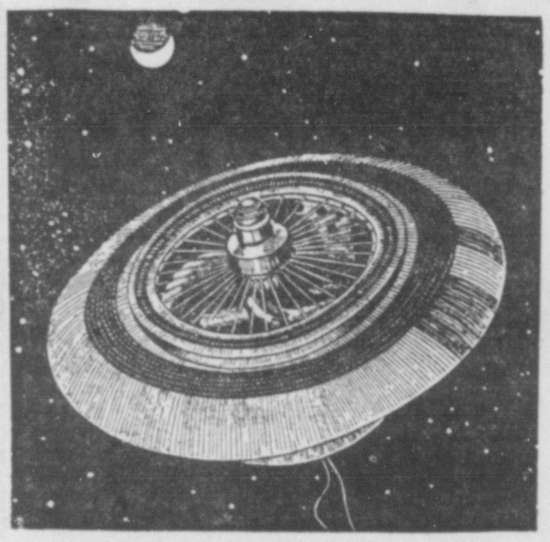
Ohio Traffic Death Rate Showing Climb

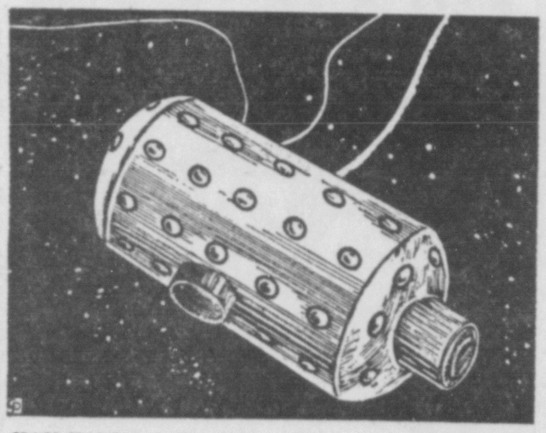
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The number of persons killed and injured in traffic accidents in Ohio during the first eight months of this year increased slightly over the same period for 1956 despite a decline in the total number of accidents.

Highway Safety Director Gordon Jeffery said accidents totaled 99,393 as compared with 100,097 for the same period in 1956. Deaths, however, totaled 1,282 as compared with 1,231 a year ago. Injuries were up from 49,869 to 51,434.

The collision of two or more vehicles was the most frequently reported accident, totaling 78,937 as of Aug. 31. Accidents involving a vehicle leaving the road totaled 14,181, auto-pedestrian accidents 2,814, auto-bicycle 789 and auto-train 342, Jeffery said.

The most dangerous driving hour are between 4 and 6 p.m., Jeffery reported. A total of 17,713 accidents was reported during these two hours for the report period.





SPACE STATION—A space station that gives the appearance of a flying saucer (top), this "Rotary House" was envisioned by Capt. Hermann Noordung of Germany in his book, "The Problems of Space Flying," published in 1929. The "house" revolves like a wheel about a central portion to give the artificial effect of weight. A mirror on the opposite side would gather the sun's rays to heat water for steam power. At bottom is the observatory. Electric air cables connect it with compression body. Air lock is at end. (New York Public Library and Central Press)

Yet in another police district which serves a highly congested neighborhood, there were only 137 violations in the same period.

D'Ortona feels the curfew law has placed greater responsibility on the parents than the children. The rule, he feels, makes parents more concerned about where thir children are as the curfew hour approaches.

"The youngsters can't kid their folks and tell them they're going visiting friends. If they are picked up, the police report it to the parents and then the kids are in for real trouble at home," he said. "It is much better to have prevention than punishment," D'Ortona added.

Officials of a number of other American cities have come here to study the law and its operation for adoption in their own communities, and the city council has had thousands of requests for copies of the law.

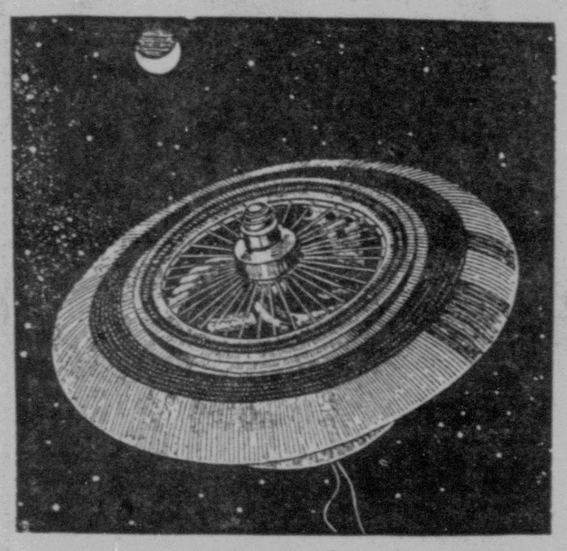
Ohio Traffic Death Rate Showing Climb

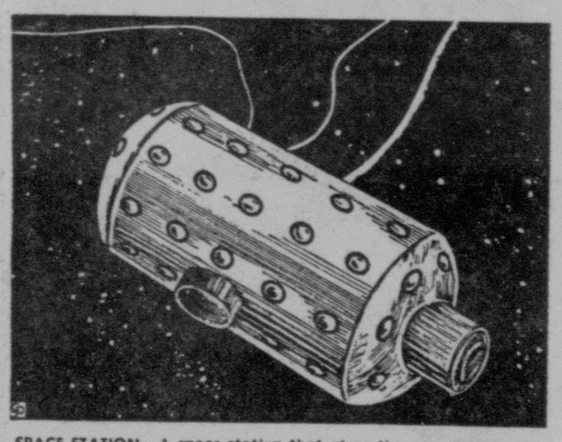
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The number of persons killed and injured in traffic accidents in Ohio during the first eight months of this year increased slightly over the same period for 1956 despite a decline in the total number of accidents.

Highway Safety Director Gordon Jeffery said accidents totaled 99,393 as compared with 100,097 for the same period in 1956. Deaths, however, totaled 1,282 as compared with 1,231 a year ago. Injuries were up from 49,869 to 51,434.

The collision of two or more vehicles was the most frequently reported accident, totaling 78,937 as of Aug. 31. Accidents involving a vehicle leaving the road totaled 14,181, auto-pedestrian accidents 2,814, auto-bicycle 789 and auto-train 342, Jeffery said.

The most dangerous driving hour are between 4 and 6 p.m., Jeffery reported. A total of 17,713 accidents was reported during these two hours for the report period.





SPACE STATION—A space station that gives the appearance of a flying saucer (top), this "Rotary House" was envisioned by Capt. Hermann Noordung of Germany in his book, "The Problems of Space Flying," published in 1929. The "house" revolves like a wheel about a central portion to give the artificial effect of weight. A mirror on the opposite side would gather the sun's rays to heat water for steam power. At bottom is the observatory. Electric air cables connect it with compression body. Air lock is at end. (New York Public Library and Central Press)

270 People To Conduct Election

It takes a lot of people and a lot of money to hold an election in Fayette County.

While it is virtually impossible to determine just how many people and how much money are needed, around 80 men and women will be directly involved in next Tuesday's election and the basic expenses will amount to $6,000.

This does not take into account the people indirectly connected with the election, such as those in whose homes voting booths are set up and those who have to to clean up the public places where the voters cast their ballots.

It takes 270 people to man the precinct voting places in the county. At each there will be a presiding judge, three judges and two clerks. All six get $12 apiece for the day and the presiding judge gets an extra $3 for transportation to get the ballots from the Board of Elections and bring in the returns as soon as the votes are counted—that makes a basic $75 a precinct for each of the 45 precincts, a total of $3,375.

Then there was $1,500 for the ballots and $855 for the poll books in which the vote is recorded, precinct by precinct.

* * *

OWNERS of private property in which the voting booths are set up receive $10 apiece. However, this does not apply to the public buildings, such as township hall and schools. Of the 45 polling places, rent is required for only 23—this adds up to $250.

The voting places will open at 6:30 a. m. Tuesday and close at 6:30 p. m. How long the judges and clerks will have to stay on the job depends on how many votes are cast and how fast they can count them.

Election officials expressed the hope that the last precinct results will be reported to the Board of Elections before midnight.

Precinct officials are divided evenly politically, three Democrats and three Republicans. The presiding judge is a member of the party that received the majority of the vote for governor in that precinct at the last election.

180-Year Jail Term Faced by Daytonian In Drug Accusation

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A 31-year-old Dayton man, reportedly head of a wholesale narcotics racket here, faces a possible 180-year jail sentence for violating Ohio's narcotics law.

Marion L. Miller was convicted in Montgomery County Common Pleas Court here Wednesday on three charges of illegal sale of narcotics and three counts of illegal possession. Judge Charles Lee Mills deferred sentencing for three days pending an appeal by Miller's attorneys.

A federal narcotics agent arrested Miller last July after he sold the agent 30 capsules of heroin obtained in New York and Chicago. Another twelve narcotics peddlers were arrested at the same time. All have been sent to prison.

'Ducky' Corn Faces 45-Year Prison Term

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dustine E. (Ducky) Corn, a member of Ironton's City Council and a Republican leader in southeastern Ohio, faces a possible 45-year prison sentence for violating federal tax laws.

The Ironton cabaret owner was convicted in Federal Court here Wednesday on 13 of 16 charges of federal tax evasion.

The convictions carry a maximum penalty of 45 years in prison and $130,000 in fines, but Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood deferred sentencing until Corn can be given a medical examination.

Corn was charged with eight counts of failing to file returns on some $10,000 in federal cabaret taxes between September, 1953, and September, 1955, and eight counts of failing to turn the money over to the government. Corn's attorneys claim he paid about $12,000 in delinquent taxes and interest July 6, 1956.

Corn was convicted on five counts of failure to file returns on the taxes. Each count is a mismum penalty of a year in jail and demeanor and carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail and $10,000 fine.

The remaining eight counts are felonies based on his failure to pay the tax. Each carries a maximum five-year sentence and $10,000 fine.

Corn admitted he did not file the returns or pay the tax, but he said it was because he did not have the money at the time.

180-Year Jail Term Faced by Daytonian In Drug Accusation

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A 31-year-old Dayton man, reportedly head of a wholesale narcotics racket here, faces a possible 180-year jail sentence for violating Ohio's narcotics law.

Marion L. Miller was convicted in Montgomery County Common Pleas Court here Wednesday on three charges of illegal sale of narcotics and three counts of illegal possession. Judge Charles Lee Mills deferred sentencing for three days pending an appeal by Miller's attorneys.

A federal narcotics agent arrested Miller last July after he sold the agent 30 capsules of heroin obtained in New York and Chicago. Another twelve narcotics peddlers were arrested at the same time. All have been sent to prison.

Real Gone Irish

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Michael Peter Murray Jr., 27, says an Irishman enjoys certain social and business advantages that others don't.

So he filed a petition in Circuit Court asking that his name be changed—to Michael Patrick Murray Jr.

'Ducky' Corn Faces 45-Year Prison Term

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dustine E. (Ducky) Corn, a member of Ironton's City Council and a Republican leader in southeastern Ohio, faces a possible 45-year prison sentence for violating federal tax laws.

The Ironton cabaret owner was convicted in Federal Court here Wednesday on 13 of 16 charges of federal tax evasion.

The convictions carry a maximum penalty of 45 years in prison and $130,000 in fines, but Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood deferred sentencing until Corn can be given a medical examination.

Corn was charged with eight counts of failing to file returns on some $10,000 in federal cabaret taxes between September, 1953, and September, 1955, and eight counts of failing to turn the money over to the government. Corn's attorneys claim he paid about $12,000 in delinquent taxes and interest July 6, 1956.

Corn was convicted on five counts of failure to file returns on the taxes. Each count is a mismum penalty of a year in jail and demeanor and carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail and $10,000 fine.

The remaining eight counts are felonies based on his failure to pay the tax. Each carries a maximum five-year sentence and $10,000 fine.

Corn admitted he did not file the returns or pay the tax, but he said it was because he did not have the money at the time.

Ohioan's Complaint Brings 2 Arrests

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP)—A complaint by Mrs. Ethel Rugh of Youngstown, Ohio, resulted in the arrests Wednesday of Sherman K. Levine, Lawrence County district attorney from 1949-53, and Helen McCandless of Rt. 5, New Castle, on forgery charges.

Alderman James C. Brice of New Castle, who issued the warrants, said the pair are accused in the forgery of a $2,846 check on the account of Mrs. Rugh's late husband, Fred. The check was drawn on the Peoples National Bank of Lawrence County in 1955.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

With the election so close at hand, our family just couldn't sit by without giving the hospital levy all the boost we can.

I'm not sure that our family has been in the hospital more than any other, but we have been there a number of times. It doesn't matter how many times you've been there—once is sufficient to tell what a wonderful place to have so close.

It is such a help to any wife, husband, or mother, to know that your loved one is so close at such a time of stress. It is so nice to father and the children at home, to know they have mother and the new baby so close.

When the hospital was first started within no time it was crowded. I have been a patient in the hal and so has my husband. For the first six months of '57 it was necessary to use this hallway system 141 days. To one who is ill this isn't so convenient, but what can the hospital do

If the levy is passed none of this will happen and no one could have to be turned away because of lack of room.

We are backing the levy 100 per cent because we know how much it continued success means to all of us.

JERRY & DIXIE DRAY

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

In a recent address, Sen. Byrd said "Today the direct debt of the federal government is 280 billion dollars, an increase of nearly 1,200 per cent over the debt of 1933."

According to Sen. Byrd that federal debt is equivalent to the full value of all the land, all the buildings, all the mines all the machinery, all the livestock, everything of value in the United States.

Adding to this enormous federal debt the debts of states, counties, townships cities, towns, and private debts of individuals, what we owe is far in excess of what we have.

In spite of this insolvent condition, governing bodies are busily proposing more costly projects and hiring more people to operate them. Often they find time to increase their own salaries. Are such proceedings sound or sane.

In each of 21 of the past 24 years the federal government spent more than it collected in taxes. Yet we keep asking the federal government to give us the money to build highways, school buildings, sewage disposal plants, hospitals, or anything else we would like to to have. Is this same sane when we know very well the federal government can not give the people anything of value until it first takes it from them.

Nearly 25 years ago in time of depression Fayette County commissioners had been making extravagant expenditures and had lost most of a year's tax collections by accepting inadequate bonds from depositaries of county funds.

In spite of this Fayette County was in better financial condition than most other counties of the state, because Fayette County Had no bonded Debt.

Ohio was in better condition than other states because the Ohio Constitution limited state debt to $150,000.

Recently Ohio has voted to suspend this provision of the Constitution and put the state in debt far beyond the $750,000 limit.

Fayette County has voted indebtedness approaching 2 million dollars, and now has opportunity to to vote $780,000 more in bonds for addition, to the hospital.

It is claimed that an expenditure of $780,000 will increase the hospital capacity by 60 beds: $780,000 divided by 60 gives $13,000 per bed.

Four percent interest and 2 per cent depreciation on $780,000 amounts to $46,800 per year.

At the present it takes, more than 4 per cent interest to sell the bonds.

The much publicized crowding of the hospital seems to be caused by three factors.

(1) Patients that could be well taken care of at home are sent to the hospital for the doctor's convenience.

(2) Many insurance policies specify payment for illness Only when the patient goes to the hospital.

(3) Admission of patients from other counties who could use their own hospitals when ours is crowded.

Properly controlled admission might end the overcrowding.

The present hospital could take care of all the Fayette County people really needing the hospital's services.

At least we could postpone further building until the boom in building cast subsides.

Bonds issued now when dollars are cheap and interest rates high might have to be paid off in dollars twice as hard to get.

Who Pays Taxes?

Voters, who own little or no property are urged to vote bonded indebtedness with the misleading statement that it will not cost them anything, that the taxes will be colleced from owners of property and producers of goods.

Owners and producers must get the tax money from rents and sales. They simply pass the taxes along to renters and consumers in increased rents and prices.

Every Self Supporting Person Pays Taxes.

Here Are More News Briefs From Midwest Grid Camps

CHICAGO (AP)—Midwest Football Briefs:

Ohio State — Three Buckeye players missed practice because of the flu but Coach Woody Hayes declined to name them. Hayes said all three would return to workouts today.

Wisconsin—The Badgers worked on defense for the Michigan State game. End Tom Peters is still a doubtful performer Saturday because of a leg injury.

Michigan — The Wolves may toss Fullback John Herrnstein against the Iowa Hawkeyes. Considered a doubtful starter, Coach Bennie Oosterbaan may use him in the game.

Indiana—Following a session of blocking and tackling, the Hoosiers went through an offensive scrimmage to improve their timing. Tailback Norm Mackin continued to impress the coaching staff.

Purdue — The Boilermakers went through a hard defensive scrimmage. The Purdue team was warned of Illinois' backfield speed and passing.

Illinois — Passing was stressed in the Illinois workout. End Rich Kreitling and tackle Bruce Dollahan skipped the workout. Also missing were center Gene Cherney because of an injured shoulder and tackle Paul Adams out with the flu.

Northwestern—Guard Al Viola is lost for the season with a pinched neck muscle. The injury has a paralyzing effect in the right arm. The loss is great to Northwestern's thin-ranked Wildcats.

Iowa — Hawkeye Coach Forest Evashevski held a secret drill for the first time this season. Iowa is expected to be in top shape for Michigan Saturday.

Michigan State — Fullback Don Arends and guard Ron Rickens suffered injuries in an unprecedented mid - week scrimmage. Coach Duffy Daugherty said of the scrimmage: "We needed to do something to sharpen our attack against Wisconsin."

Minnesota—Star tackle Frank Youso returned to workouts to bolster Gopher hopes against Indiana. Quarterback Dick Larson is the only one who is expected to miss action Saturday.

Notre Dame—The Irish concentrated on pass defense for fear of Navy quarterback Tom Forrestal. Notre Dame also brushed up on its own passing.

Marquette—It was back to fundamentals for the Marquette team. Coach Johnny Druze put the team through an offensive scrimmage which he termed very good.

The queenly pearly comes from the sea and is the only one produced by a living process.

Haughton Seen Leading Sulky Driver Again

COLUMBUS — Billy Haughton, harness racing's perennial driving champion, has taken a commanding lead in his bid to repeat as the nation's leading money - winning driver.

The Brookville, N.Y., reinsman has earned $520,000 through Oct. 27, according to the U. S. Trotting Association, and is pulling away from his nearest rival, Johnny Simpson of Maitland, Fla. Simpson has banked $472,000.

Haughton has been the national money leader since 1952 when he dislodged Simpson from the top rung. His earnings record, and that for the sport, is the $599,445 which he banked in 1955. He has a good chance to surpass that total this year.

Haughton, 33, is currently commuting from coast to coast, racing at Roosevelt Raceway, N.Y., during the week and at Hollywood Park, Calif., on the weekends.

Simpson, 37, built up an early lead in the dollar race by winning major colt stakes fixtures such as the Hambletonian, Little Brown Jug and Cane Futurity. In recent weeks, however, Haughton has come on strong and with the colt season over, Simpson is given little chance of catching his friendly rival.

Marshal Malinovsky — Marshal Zhukov — Premier Bulganin

WHAT AND WHO NEXT? — Latest reshuffle in the Soviet hierarchy, installing Marshal Rodion Malinovsky as defense minister in place of Marshal Georgi Zhukov, a national hero, makes Zhukov a big question mark along with Premier Nikolai Bulganin. Diplomatic speculation has Zhukov replacing Bulganin and Bulganin becoming U.S.S.R. president. Diplomatic speculation also has Zhukov being demoted as one who opposes a tough Middle East policy. (International)

Television Antenna Captures Live Hawk

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A television antenna atop the T. A. Filipi home here picked up more than program signals. It caught a live hawk.

The Filipis awoke to find the bird, with a wing spread of more then four feet, entangled in the antenna crossbars. A Lincoln Humane Society employe finally freed the struggling hawk with a specially constructed pole.

Brown Enters Dem Race in California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown reports he will seek the Democratic nomination for governor next year.

This will almost certainly pit California's leading Democrat against two of its top Republicans for the state's top office, promising a slam bang political fight.

Already announced candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination are Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and Senate Minority Leader William Knowland.

A Knowland - Knight primary fight, some politicians believe, will be advantageous to the Democrats.

Brown, 52, said he would crossfile on the Republican ticket.

Quebec To Celebrate

QUEBEC (AP)— Quebec City will celebrate its 350th anniversary in July, 1958, and a 22-man committee has been assigned the job of planning the biggest celebration ever seen here. It was in 1608 that Champlain chose Quebec as the seat of government of New France.

WATCHING MANEUVERS—In Tehran, visiting King Feisal of Iraq (left) and Iran's Shah Riza Pahlevi (middle) watch military maneuvers staged for Feisal by Iran's sixth army corps. That unit probably will be Iran's contribution to the Baghdad pact defense forces. (International Soundphoto)

Here Are More News Briefs From Midwest Grid Camps

CHICAGO (AP)—Midwest Football Briefs:

Ohio State — Three Buckeye players missed practice because of the flu but Coach Woody Hayes declined to name them. Hayes said all three would return to workouts today.

Wisconsin—The Badgers worked on defense for the Michigan State game. End Tom Peters is still a doubtful performer Saturday because of a leg injury.

Michigan — The Wolves may toss Fullback John Herrnstein against the Iowa Hawkeyes. Considered a doubtful starter, Coach Bennie Oosterbaan may use him in the game.

Indiana—Following a session of blocking and tackling, the Hoosiers went through an offensive scrimmage to improve their timing. Tailback Norm Mackin continued to impress the coaching staff.

Purdue — The Boilermakers went through a hard defensive scrimmage. The Purdue team was warned of Illinois' backfield speed and passing.

Illinois — Passing was stressed in the Illinois workout. End Rich Kreitling and tackle Bruce Dollahan skipped the workout. Also missing were center Gene Cherney because of an injured shoulder and tackle Paul Adams out with the flu.

Northwestern—Guard Al Viola is lost for the season with a pinched neck muscle. The injury has a paralyzing effect in the right arm. The loss is great to Northwestern's thin-ranked Wildcats.

Iowa — Hawkeye Coach Forest Evashevski held a secret drill for the first time this season. Iowa is expected to be in top shape for Michigan Saturday.

Michigan State — Fullback Don Arends and guard Ron Rickens suffered injuries in an unprecedented mid - week scrimmage. Coach Duffy Daugherty said of the scrimmage: "We needed to do something to sharpen our attack against Wisconsin."

Minnesota—Star tackle Frank Youso returned to workouts to bolster Gopher hopes against Indiana. Quarterback Dick Larson is the only one who is expected to miss action Saturday.

Notre Dame—The Irish concentrated on pass defense for fear of Navy quarterback Tom Forrestal. Notre Dame also brushed up on its own passing.

Marquette—It was back to fundamentals for the Marquette team. Coach Johnny Druze put the team through an offensive scrimmage which he termed very good.

Haughton Seen Leading Sulky Driver Again

COLUMBUS — Billy Haughton, harness racing's perennial driving champion, has taken a commanding lead in his bid to repeat as the nation's leading money - winning driver.

The Brookville, N.Y., reinsman has earned $520,000 through Oct. 27, according to the U. S. Trotting Association, and is pulling away from his nearest rival, Johnny Simpson of Maitland, Fla. Simpson has banked $472,000.

Haughton has been the national money leader since 1952 when he dislodged Simpson from the top rung. His earnings record, and that for the sport, is the $599,445 which he banked in 1955. He has a good chance to surpass that total this year.

Haughton, 33, is currently commuting from coast to coast, racing at Roosevelt Raceway, N.Y., during the week and at Hollywood Park, Calif., on the weekends.

Simpson, 37, built up an early lead in the dollar race by winning major colt stakes fixtures such as the Hambletonian, Little Brown Jug and Cane Futurity. In recent weeks, however, Haughton has come on strong and with the colt season over, Simpson is given little chance of catching his friendly rival.

Marshal Malinovsky — Marshal Zhukov — Premier Bulganin

WHAT AND WHO NEXT? — Latest reshuffle in the Soviet hierarchy, installing Marshal Rodion Malinovsky as defense minister in place of Marshal Georgi Zhukov, a national hero, makes Zhukov a big question mark along with Premier Nikolai Bulganin. Diplomatic speculation has Zhukov replacing Bulganin and Bulganin becoming U.S.S.R. president. Diplomatic speculation also has Zhukov being demoted as one who opposes a tough Middle East policy. (International)

Television Antenna Captures Live Hawk

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A television antenna atop the T. A. Filipi home here picked up more than program signals. It caught a live hawk.

The Filipis awoke to find the bird, with a wing spread of more then four feet, entangled in the antenna crossbars. A Lincoln Humane Society employe finally freed the struggling hawk with a specially constructed pole.

The queenly pearly comes from the sea and is the only one produced by a living process.

Brown Enters Dem Race in California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown reports he will seek the Democratic nomination for governor next year.

This will almost certainly pit California's leading Democrat against two of its top Republicans for the state's top office, promising a slam bang political fight.

Already announced candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination are Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and Senate Minority Leader William Knowland.

A Knowland - Knight primary fight, some politicians believe, will be advantageous to the Democrats.

Brown, 52, said he would crossfile on the Republican ticket.

GIs in Germany Proving Good Samaritans

By OMER ANDERSON
Central Press Assn.

FRANKFURT, Germany — The U. S. Army is undertaking a gigantic "friendship" campaign in Europe to minimize incidents which might add fuel to the foreign justice controversy in the United States.

The Army theorizes that soldiers kept busy playing Good Samaritan to their European hosts are more likely to stay out of trouble—and a foreign jail.

Military commanders are remaining aloof from the "status of forces" and Bricker amendment debates. Privately, most of them feel that foreign courts so far have tended to be more lenient than U. S. military courts on American servicemen offenders.

However, they are anxious to stay out of a political controversy. And they are working on the simple theory that the fewer GIs involved in incidents with citizens of the foreign countries where U. S. troops are stationed, the less controversy there will be.

* * *

UNDER the Army's "good neighbor" program, GIs are encouraged to knock themselves out building sports fields, swimming pools and roads— all for the local communities where they are serving.

The Army officially terms this miniature foreign aid program "engineer training projects," the theory being it gives Army engineers "on-the-job" training.

A number of German communities have taken to figuring such U. S. Army generosity into their construction budgets, and have complained when the Army, in a few instances, was obliged to renege on such promised assistance.

Orphanages are a favorite Army friendship vehicle. Every orphanage in a U. S. troop area is almost automatically assured of extensive assistance, both in cash and gifts of food, clothing, furnishings and play equipment.

* * *

ARMY UNITS provide emergency assistance to German communities as routine. They help restore water systems disrupted by cold-burst mains, haul water to drought-stricken areas, and evacuate flood victims.

Army engineers helped rebuild the Hessian village of Frankenbrunn, which was gutted by fire.

The Army is also alert with assistance in cases of individual tragedy. For example, a 12-year-old German boy, Robert Meusert, regained his sight after a series of operations financed by the GIs of the 899th Tank battalion.

Lt. Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, the U. S. Seventh Army commander, has taken personal charge of the military Good Samaritan program.

* * *

CLARKE not only believes in charity and good deeds; he constantly prods his officers to get out and mix with the natives.

He insists that all commanders pay courtesy calls on German officials in their communities and observe all the other facets of grassroots diplomatic protocol.

The general is particularly hep on the "German community advisory council," a mixed group of U. S. officers and German officials established in each Army area to thrash out joint problems.

Clarke's Seventh Army has fielded a symphony orchestra which the general keeps on the road impressing the kultur-minded Germans with GI cultural attainments.

Gen. Clarke is not only a good field commander, but also a shrewd press agent. In fact, he calls himself the "public relations director of the Seventh Army."

The general knows that all the good deeds, punctilious grassroots protocol and cultural razzle - dazzle make it difficult for the Germans to make an issue out of the occasional lapses of his GIs.

Duels as a legal means of settling disputes seem to derive from the practices of German tribes.

Seventh Army soldiers help break up and remove surplus rock at a construction project at the Himmelsfort convent near Wurzburg, West Germany.

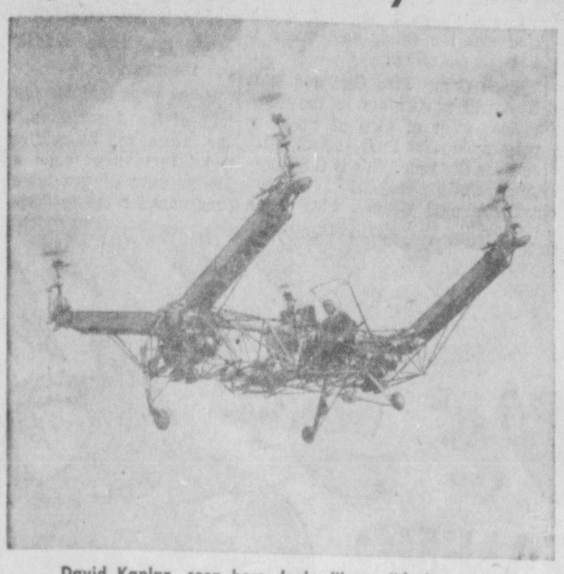
Four-Rotor Helicopter May Answer Army Need



David Kaplan, seen here, looks like a "daring young man in a flying machine" but his four-rotor craft, the quadrotor, may overcome size and cost barriers which have limited usefulness of helicopters to date.

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Assn.

AMITYVILLE, N. Y. — The persistence of a young inventor-engineer with a radical new helicopter design using four instead of one or two rotors may revolutionize the verticle lift airplane.

The U. S. Army has granted $89,000 to the small company formed here by David M. Kaplan, Convertawings, so that its "quadrotor" may be further developed under guidance of the Transportation Research and Engineering Command.

Kaplan has been experimenting with multi - rotor designs for helicopters since he graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic institute, where he specialized in aeronautics, and he currently is president, chief engineer and test pilot of the small concern he established.

Whirlybirds, as aviators have nicknamed helicopters, have a way of forsaking the sleek designs of other aircraft and taking on odd shapes, but none has emerged in a more bizarre form than the four-bladed machine Kaplan first successfully put in the air a little over a year ago, and has been test flying since.

* * *

THE FOUR ROTORS are mounted at the end of two large inverted Vs which, together with a fusilage where the pilot sits, constitute the body of the airship.

Advantages of the design which originally was tried out by private capital raised by Kaplan are said to be its increased safety, low cost, stable handling qualities, and adaptability to varied operating requirements.

* * *

IN THE PRESENT test design there are two power plants, fore and aft of where the pilot sits. Other designs may utilize a separate motor at the end of each boom with its own fuel tank to power each individual rotor.

One of the great concerns with present helicopters is that the failure of a single engine creates an emergency which can be met only by managing as gentle a descent as possible with one or two large rotors reeling to break the fall. The Army has been seeking a plane of this type with more than one engine.

By using smaller rotors turning at higher speeds, Kaplan appears to have whipped two other problems of helicopters, the excessive vibration and loud noise.

The new - type plane has a heavy lift capacity which may make it a virtual flying derrick, and Army experts are impressed that the distribution of the rotors permits easier loading since it does not require the careful positioning of loads required by current helicopters.

* * *

ALTHOUGH there are four rotors, the quadrotor apparently is easier for the pilot to handle than more conventional designs. Instead of varying the pitch of the blades, the speed of the different pairs of rotors is changed to obtain relatively fast forward and side movement from a single control.

Kaplan has been a "bug" on aviation since he began winning merit badges as a Boy Scout in that specialization while in the Evanston, Ill., schools.

He reveals that it was then he first toyed with the idea of multiple rotors on helicopters, and he worked for hours on model airplanes incorporating this principle.

He believes that the four - propeller helicopter has far greater potential in commercial aviation than in the military, and plans to introduce it extensively into South America where nations not only are turning to airplanes for transport instead of building large road networks but also are looking for larger - capacity planes that do not require long runways.

Rock 'n' Roll Said Declining

Fitzgerald Says Kids Prefer 'Nice' Music

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Heartening news of a decline in rock 'n' roll is reported by Ella Fitzgerald, considered by many pros to be the greatest of the pop songstresses.

"I think it's losing popularity," she observed. "The kids seem to be going for a nicer kind of music.

"When I used to sing a ballad at a jazz concert, the audience would start getting restless, waiting for me to get going on a jump tune. But now I can sing three ballads in a row and they'll listen quietly."

Though she sings jazz, Ella nixes R 'N' R.

"I just don't like it," she said. "Not for me at any rate. At first, I think, the songs were too suggestive. The kids got too wild when they heard them. It was a natural reaction—one girl starts yelling when she hears Elvis and another one thinks she should, too. Pretty soon it's a riot.

"But I think the kids are getting so they want to understand jazz. They listen now and appreciate when they hear something good."

The same is true in Europe, she said. She tours there four months a year, singing before packed audiences. They're quiet and attentive, she said, listening carefully for the nuances of jazz.

Ella is back home to do a movie, the W. C. Handy film," "The St. Louis Blues." She plays herself in this one, singing "The Beale Street Blues." A couple of years ago, she played a dramatic role for Jack Webb in "Pete Kelly's Blues."

This Really Proves It: Curiosity Doesn't Pay

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — Nonie Tenorio, 24, Albuquerque, dropped into federal court to see how the Bernalillo County Grand Jury was proceeding.

But he didn't stay long. He was spotted by deputy U. S. marshals and arrested on the spot. The curious Tenorio had been indicted the previous week on a dope charge.

He couldn't understand. Hadn't he been released on $1,000 bond?

The deputys explained Tenorio had been released on $1,000 bond but U. S. Dist. Judge Waldo Rogers had raised it to $10,000.

Police Are Locked In After Safe Is Locked

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Sheriff's deputies Clarence Merce and Richard Saunders radioed their office to send out a supermarket employe with a key to lock a door they found open. A half hour later Merce called again to phone to report, "Hey, that guy locked the store and he locked us in." A second trip by the store employe freed the deputies.

Bears Scare Humans - And Visa Versa

GRAND MARAIS, Minn. (AP)—Bedtime bear stories:

A loud crash woke Herman Hendrickson out of a deep sleep. He found himself face to face with a bear. Bruin, somewhat startled himself, went out where the door had been. Hendrickson found the door ripped from its hinges.

When Mrs. Russell Gunderson walked into her bedroom to retire for the night she found a bear sitting on her bed. While Mrs. Funderson raced to a neighbor for help, the bear left through a screened window, knocking over furniture enroute.

Promise Is Kept

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—An intruder surprised on the ninth floor of the Medical Arts Building here by night watchman Cornelius B. Russell, told Russell he would kill him if police were informed. Russel told police. The next night the intruder returned, lunged at Russel with a knife and was subdued by the watchman's night stick.

Ohio's Jobless List Continuing Climb

COLUMBUS (AP)—The number of claimants for jobless benefits continues its slow climb, the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports.

Claimants unemployed one week or more as of last Saturday numbered 55,205. This figure compared with 53,325 the previous week and the 30,334 average for October 1956.

New claimants last week totaled 13,749, up from 11,007 the previous week. The October 1956 average was 6,000.

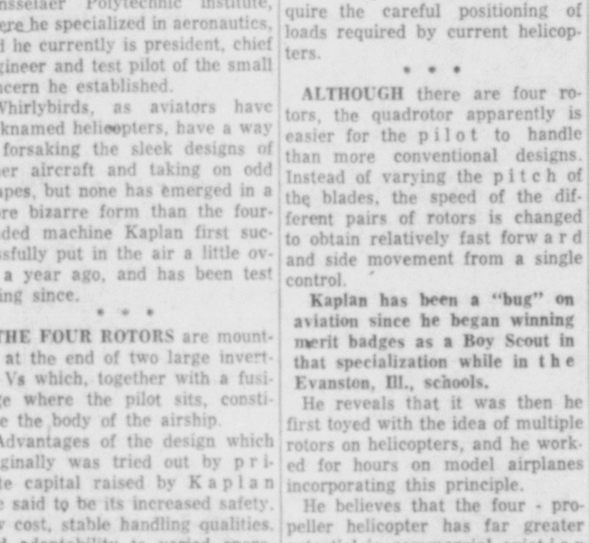
CINCINNATI (AP) — A personal physician's certificate is not going to be enough in the future for city employes here who are absent from work four or more times a year.

City Manager C. A. Harrell said another physician will be called for corroborative purposes.

The action followed a report by Don Heisel, city personnel officer, that a drop from an average of seven days' absence to five days would save $200,000 annually.

THE COUTURE LOOK featured by Nancy Tracey in the Elfreda Visioni collection is best expressed in this "Easy Street" costume with its seal-lined, rounded-off, wrist-length jacket. The matching burnt-toast-colored chiffon blouse features a softly draped jabot bow.



NEW TYPE OF MUSICAL — Frank Sinatra, Mitzi Gaynor and Jeanne Crain are co-starred in "The Joker Is wild," a picture with a musical backdrop, that opens a three-day run Sunday at the Fayette Theater.

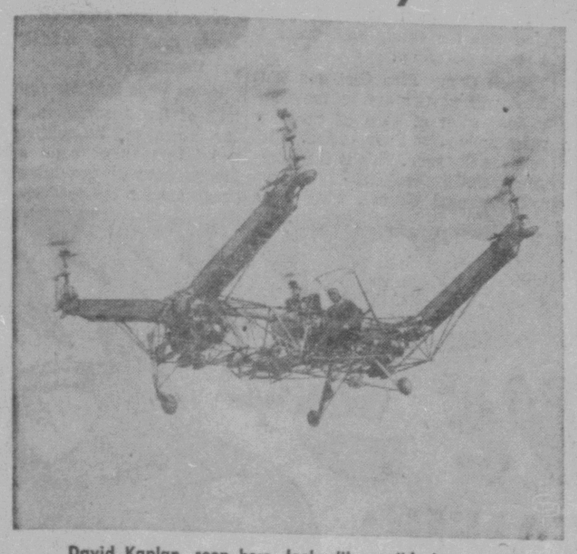
Four-Rotor Helicopter May Answer Army Need



David Kaplan, seen here, looks like a "daring young man in a flying machine" but his four-rotor craft, the quadrotor, may overcome size and cost barriers which have limited usefulness of helicopters to date.

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Assn.

AMITYVILLE, N. Y. — The persistence of a young inventor-engineer with a radical new helicopter design using four instead of one or two rotors may revolutionize the verticle lift airplane.

The U. S. Army has granted $89,000 to the small company formed here by David M. Kaplan, Convertawings, so that its "quadrotor" may be further developed under guidance of the Transportation Research and Engineering Command.

Kaplan has been experimenting with multi - rotor designs for helicopters since he graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic institute, where he specialized in aeronautics, and he currently is president, chief engineer and test pilot of the small concern he established.

Whirlybirds, as aviators have nicknamed helicopters, have a way of forsaking the sleek designs of other aircraft and taking on odd shapes, but none has emerged in a more bizarre form than the four-bladed machine Kaplan first successfully put in the air a little over a year ago, and has been test flying since.

* * *

THE FOUR ROTORS are mounted at the end of two large inverted Vs which, together with a fusilage where the pilot sits, constitute the body of the airship.

Advantages of the design which originally was tried out by private capital raised by Kaplan are said to be its increased safety, low cost, stable handling qualities, and adaptability to varied operating requirements.

* * *

IN THE PRESENT test design there are two power plants, fore and aft of where the pilot sits. Other designs may utilize a separate motor at the end of each boom with its own fuel tank to power each individual rotor.

One of the great concerns with present helicopters is that the failure of a single engine creates an emergency which can be met only by managing as gentle a descent as possible with one or two large rotors reeling to break the fall. The Army has been seeking a plane of this type with more than one engine.

By using smaller rotors turning at higher speeds, Kaplan appears to have whipped two other problems of helicopters, the excessive vibration and loud noise.

The new - type plane has a heavy lift capacity which may make it a virtual flying derrick, and Army experts are impressed that the distribution of the rotors permits easier loading since it does not require the careful positioning of loads required by current helicopters.

* * *

ALTHOUGH there are four rotors, the quadrotor apparently is easier for the pilot to handle than more conventional designs. Instead of varying the pitch of the blades, the speed of the different pairs of rotors is changed to obtain relatively fast forward and side movement from a single control.

Kaplan has been a "bug" on aviation since he began winning merit badges as a Boy Scout in that specialization while in the Evanston, Ill., schools.

He reveals that it was then he first toyed with the idea of multiple rotors on helicopters, and he worked for hours on model airplanes incorporating this principle.

He believes that the four - propeller helicopter has far greater potential in commercial aviation than in the military, and plans to introduce it extensively into South America where nations not only are turning to airplanes for transport instead of building large road networks but also are looking for larger - capacity planes that do not require long runways.

Rock 'n' Roll Said Declining

Fitzgerald Says Kids Prefer 'Nice' Music

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Heartening news of a decline in rock 'n' roll is reported by Ella Fitzgerald, considered by many pros to be the greatest of the pop songstresses.

"I think it's losing popularity," she observed. "The kids seem to be going for a nicer kind of music.

"When I used to sing a ballad at a jazz concert, the audience would start getting restless, waiting for me to get going on a jump tune. But now I can sing three ballads in a row and they'll listen quietly."

Though she sings jazz, Ella nixes R 'N' R.

"I just don't like it," she said. "Not for me at any rate. At first, I think, the songs were too suggestive. The kids got too wild when they heard them. It was a natural reaction—one girl starts yelling when she hears Elvis and another one thinks she should, too. Pretty soon it's a riot.

"But I think the kids are getting so they want to understand jazz. They listen now and appreciate when they hear something good."

The same is true in Europe, she said. She tours there four months a year, singing before packed audiences. They're quiet and attentive, she said, listening carefully for the nuances of jazz.

Ella is back home to do a movie, the W. C. Handy film," "The St. Louis Blues." She plays herself in this one, singing "The Beale Street Blues." A couple of years ago, she played a dramatic role for Jack Webb in "Pete Kelly's Blues."

This Really Proves It: Curiosity Doesn't Pay

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — Nonie Tenorio, 24, Albuquerque, dropped into federal court to see how the Bernalillo County Grand Jury was proceeding.

But he didn't stay long. He was spotted by deputy U. S. marshals and arrested on the spot. The curious Tenorio had been indicted the previous week on a dope charge.

He couldn't understand. Hadn't he been released on $1,000 bond?

The deputys explained Tenorio had been released on $1,000 bond but U. S. Dist. Judge Waldo Rogers had raised it to $10,000.

Out Among the Stars — What?

Do Any of Other Planets Support Human Life Too?

Editor's Note: Following is the third in a series of four articles concerning man's effort to conquer the space beyond Earth's atmosphere.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

New York (AP)—Are we the only humans living in this incomprehensibly vast universe of ours?

Or are there people like us, or even superior, on other planets near or far away?

Only by exploring space can man begin to answer this question nagging him nearly since his time began.

"We are not alone," declares Dr. Harlow Shapley, famous Harvard astronomer. He estimates there could be 100 million planets capable of supporting life as we know it.

There are billions upon billions of stars or suns in the universe. Even supposing that most have no planets at all, there still could be 100 million planets situated at the right distance from a sun, possessing oxygen and all other conditions for our kind of life, Dr. Shapley reasons.

Very likely, human astronauts will never be able to visit much more than the other planets of our Sun—Mars, Venus, Jupiter, Saturn and others.

These could be reached in days, weeks or years, depending on top speeds which space cruisers traveled. By picking up enough speed once they were in outer space, cruisers might reach any of our planets within days.

Then men could learn whether there is life, even fantastically different forms of life, on these planets—some arid, some terribly hot or cold, some bathed in poisonous fumes.

What is the meaning of Mars' "canals," of Jupiter's strange markings? Are the asteroids, the belt of flying chunks of matter between Jupiter and Mars, really the remains of an exploded planet?

But reaching even the nearest star, to see if it has planets at all's seems impossibly beyond man's dreams.

This star is Alpha Centauri. It is so far away that it takes four years and four months for its light to reach us, and light travels 136,000 miles per second, Physical laws say it is impossible for anything to travel faster than light—science as yet has no inkling even how to approach that fabulous speed.

Yet the chances of learning about life elsewhere are not entirely hopeless.

Men in space could build giant telescopes, far more powerful than any on earth. Our earth's air distorts starlight, makes clear seeing difficult.

Giant observatories on space platforms, or on the moon, could look clearly and accurately vast distances into space. Some astronomers believe such seeing could help learn secrets of the birth of the universe, or whether life exists on other planets.

Both American and Russian scientists are talking of putting telescopes in the sky. They could take pictures, or use TV eyes.

Space opens vast new frontiers for good or bad, depending on how nations use the new potentials and powers.

A space station hung some 23,000 miles above the earth could provide instantaneous television for half the world at a time.

It could circle at such a speed, relative to the earth's own rotation, that it would appear to stay always at the same point above the earth. TV signals could be reflected from it into homes over the same program to everyone around the world at the same moment.

Other satellites at chosen heights could survey the earth with telescopic and TV eyes, or radar, prying into any country's secrets. Military men see them also as potential bases for launching guided missiles with atomic warheads to impose the will of the sky-master nation.

Rocket and space control, though, is not likely to become one nation's monopoly, many scientists believe. Checkmating is more likely. War in space, aimed at destroying an unfriendly space station, is mentioned as a possibility.

Prof. Hermann Oberth of Germany, a famous space pioneer, proposes a giant mirror, composed of many facets, above the earth. It might be 60 miles in diameter, focusing the sun's rays upon the earth, as you might do with a magnifying glass.

For bad, it could be aimed to burn an enemy's country, Dr. Oberth says.

For good, part of the mirror could be used safely to light large towns at night, or to melt dangerous atlantic icebergs, open up winter frozen sea lanes, counteract night frosts threatening fruit crops even perhaps alter temperatures and cloud movements to bring rain where needed.

Far more immediately, new knowledge is promised for accurate weather forecasts, for preventing hurricanes and even tornadoes. This can come from Sputniks or U. S. baby moons using TV eyes and other instruments to track the motions of clouds, gain understanding of the mechanics of weather, measure the total radiation coming to and from the earth.

Such new information is one goal of baby U. S. moons to be launched during the International Geophysical Year.

Camp Fire Leaders In Planning Session

The Camp Fire Girls Leaders' Assn. held its monthly meeting at St. Andrew's Church Tuesday.

One of the main points of discussion was the candy sale which is to begin Saturday.

Each Camp Fire Girl and Blue Bird will participate in the door-to-door sales of cans of candy to raise money for their various projects for the year. This is their only money-making project.

The annual Council Fire to be held at the Fish and Game Reserve, Friday, Nov. 22nd was also discussed. This is the ceremony at which the girls are awarded the honor beads they have earned throughout the year.

Plans were laid for future meetings of the Association, which, in the future, will be held on the second Thursday of each month for the purpose of providing training programs for the leaders.

For bad, it could be aimed to burn an enemy's country, Dr. Oberth says.

For good, part of the mirror could be used safely to light large towns at night, or to melt dangerous atlantic icebergs, open up winter frozen sea lanes, counteract night frosts threatening fruit crops even perhaps alter temperatures and cloud movements to bring rain where needed.

Far more immediately, new knowledge is promised for accurate weather forecasts, for preventing hurricanes and even tornadoes. This can come from Sputniks or U. S. baby moons using TV eyes and other instruments to track the motions of clouds, gain understanding of the mechanics of weather, measure the total radiation coming to and from the earth.

Such new information is one goal of baby U. S. moons to be launched during the International Geophysical Year.

Camp Fire Leaders In Planning Session

The Camp Fire Girls Leaders' Assn. held its monthly meeting at St. Andrew's Church Tuesday.

One of the main points of discussion was the candy sale which is to begin Saturday.

Each Camp Fire Girl and Blue Bird will participate in the door-to-door sales of cans of candy to raise money for their various projects for the year. This is their only money-making project.

The annual Council Fire to be held at the Fish and Game Reserve, Friday, Nov. 22nd was also discussed. This is the ceremony at which the girls are awarded the honor beads they have earned throughout the year.

Plans were laid for future meetings of the Association, which, in the future, will be held on the second Thursday of each month for the purpose of providing training programs for the leaders.

Next 8 Weeks To Tell Future For Retailers

Christmas, New Car Buying Seen Good Index for '58 Volume

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—How the retail stores fared in the next eight weeks will go a long way in foreshawdowing what kind of a year 1958 will be for industry.

Consumer buying in November and December should have more than usual weight this year on the future course of prices, industrial output, factory jobs — perhaps even on interest rates.

How the public spends for Christmas and how it reacts to the new cars is the big question mark of the day.

Retail sales have been just barely ahead of last year for some time now. Take in account the higher prices, and unit sales may be a little off. But in the next two months most stores expect to do one fourth of the whole year's business. This makes or breaks their year as far as earnings go.

If they move the goods they have on hand or on order, they'll be in a position to reorder. If the public goes slow on buying, or buys less expensive goods than last Christmas, or admires the new car models but holds onto the old family auto, the economy all the way back to the prime producer of materials will feel the jolt. And even the Washington money managers may decide it's time to ease up on money and credit—and therefore on interest rates.

On the sunny side is the fact that total personal income is high and that total employment is high. Also the banks will be handing out a record 1¼ billion dollars in Christmas club payments, 37 million dollars more than last year.

On the darker side is that many families show a tendency to spend less. One reason may be that many families already were living to the limit of their income, either in cash spending or instalment buying. When prices went up and borrowing charges went up, when overtime pay faded and some factory work weeks were shortened, these families just weren't in the position to spend for anything but the necessities.

Dealers in the more expensive items, whether it be fur coats or convertibles, are also nervous today about the stock market. When a man makes a killing on the market he may buy his wife a mink or upgrade the family car. When stock prices fall, even if loss is only on paper, he may decide that this Christmas more modest presents may do.

For several years the public has tended to buy better and more costly items all along the line from the butcher shop to the auto showroom. This has helped to give industry its ever healthier glow. The big question today is whether the consumer will start retrenching.

THE NEW PONTIAC—Heading Pontiac's four series of superbly styled cars for 1958 are the five passenger Bonneville sport coupe (above) and the Bonneville convertible. These two family size "dream cars" mark what the division calls "the boldest advance in 50 years." The big, new "Tempest 395" V-8 power plant in these two family sports-type car gives the instant acceleration and road performance desired by the enthusiast, the company points out. Both have a 122-inch wheelbase. The new Pontiac will go on display Friday, Nov. 8, at Boyd Pontiac, 1159 Columbus Ave.

Unique Band Show Planned for Friday

Although handicapped by absences from practice during the wave of flu that has swept through the school for the last two weeks, the Washington C. H. High School marching band will put on an unique musical travelougue for its halftime show at the football game in Hilliards Friday night.

It is the story of the hunt for Hernando's Hide-away, made popular by a song of that name a couple of years ago.

The search for the hide-away starts at a ball game, with the band playing "Take Me Out to the Ball Game and, meeting failure there, it moves to South America on a banana boat, with the majorettes putting on a dance drill while the band plays the song "Banana Boat."

Failing again, the band returns to its own back yard to find a hide-away in a "Shanty in Old Shanty Town."

The cost of all accidents in the United States last year would build 300,000 class A schoolrooms which would provide facilities for an additional nine million new students.

Springfielder, 45, Guilty in Slaying

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—Herman W. Snyder, 45, of Springfield, was convicted of first degree manslaughter Wednesday for the 1948 bludgeoning of William C. Krowell of New Carlisle.

Three judges who heard the case without a jury in Greene County Common Pleas Court sentenced Snyder to 1-20 years in Ohio Penitentiary.

Snyder admitted hitting Crowell on the head with a rock during a drinking spree.

Beef, Pork Specials Offered by Markets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Housewives surveying the special bargains offered by supermarkets and neighborhood grocery stores this week will find they have a choice of beef or pork.

Top and bottom round steak, sirloin and porterhouse steaks and rib roast are being featured in some stores. Others are stressing pork loins, pork roast, fresh ham and smoked ham.

Turkeys, still at bargain levels, are the No. 1 attraction in some stores, while others offer lamb leg or the increasingly popular lamb combination of chops and stew mea..

Shrimp prices are shrinking now that autumn catches in Louisiana waters are surpassing last year's haul.

Vegetable counters offer a good variety of outstanding buys, in those area where they're available from nearby fields, with such items as cabbage, onions, potatoes, cauliflower, bunched beets and carrots.

Western pascal celery remains a good buy, while other good buys include Western topped carrots (packed in cellophane bags), cucumbers, Idaho and Washington russet potatoes and yellow and green squash from Florida.

Just about any variety of fall apple you like is an outstanding buy this week, with supplies flooding the markets. Just in time, too, for housewives to hand out for Halloween.

Elements Pile Up; Now Number 102

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Central Press Assn.

LABONT, Ill.—At the Argonne National laboratory here—the huge facility operated by the University of Chicago for the Atomic Energy commission—they continue to look for new elements to add to the periodic table charts which hang at the front of virtually every high school and college science classroom.

Dr. Paul R. Fields, group leader in the chemistry division, still basks in the international scientific acclaim of his discovery, in company with some English and Swedish scientists, of the new man-made Element 102, tentatively named "Nobelium," in honor of Alfred Nobel of peace prize fame.

As almost everyone remembers from his science teaching, elements are those substances on earth and in the universe which are "perfectly unmixed bodies and not made up of any other bodies or of one another." The ancients thought there were just four—earth, air, fire and water.

* * *

THE LIGHTEST is hydrogen and the heaviest uranium; oxygen is the most prevalent and alone or in combination with others accounts for about half the earth's crust. All are either non-metals or metals, the latter being all solids except mercury, which is liquid.

Such common substances as sulphur, iodine, tin, lead, zinc aluminum, nickel, copper, silver and gold are elements familiar to everyone.

For centuries before the age of modern science, the alchemists built a virtual cult around trying to make "baser materials" into gold, thinking that was the key to fabulous wealth.

Now the atomic scientist can accomplish transmutation of one element into another, like gold, but it is only a research and laboratory feat.

* * *

THE NEW ELEMENT has been called a will-o'-the-wisp, because nobody has ever seen or measured it except with delicate instruments, and it has what is known as an atomic "half life" of only 10 to 12 minutes.

One of the newer man-made elements, plutonium, has great possibilities for practical use as a fuel for atomic power plants, but nobelium so far is highly important only as a further probing of the nature of the universe and its matter.

It also is the first element discovered in an international cooperative effort stretching half way around the globe.

Fields worked with Arnold M. Friedmann, a physicist, at Argonne where the materials were prepared originally for testing. At the great English atomic center in Harwell the materials were processed, and a cyclotron at the Noble institute in Stockholm had just the right features to create it.

Until 1940, scientists were pretty well settled on the 92 elements many students had to memorize. Then neptunium was discovered at the University of California, and plutonium followed as the great find in connection with United States production of the first atom bomb. Plutonium and uranium are the "triggers" of the awesome hydrogen bomb.

* * *

NO LONGER are the elements themselves regarded as entirely simple substances since now it is known that some are made up of the isotopes everyone hears about in medicine, agriculture and industry. That is, they are comprised of atoms having different weights but identical atomic numbers.

Two of the new elements, 99 and 100, emerged from the crucible of the hydrogen bomb, for they were found in the debris of the tremendous Bikini explosion of 1952.

* * *

PICKING NAMES for the new elements is an interesting exercise. Elements 93 and 94 were named after the planets beyond Uranus; 95, americium, after the Americas; 96, curium, after Marie Curie, discoverer of polonium and radium; 97, berkelium, after Berkeley, Calif., and 98, californium, after California, the places they were discovered.

Elements 99 is einsteinium, named after Albert Einstein, father of relativity, 100, fermium, after Enrico Fermi, father of the Atomic Age and 101, mendelevium, after Dmitri Mendeleev, Russian chemist who originated the periodic table.

Now the addition of 102 about uses up all the space on that table as currently set up, and renders present charts all over the world as obsolete as the arrangement of stars in the flag after admission of a new state.

The co-discoverer of the new element nobelium, Dr. Paul R. Fields of the Argonne National laboratory, shows where Element 102 now will have to be written into all the periodic charts of the atoms throughout the world. There is room for just one more new element to be discovered and included in the charts as now set up.

Traffic Signals Pffft; Motorist Confused

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Motorists and pedestrians didn't know whether they were coming or going when 46 traffic signals went haywire here Tuesday.

The signals flashed crazily for more than 15 minutes shortly after the noontime rush, giving motorists stops and gos almost simultaneously.

It happened when a mason, helping to remodel the office of the traffic control director, moved a switch to make work easier.

29 Areas in Ohio Due To See Fuel Gas Rates Boosted

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. Wednesday announced a rate increase in 29 Ohio communities having contracts containing fuel cost clauses.

The increase will be one cent for each 1,000 cubic feet in some communities and one-half cent in others. The company said the retail increase results from higher prices charged by suppliers.

The one-cent increase will apply to Toledo, Maumee, Ottawa Hills, Rossford, Walbridge, Mansfield, Willard, Gahanna, Whitehall, Worthington, Grandview Heights, Upper Arlington, Hanford, Wellston, Alliance, Lisbon, Columbiana, Leetonia, Canfield and Salineville.

The half-cent increase will apply to nine other communities: Columbus, Bexley, Marble Cliff, Valley View, Riverlea, West Jefferson, Galion, Bay Village and Avon Lake.

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD.

FUTURE IN DOUBT—Following a sharp rebuke from his bosses for accepting an auto from King Saud of Saudi Arabia, deputy protocol officer Victor Purse (above), 39, is being relieved of his post "pending further consideration." Purse said only that he had cleared the gift with the legal division of the State department. He worked on arrangements for Saud's visit to Washington last winter. (International)

Elements Pile Up; Now Number 102

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Central Press Assn.

LABONT, Ill.—At the Argonne National laboratory here—the huge facility operated by the University of Chicago for the Atomic Energy commission—they continue to look for new elements to add to the periodic table charts which hang at the front of virtually every high school and college science classroom.

Dr. Paul R. Fields, group leader in the chemistry division, still basks in the international scientific acclaim of his discovery, in company with some English and Swedish scientists, of the new man-made Element 102, tentatively named "Nobelium," in honor of Alfred Nobel of peace prize fame.

As almost everyone remembers from his science teaching, elements are those substances on earth and in the universe which are "perfectly unmixed bodies and not made up of any other bodies or of one another." The ancients thought there were just four—earth, air, fire and water.

* * *

THE LIGHTEST is hydrogen and the heaviest uranium; oxygen is the most prevalent and alone or in combination with others accounts for about half the earth's crust. All are either non-metals or metals, the latter being all solids except mercury, which is liquid.

Such common substances as sulphur, iodine, tin, lead, zinc aluminum, nickel, copper, silver and gold are elements familiar to everyone.

For centuries before the age of modern science, the alchemists built a virtual cult around trying to make "baser materials" into gold, thinking that was the key to fabulous wealth.

Now the atomic scientist can accomplish transmutation of one element into another, like gold, but it is only a research and laboratory feat.

* * *

THE NEW ELEMENT has been called a will-o'-the-wisp, because nobody has ever seen or measured it except with delicate instruments, and it has what is known as an atomic "half life" of only 10 to 12 minutes.

One of the newer man-made elements, plutonium, has great possibilities for practical use as a fuel for atomic power plants, but nobelium so far is highly important only as a further probing of the nature of the universe and its matter.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

Fayette County wheat gives promise of going into the winter in good condition, or at least most of it that was sown during the month now has that appearance.

Rains (and snow) recently, have been sufficient to give the fall-sown wheat a good start toward obtaining a proper root-hold before severe weather arrives.

While most of the wheat is still short, it is making rapid growth and indications are that by the last of November it will be fully normal for that time of the year.

Much of the wheat was seeded in good time, although some is a little late where corn could not be picked and the stalk fields cleared for planting wheat.

Acreage this fall is nearly normal.

CITY HAD WORKHOUSE

Seventy-five years ago Washington C. H. had a workhouse where prisoners who were unable to pay fines, or who were assessed a term in the "works" in addition to their fines, were imprisoned and put to work.

It was in 1882 that Council voted to build a workhouse, and it was erected immediately back of the City Building which at that time was a large two-story brick and fame structure, located on the tract now occupied by the Fire Department headquarters.

It was not a large building, but from reports I have had, it held a number of prisoners who were put to work making brooms and other tasks usually given prisoners.

How long the workhouse was kept in operation, I have been unable to ascertain, but reports indicate that the venture was not a paying one, and after a few years it was abandoned. Prisoners were then "farmed out" to workhouses in the larger cities, like Columbus, Dayton and Cincinnati.

Although there was no workhouse in later years, many prisoners were formerly worked on the streets, sewers and other jobs carried on by the city up until a few years ago.

Not every administration worked prisoners on the streets, but several of them did, and even under one city manager as I recall, prisoners were required to work out their fines and costs, at a fair daily wage.

* * *

TIP TOP STREETS

Never before have I seen so many of the city's streets go into the winter months in such exceptionally good condition as they are at the present time.

Under the street improvement program which has been pressed during the past few years, several additional miles of street have been improved, until Washington C. H. is now one of the best paved cities in the country.

Year after year the program of improvement has been extended to the great satisfaction of a large number of citizens who previously had lived on dusty streets.

In addition to resurfacing or blacktopping numerous streets many other streets were placed in top condition.

One of these improvements was in the uptown district where some of the paved streets showed innumerable fissures which were filled with a coating of liquid asphalt and sand, giving many years of additional life to existing pavements.

* * *

FIRST PHONE LINE

Newspaper accounts in 1883 relate how plans were being completed to connect Washington C. H. and Circleville telephone exchanges by the first toll line to be built between the two cities.

Apparently the work of building this line was completed in either 1883 and 1884, and both cities were connected with the outside world, although at that time the number of telephones in each city was limited to a few score reports indicate.

PORCUPINE QUILLS SHARP

I know what it is to be "bitten" by a porcupine quill, although as far as I know I was not within 50 miles of a porcupine.

Looking through my files I accidentally struck my thumb against one of several procupine spines or quills, which I have had for several years and which were brought to me by a friend on his return from Canada.

I discovered that the quills are even sharper than a needle, and because of their barbed tips are just as painful when extracted from the flesh as when they enter.

Mention of porcupines, which rarely are found in this community (I know of only one ever being killed in the county and that was years ago) recalls that I saw in the White Mountains on a trip through that part of the New England States many years ago.

Porcupines are rarely found south of 40 degrees longitude except in the Rocky Mountains, where they extend south to near the Mexican border.

Many have the mistaken idea that a porcupine shoots his quills at an enemy. This is not correct, but if an enemy touches one of the quills, it sticks fast and slips from its moorings on the porcuppine's body.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

Fayette County wheat gives promise of going into the winter in good condition, or at least most of it that was sown during the month now has that appearance.

Rains (and snow) recently, have been sufficient to give the fall-sown wheat a good start toward obtaining a proper root-hold before severe weather arrives.

While most of the wheat is still short, it is making rapid growth and indications are that by the last of November it will be fully normal for that time of the year.

Much of the wheat was seeded in good time, although some is a little late where corn could not be picked and the stalk fields cleared for planting wheat.

Acreage this fall is nearly normal.

CITY HAD WORKHOUSE

Seventy-five years ago Washington C. H. had a workhouse where prisoners who were unable to pay fines, or who were assessed a term in the "works" in addition to their fines, were imprisoned and put to work.

It was in 1882 that Council voted to build a workhouse, and it was erected immediately back of the City Building which at that time was a large two-story brick and fame structure, located on the tract now occupied by the Fire Department headquarters.

It was not a large building, but from reports I have had, it held a number of prisoners who were put to work making brooms and other tasks usually given prisoners.

How long the workhouse was kept in operation, I have been unable to ascertain, but reports indicate that the venture was not a paying one, and after a few years it was abandoned. Prisoners were then "farmed out" to workhouses in the larger cities, like Columbus, Dayton and Cincinnati.

Although there was no workhouse in later years, many prisoners were formerly worked on the streets, sewers and other jobs carried on by the city up until a few years ago.

Not every administration worked prisoners on the streets, but several of them did, and even under one city manager as I recall, prisoners were required to work out their fines and costs, at a fair daily wage.

TIP TOP STREETS

Never before have I seen so many of the city's streets go into the winter months in such exceptionally good condition as they are at the present time.

Under the street improvement program which has been pressed during the past few years, several additional miles of street have been improved, until Washington C. H. is now one of the best paved cities in the country.

Year after year the program of improvement has been extended to the great satisfaction of a large number of citizens who previously had lived on dusty streets.

In addition to resurfacing or blacktopping numerous streets many other streets were placed in top condition.

One of these improvements was in the uptown district where some of the paved streets showed innumerable fissures which were filled with a coating of liquid asphalt and sand, giving many years of additional life to existing pavements.

FIRST PHONE LINE

Newspaper accounts in 1883 relate how plans were being completed to connect Washington C. H. and Circleville telephone exchanges by the first toll line to be built between the two cities.

Apparently the work of building this line was completed in either 1883 and 1884, and both cities were connected with the outside world, although at that time the number of telephones in each city was limited to a few score reports indicate.

PORCUPINE QUILLS SHARP

I know what it is to be "bitten" by a porcupine quill, although as far as I know I was not within 50 miles of a porcupine.

Looking through my files I accidentally struck my thumb against one of several procupine spines or quills, which I have had for several years and which were brought to me by a friend on his return from Canada.

I discovered that the quills are even sharper than a needle, and because of their barbed tips are just as painful when extracted from the flesh as when they enter.

Mention of porcupines, which rarely are found in this community (I know of only one ever being killed in the county and that was years ago) recalls that I saw in the White Mountains on a trip through that part of the New England States many years ago.

Porcupines are rarely found south of 40 degrees longitude except in the Rocky Mountains, where they extend south to near the Mexican border.

Many have the mistaken idea that a porcupine shoots his quills at an enemy. This is not correct, but if an enemy touches one of the quills, it sticks fast and slips from its moorings on the porcupine's body.

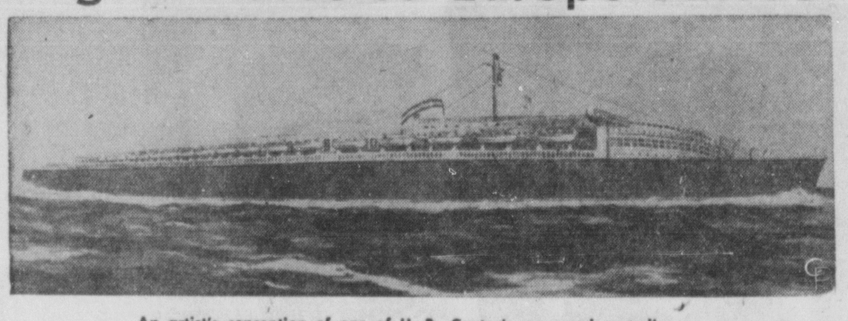
Bargain Rates to Europe Ahead



An artist's conception of one of H. B. Cantor's proposed superliners.

By ART CROCKETT
Central Press Assn.

As soon as the Navy and the U. S. Maritime Commission approve the plans now in their offices, H. B. Cantor's 20 - year dream will come true.

His plans call for construction of two giant superliners, each carrying 6,000 passengers in an operation designed to revolutionize trans-Atlantic travel.

The cost per passenger: Fifty dollars one way.

Reservations can be made as soon as the keels are laid.

Cantor, president of the Carter hotel chain, long has asked the question: "Why not inaugurate Atlantic crossings within the reach of the average wage earner's pocketbook?"

To find the answer, he called on the services of Vladimir Yourkevitch, the Normandie's architect. The result of Yourkevitch's labor was a detailed plan for a 90,000 - ton ship, 1,150 feet long, with a cruising speed of 34 knots, making it the largest and fastest ship afloat.

• • •

BY WAY of comparison, the Queen Elizabeth is 1,083 feet and weighs 83,000 tons. Cantor's ships will have 6,000 berths each; the Queen Elizabeth has 2,200 berths.

Cantor expects to spend a sum estimated at $100 million to $135 million on each ship. He's going to operate the vessels without a government subsidy, although financing the cost of construction has been made possible through recent amendments of the Maritime Financing act.

Says Cantor, "Making possible frequent travel between this country and Europe will foster a better understanding between the two continents. In this respect, the ships will be named Peace and Good Will."

The superliners are expected to operate between New York City and a port in Belgium. They will make the trip in four days, pass each other in mid - ocean.

• • •

ONE OF THE MORE important deviations from the traditional ocean - going liner is the one class service. Fifty dollars buys transportation and a stateroom, which will feature a closed-circuit TV set, air - conditioning and private bath. Stateroom accommodations will consist of about 2,000 two-passenger staterooms, 100 single staterooms, 300 triples and 350 for four persons each."

"These ships won't be luxury liners," says Cantor, of Kew Gardens, New York. "I feel the public is having a lot of luxuries and services foisted upon it that it does not want and shouldn't have to pay for."

A passenger looking for caviar and champagne on board will have difficulty satisfying his delicate tastes. However, he won't go hungry because each ship will have a 1,500-seat cafeteria and a 1,000 - seat formal dining room. There will be two automat - type canteens on each deck and four bars and cocktail lounges.

• • •

MEALS will be extra, but figured at three a day the outside cost is estimated at four dollars a day.

Each ship will feature two indoor swimming pools and one outdoor pool. There will be a skating rink, two theaters, shopping centers and a concert hall.

During the winter months ocean - going conventions and trade exhibits can make excellent use of Convention Hall, a double-decked, glass - enclosed aircraft hanger space with a 4,000 - seat capacity.

Twenty air - tight compartments on each ship is a feature which will make them unsinkable. In time of war, they easily can be converted to aircraft carriers or division-strength troopships.

With a wealth of hotel operating experience behind him, Cantor now is working out a low-cost, two - week, packaged vacation deal which will appeal to those who are partial to installment plan buying. An all - expense tour will cost $330 and can be had with a $30 down payment, balance in 10 months.

This Gal Doesn't Kill Moths She Raises, Coddles Them

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—While many of us are busy killing moth and carpet beetle larvae, Gerry Pickering is just as busy raising them.

Gerry doesn't like bugs any more than the next person, but her job depends on having enough of the hungry pests on hand. As technician for the National Institute of Dry Cleaners in nearby Silver Spring, Md., she uses the larvae to test mothproofing products and procedures for institute members.

Gerry says there are only two ways to determine whether a member's product or procedure really works.

"One is to apply it to the customer's garments—then wait and hope," she says. "The other is to use our test service. It's obvious which is the sure way to avoid paying expensive claims."

Because everybody is busy killing moth and carpet beetle larvae, Mrs. Pickering has had to raise her own experimental brood.

She raises them in jars filled with a mixture of brewer's yeast and dog food. Gerry says the larvae thrive on dog food. They get so healthy they almost bark!

When the larvae get fat and hungry, she puts them in glass dishes where they can gnaw on swatches of fabric treated with a mothproofing product or process.

Twenty-eight days later Gerry knows the answer.

"The proof of the mothproofing," says she, "is in the mother eating."

The institute tests annually all the mothproofing compounds sold to dry cleaners. Those that pass the tests are listed in an annual technical bulletin.

The institute also sends its thousands of members a standard swatch, lets them mothproof it in their regular way and return it to the institute for testing. Each testing swatch plus an untreated one is put in a dish with 10 hungry larvae for the 28-day period.

The laboratory performs more than 2,000 of these tests annually.

"Sometimes we run out of larvae," says Gerry, "and have to buy them. They're tricky to raise and cost about a nickel each; thats why we try to keep an adequate supply of them on hand."

Where did this shopping trip start?

Like so many of the most successful shopping expeditions hereabouts, this one started with a careful study of the advertising columns of this newspaper.

•

That way, the shopper got a quick, city-wide preview of who was offering what for sale . . . and for how much.

•

Thus, waste motion or loss of time, she was able to make a bee-line for the stores that had what she wanted to buy at the prices she wanted to pay.

Advertising in this newspaper is a "two - way street." For the shopper, it's a time-saving short-cut to the best values in town. For the advertiser, it's an effective selling short-cut to his most responsive market.

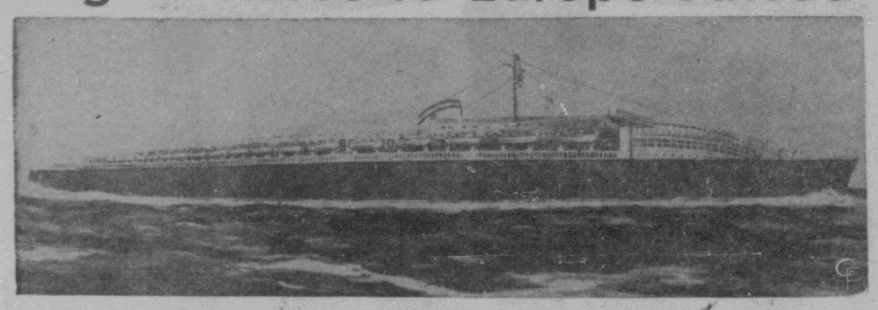
Bargain Rates to Europe Ahead



An artist's conception of one of H. B. Cantor's proposed superliners.

By ART CROCKETT
Central Press Assn.

As soon as the Navy and the U. S. Maritime Commission approve the plans now in their offices, H. B. Cantor's 20 - year dream will come true.

His plans call for construction of two giant superliners, each carrying 6,000 passengers in an operation designed to revolutionize trans-Atlantic travel.

The cost per passenger: Fifty dollars one way.

Reservations can be made as soon as the keels are laid.

Cantor, president of the Carter hotel chain, long has asked the question: "Why not inaugurate Atlantic crossings within the reach of the average wage earner's pocketbook?"

To find the answer, he called on the services of Vladimir Yourkevitch, the Normandie's architect. The result of Yourkevitch's labor was a detailed plan for a 90,000 - ton ship, 1,150 feet long, with a cruising speed of 34 knots, making it the largest and fastest ship afloat.

• • •

BY WAY of comparison, the Queen Elizabeth is 1,083 feet and weighs 83,000 tons. Cantor's ships will have 6,000 berths each; the Queen Elizabeth has 2,200 berths.

Cantor expects to spend a sum estimated at $100 million to $135 million on each ship. He's going to operate the vessels without a government subsidy, although financing the cost of construction has been made possible through recent amendments of the Maritime Financing act.

Says Cantor, "Making possible frequent travel between this country and Europe will foster a better understanding between the two continents. In this respect, the ships will be named Peace and Good Will."

The superliners are expected to operate between New York City and a port in Belgium. They will make the trip in four days, pass each other in mid - ocean.

• • •

ONE OF THE MORE important deviations from the traditional ocean - going liner is the one class service. Fifty dollars buys transportation and a stateroom, which will feature a closed-circuit TV set, air - conditioning and private bath. Stateroom accommodations will consist of about 2,000 two-passenger staterooms, 100 single staterooms, 300 triples and 350 for four persons each."

"These ships won't be luxury liners," says Cantor, of Kew Gardens, New York. "I feel the public is having a lot of luxuries and services foisted upon it that it does not want and shouldn't have to pay for."

A passenger looking for caviar and champagne on board will have difficulty satisfying his delicate tastes. However, he won't go hungry because each ship will have a 1,500-seat cafeteria and a 1,000 - seat formal dining room. There will be two automat - type canteens on each deck and four bars and cocktail lounges.

• • •

MEALS will be extra, but figured at three a day the outside cost is estimated at four dollars a day.

Each ship will feature two indoor swimming pools and one outdoor pool. There will be a skating rink, two theaters, shopping centers and a concert hall.

During the winter months ocean - going conventions and trade exhibits can make excellent use of Convention Hall, a double-decked, glass - enclosed aircraft hanger space with a 4,000 - seat capacity.

Twenty air - tight compartments on each ship is a feature which will make them unsinkable. In time of war, they easily can be converted to aircraft carriers or division-strength troopships.

With a wealth of hotel operating experience behind him, Cantor now is working out a low-cost, two - week, packaged vacation deal which will appeal to those who are partial to installment plan buying. An all - expense tour will cost $330 and can be had with a $30 down payment, balance in 10 months.

This Gal Doesn't Kill Moths She Raises, Coddles Them

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—While many of us are busy killing moth and carpet beetle larvae, Gerry Pickering is just as busy raising them.

Gerry doesn't like bugs any more than the next person, but her job depends on having enough of the hungry pests on hand. As technician for the National Institute of Dry Cleaners in nearby Silver Spring, Md., she uses the larvae to test mothproofing products and procedures for institute members.

Gerry says there are only two ways to determine whether a member's product or procedure really works.

"One is to apply it to the customer's garments—then wait and hope," she says. "The other is to use our test service. It's obvious which is the sure way to avoid paying expensive claims."

Because everybody is busy killing moth and carpet beetle larvae, Mrs. Pickering has had to raise her own experimental brood.

She raises them in jars filled with a mixture of brewer's yeast and dog food. Gerry says the larvae thrive on dog food. They get so healthy they almost bark!

When the larvae get fat and hungry, she puts them in glass dishes where they can gnaw on swatches of fabric treated with a mothproofing product or process.

Twenty-eight days later Gerry knows the answer.

"The proof of the mothproofing," says she, "is in the mother-eating."

The institute tests annually all the mothproofing compounds sold to dry cleaners. Those that pass the tests are listed in an annual technical bulletin.

The institute also sends its thousands of members a standard swatch, lets them mothproof it in their regular way and return it to the institute for testing. Each testing swatch plus an untreated one is put in a dish with 10 hungry larvae for the 28-day period.

The laboratory performs more than 2,000 of these tests annually.

"Sometimes we run out of larvae," says Gerry, "and have to buy them. They're tricky to raise and cost about a nickel each; thats why we try to keep an adequate supply of them on hand."

Ohio Masonic Office Moved to Westerville

EAST LIVERPOOL (AP)—The office of the grand secretary, Royal Arch Masons of Ohio, has been moved from East Liverpool to Westerville, near Columbus.

Westerville is the home of Ralph W. Smith, recently elected grand secretary, and the office always is located in the city of the office-holder. He succeeded the late Henry Gruen of East Liverpool, who held the post seven years.

Where did this shopping trip start?

Like so many of the most successful shopping expeditions hereabouts, this one started with a careful study of the advertising columns of this newspaper.

•

That way, the shopper got a quick, city-wide preview of who was offering what for sale . . . and for how much.

•

Thus, waste motion or loss of time, she was able to make a bee-line for the stores that had what she wanted to buy at the prices she wanted to pay.

Advertising in this newspaper is a "two - way street." For the shopper, it's a time-saving short-cut to the best values in town. For the advertiser, it's an effective selling short-cut to his most responsive market.

Bulldog, Warrior Cage Seasons Open Friday

Basketball, the smaller high school's answer to big-school sports dominance, gets under way with a flourish Friday night in that part of Ohio where it's always been most popular: the rural areas.

Here in Fayette County, that's the cue for action in two Class A high schools. And one of the two has chosen as its Friday night opponent another Class A school from just across the county line.

Bloomingburg and Madison Mills are the local outfits getting underway Friday. Bloomingburg, defending Fayette County champ, faces a rough and ready Simon Kenton squad from Clinton County on the 'Burg floor. Madison Mills, rejuvenated and looking forward to a good year, will play at New Holland a member of the Pickaway County League.

* * *

IF EARLY REPORTS are any indication, the overall hoop picture here will be splashier than it was a year ago.

The champion Bulldogs have lost some of their valuable men, while the underdog Madison Mills Warriors have picked up some strength.

And over in New Holland, where Coach Robert Melick is preparing a team that will meet all four of the Fayette County squads during the season, the outlook is for "the best team here in years."

But perhaps the statement that "Bloomingburg is weaker" does not tell the whole story. Coach Everett Rudolph says his team thoroughly intends to win another county championship if they can, and the squad isn't going to be a pushover for anybody—not even the classy Simon Kenton outfit.

* * *

IN FACT, there are some who think Rudolph is being too pessimistic. He has, for example, another call at the services of Co-Captains Bob Riley and Don Hidy, two of the boys who saw Bloomingburg through the district tourney.

Besides, he has a lot of flashy new recruits who, if they aren't as experienced as they might be in varsity play, show a lot of potential. Among them are Ken Anderson, Larry McArthur, David Heistand, Jim Fradd, Jim Hidy, Buddy Snyder and Larry Kilgore.

* * *

OVER AT Madison Mills, Coach Tolman Mills couldn't be much happier about his prospects. "We've got more height, and we've got a lot of boys up from a good reserve team— I think that gives us a good chance," Mills said. Them's fightin' words from a coach.

While Bloomingburg's squad will average about 5 feet, 10 inches in height, the Warriors may average closer to 6 feet. Included will be Forwards Joe King (6' 2") and Ronald Ford (6' ½") and Center Herschel Williams (6' 2½"). That's a good start for any school.

Center Earl Williams and Guard Gene Caudill will be back from last year's squad, and Guard Tom Maynard seems to be on his way up. Others who will fill out the varsity and reserve squads are Jerry Coy, Lynn Ford, Jay Smith, Joe Belt, Lawrence Brown, Robert Belt, Elwood Rowland, Donald Conley and Gene Dailey.

* * *

NEW HOLLAND bases its high hopes on seven— count 'em, seven— returning seniors among his varsity stalwarts. They are Roger Yeoman, Kenny Speakman, John Lininger, Jim Landman, Bill Garrison, Charles Free and Dave Dennis.

Others on his squad are Harry Davis, Nelson Bochard, Trevor Bush, Myron Haggard, Gary Hott, Roger Knisley, Gene Large, Marlin McDaniel, Eddie Orihood, Dave Puffinbarger and Howard Wood.

Reserve games start at 7 p. m. and varsity contests between 8 and 8:30 p. m., just as in other seasons.

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD.

Victory Hopes Raised by Lions

Downfield Blocking Praised by Coaches

Hopes of winning Friday night's game at Hilliards mounted in the camp of the WHS Lions Thursday, following Wednesday evening's pratice that was described as "very good" by Coach Fred Domenico and his staff.

What made them happiest was the downfield blocking. Domenico said: "It was as good as it was in the Rosary game. . .and they (the Lions) showed a comeback after the let-down in the Oak Hill game."

The tackling, however, admittedly has been giving the coaches some concern. They think it is not as good as it could be; that, while the boys don't lack for trying, the ball carriers too often are missed or permitted to slip out of their grasp.

* * *

WEDNESDAY evening's practice concentrated on the offense. The squad was irto two offensive teams, one the Reds and the other the Blues, and one defensive team made up largely of the reserves.

The Reds and Blues alternated in running the WHS plays against the expected (from scouting reports) Hilliards defense put up by the reserves.

This was where the downfield blocking was polished up. Coaches Jack O'Rourke and Clyde Cramer took positions behind the defense to check the offensive blocking while Coaches Domenico and Marvin Merritt watched the offense for timing and precision.

Domenico explained that "the boys are learning to get that first block in the line and then, when that assignment is carried out, go downfield to take out at least one of the secondary." But, he emphasized that their first job was to get that first block, "otherwise there is no need to get the second one, because the ball carries will not get through the line."

* * *

AS THINGS stand now, there will be few, if any changes, in the lineups that went against the Rosary and Oak Hill teams. This includes liberal substitutions, Domenico said.

Only two of the squad missed the Wednesday practice because of illness. One was Gary Stoddard, fullback, and the other Tom Seaman, an end. Dick Welsh, a center, was back in uniform after a tussle with the flu.

Thursday's signal drill—and nothing more—will be held after school instead of at night, as has been customary.

Domenico said twice as many volunteers as are needed had offered to take the Lions to Hilliards Friday night in private cars. Usually, the squad makes its out-of-town trips by bus. A light truck will take the equipment.

The squad will leave the field house at Gardner Park at 5:15 p. m.

The WHS marching band also will make the trip to Hilliards to put on a unique musical travalogue in search of Hermandos Hide-out during the halftime of the game.

Chuck Mather Calls It Quits In Kansas

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Chuck Mather has thrown in the towel on four dismal years as football coach at the University of Kansas.

"The pressure is simply too great," he said Wednesday night in announcing he and his staff will withdraw at the end of the season. "We have no apologies for the time we've been at Kansas."

Mather didn't amplify his reference to pressure.

He brought a brilliant high school coaching record to Lawrence in 1954 but his Jayhawk teams have won only seven games, lost 26 and tied three. This season's record is 1-4-1.

It was Mather's first venture into college coaching. From 1937 Ohio won 111, lost 18 and tied 5.

Speculation about a successor to 1954 his high school teams in centered on Jack Mitchell, head football man at the University of Arkansas. A Kansas spokesman pointed out the director of athletics, the athletic board and the board of regents all have a say on the hiring of a new coach. He indicated no immediate action will be taken.

In a statement, Mather said:

"Last night our staff, with deep regret, came to the conclusion that we cannot solve the football problems at the University of Kansas even by winning the next four games. Therefore, we hereby submit our resignation."

Midwest Grid Expert Picks Big 10 Scores

Ohio State Forecast To Defeat Wildcats By Easy 21-7 Score

By JERRY LISKA
Midwest AP Sports Editor

CHICAGO (AP)—The old prognosticator, who missed only one pick last week (Wisconsin), tries to scare the spooks out of the Midwest football attic:

(Batting average to date, 32-8 for .800).

Michigan 18, Iowa 13 — You'll see it yourself on TV. The Wolverines somehow seem to have the whammy on the Hawkeyes, coached by old Wolverine Forest Evashevski. And this year, they get the dope on Iowa straight from the feed box. Michigan backfield coach Bump Elliott was an Iowa aide to Evashevski the past five seasons. Unbeaten Iowa hasn't faced a good passing team yet. Michigan has two chaps who can throw, Jim Van Pelt and Stan Noskin, and a flock who can catch.

Illinois 20, Purdue 13 — This should be a ding-dong battle between two Big Ten "spoilers." The Illini have the home advantage. Although Purdue upset Michigan State two weeks ago, the Illini without the element of surprise held the Spartans to a 19-14 victory last Saturday. Bobby Mitchell and Dale Smith are rolling better for the Illini every game.

Notre Dame 14, Navy 13—The unbeaten Irish are ripe for an upset. Navy is a sharp-passing, swift club defeated only by North Carolina in six starts. The Middies will strive mightily to do what Army couldn't do, the Cadets suffering a 23-21 defeat by the Irish Oct. 12. However, we have a hunch that the Irish, injuries and all, will pull some heroic stunt and go undefeated against Michigan State the following Saturday.

Michigan State 19, Wisconsin 13—Whereas Ohio State spurned the air against the Badgers, the Spartans will pass at the drop of a helmet. MSU, too, has the speed in Walt Kowalczyk and Blanche Martin to cope with the long-gainer threat of Danny Lewis, et al. But coach Milt Bruhn has done a whale of a job with his "Baby" Badgers this fall.

Ohio State 21, Northwestern 7—Unless the weatherman lends a helping hand to the riddled, winless Wildcats again, the Buckeyes should move another notch closer to the Big Ten title, or at least a Rose Bowl trip. Ohio State has had its troubles with Northwestern even though the Buckeyes won the last eight contests with the Wildcats. Don Clark, the bounding Buckeye, may have a big day.

College of Pacific 13, Marquette 7—This is a fine chance for the Warriors to end their 16-game losing streak, but COP is just a little too tough.

Lakers Still Lack Old Winning Habit

DETROIT (AP)—There are a lot of new faces in the Minneapolis Lakers dressing room these days, but the winning habit that used to go with the name hasn't shown up yet.

The Lakers, after their 115-96 loss to the Detroit Pistons Wednesday night, now hold down the National Basketball Assn.'s western division cellar with an 0-2 record. The game also marked the Pistons' first victory.

George Yardley with 28 points, Bob Houbregs with 16 and ex-Laker Walt Dukes with 14 topped the Pistons scorers.

WHS Basketball Coach Pleased at Prospects

"We ought to have the best season we've had since I came here."

That's strong language. But Herb Russell, varsity basketball coach at Washington C. H. High School, stuck to it.

With varsity practice ready to start at 4 p. m. Friday, Russell said prospects for the coming season look "pretty good. . .really pretty good."

"At the very least," said Russell, whose Blue Lion hoopsters open their season here Nov. 29 against Bexley, "we ought to improve on last year's 10-8 record."

"And that's the very least. If things go right, and if we don't have any injuries, and if. . .well, just wait and see!" Russell said.

* * *

RUSSELL can put up a lot of evidence to substantiate his optimism. Of the 14 boys whom he expects out Friday afternoon, almost every one had shown creditable abilities in past seasons of play.

Heading the list is Tom Swaim, senior forward whom Russell is boosting for all-state honors. Swaim, an aggressive driver and rebounder with a flashy defense record was one of the mainstays of the squad last season. He was named to the all-South Central Ohio League team.

Swaim's biggest trouble last season was offense. His shooting was not as accurate as it could have been, and, at five feet, 11 inches, he had a height disadvantage to overcome.

But Swaim has been spending long hours on the court through the summer, and Russell says, tentatively, "I think his shooting has improved a good deal."

* * *

BESIDES SWAIM, there's plenty. Forward Larry Milstead, who led scoring last season with a 14-point average, will be back for another season. Center Jim McWilliams, an excellent rebounder, and guard Bill Herman, a topflight foul shooter, both are back on the roster.

Others expected for the first tryout are Bob Burris, Phil Johnson, Floyd Southward, Doug Rider, Roger McLean, Larry Bennett, Dave Korn, Ron Carter, Bill Southworth and Dick Welsh.

"And who knows", Russell said. "Someone may show up whom I don't really expect!"

Coaching the reserves will be Jack O'Rourke, who serves also as reserve football coach. Marvin Merritt, assistant football varsity coach, will take the junior high basketball squad when it goes into action later.

'Football Mothers' May Get Together To Learn Game

A meeting of "football mothers" is in prospect for next week, probably Thursday, Coach Fred Domenico of the WHS Lions disclosed today.

Domenico said so many mothers of the Lions had told him and the other coaches that they listen to football talk around home and would like to learn more about the game and the part their sons play in it that plans for a "Football Mothers" meeting already are beginning to take form.

The meeting, if the plans materialize, will be held in the field house at Gardner Park, where the boys dress for practice and games and where they go for the "skull practice" sessions.

The plans for the meeting, Domenico said, will include the showing of some game movies to illustrate the fundamentals of the game for the mothers.

Wives of the coaches also probably will be at the meeting to get acquainted with the mothers and to bring them into closer touch with the game and develop a relationship akin to that between the coaches and the fathers.

Domenico said that while the coaching staff stands ready to help set up the meeting, the whole idea actually is in the hands of the mothers.

Akins Rated Second As Welter Contender

NEW YORK (AP)—Virgil Akins is now listed second among contenders for the world welterweight crown vacated by middleweight champion Carmen Basilio.

Monthly ratings by Ring Magazine placed Akins behind Isaac Logart of Cuba, who had been the No. 2 contender behind former champ Tony Demarco of Boston. Akins knocked out Demarco in the 14th round of a scheduled 15-rounder Tuesday in Boston to bring about the shuffled ratings. Demarco now is third.

College Football Attendance Drops Except in South Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

College football attendance decreased in virtually every part of the country except the South and Southwest during the first half of the 1957 season.

But the over-all change was so small it probably could be explained by a few schedules that put the more attractive games later in the season this year—or by uncertain alumni who tossed a coin to decide whether or not they should go to the game on a threatening day.

An Associated Press survey of September and October major college games showed today that 303 played this year drew 350,360 fewer spectators than 313 games by the same teams last season. On the basis of average attendance per game, that shows a decrease of 1.26 percent—about 300 persons a game.

The Atlantic Coast, Southeastern, Big Eight, Southwest and Border Conferences all marked up gains, ranging from 8.2 percent in the Southwest to 17.3 percent in the Atlantic Coast. The major Eastern independent colleges also showed a slight gain—1.2 percent—due principally to the Army-Notre Dame game, which pulled some 96,000 spectators into the Philadelphia Municipal Stadium.

The larger independents scattered through other sections, whose totals are influenced by two big drawing cards — Notre Dame and Miami of Florida — experienced an over-all decline of 10.4 percent.

At this stage of the 1956 season, Notre Dame had played four home games before capacity crowds averaging over 59,000. This year the Irish have played at home only twice, against Indiana and Pitt, drawing 112,801 in all. Miami's home game attendance slipped by about 6,400 for four games.

While the two big leagues of Southern football registered respectable attendance gains, the smaller Southern Conference suffered the biggest percentage of loss—19.3 percent.

The mighty Big Ten, where Michigan can play before 101,001 spectators and Ohio State regularly draws around 80,000 for its home games, wound up with a 6.6 percent decline the first half of the season. Attendance in the troubled Pacific Coast Conference dropped 6.1 percent and in the Skyline Conference 6.9 percent.

The schedules and some bad weather figured in these changes.

The attendance decline, if it continues to the end of the season, reverses the trend of the past few years. Final figures for college football last season showed an over-all gain of about three percent over 1955.

Mrs. Robert Minor Wins Golfing Honor

A former Washington C. H. resident today holds the women's handicap golf championship of the Congressional Country Club in Washington, D. C.

She is Mrs. Robert Minor, the former Miss Joan Allen, daughter of Mrs. Howard S. Allen, 624 Oakland Ave., who started her golf at the Country Club here when she was in high school.

Mrs. Minor received the big trophy that goes with the honor and a smaller duplicate. Her name will be engraved on the big one, which will be passed along to the winner next year. The smaller one, she will keep.

The event, held each year on the birthday of the club pro, nationally-known Whiffy Cox, brings some of the top women golfers of the nation's Capital into competition.

Mr. and Mrs. Minor live in Bethesda, Md., a Washington suburb. They went to Washington nine years ago when Minor was on the legal staff of the Justice Department. Less than a year ago, he was appointed to the Interstate Commerce Commission by President Eisenhower.

TEXAS EASTERN CREWS ARE COMING TO WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE

Their job — to prepare "Little Big Inch" for transportation of petroleum products

Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation's Little Big Inch natural gas pipeline, which passes through this area, is now being reconverted to carry petroleum products. Pipeline crews who will shortly be moving into this vicinity to carry out reconditioning and testing operations will benefit the local economy. They will be using local facilities for eating and sleeping and will purchase some of their supplies here.

The reconditioning and testing operations are necessary to insure continued safe and proper operation of the line after its reconversion. In the testing process water will be pumped into the line and put under pressure. Any joint of the pipe which does not meet the test standards will be replaced before the line is put back in service.

Along its entire right-of-way Texas Eastern has a reputation of being a good corporate citizen. The crews working in this area will be under the direct supervision of Texas Eastern's experienced personnel who will insure that the company's policy of complete cooperation with local civic officials is carried out. Minor inconveniences which might result from the operation will be kept to a minimum.

To insure the most expeditious completion of the program, the public will be requested at certain times to stay clear of the pipeline right-of-way and farmers will be asked to keep their livestock off the line. The public will be notified at the proper time and low-flying aircraft piloted by experienced crewmen under Civil Aeronautics Administration authorization will patrol the right-of-way to assist in checking the line during these periods.

The Little Big Inch, upon completion of this reconversion program, will be one of the nation's largest common carriers of petroleum products. The system will link the refineries of the Gulf Coast and Mid-Continent areas with the rapidly expanding Midwestern-Chicago market area benefiting the people of both of these areas as well as contributing to the economy of the communities along the pipeline system.

We ask that the people of this area cooperate with us so that we can carry out the program in the shortest possible time.

Bulldog, Warrior Cage Seasons Open Friday

Basketball, the smaller high school's answer to big-school sports dominance, gets under way with a flourish Friday night in that part of Ohio where it's always been most popular: the rural areas.

Here in Fayette County, that's the cue for action in two Class A high schools. And one of the two has chosen as its Friday night opponent another Class A school from just across the county line.

Bloomingburg and Madison Mills are the local outfits getting underway Friday. Bloomingburg, defending Fayette County champ, faces a rough and ready Simon Kenton squad from Clinton County on the 'Burg floor. Madison Mills, rejuvenated and looking forward to a good year, will play at New Holland a member of the Pickaway County League.

* * *

IF EARLY REPORTS are any indication, the overall hoop picture here will be splashier than it was a year ago.

The champion Bulldogs have lost some of their valuable men, while the underdog Madison Mills Warriors have picked up some strength.

And over in New Holland, where Coach Robert Melick is preparing a team that will meet all four of the Fayette County squads during the season, the outlook is for "the best team here in years."

But perhaps the statement that "Bloomingburg is weaker" does not tell the whole story. Coach Everett Rudolph says his team thoroughly intends to win another county championship if they can, and the squad isn't going to be a pushover for anybody—not even the classy Simon Kenton outfit.

* * *

IN FACT, there are some who think Rudolph is being too pessimistic. He has, for example, another call at the services of Co-Captains Bob Riley and Don Hidy, two of the boys who saw Bloomingburg through the district tourney.

Besides, he has a lot of flashy new recruits who, if they aren't as experienced as they might be in varsity play, show a lot of potential. Among them are Ken Anderson, Larry McArthur, David Heistand, Jim Fradd, Jim Hidy, Buddy Snyder and Larry Kilgore.

* * *

OVER AT Madison Mills, Coach Tolman Mills couldn't be much happier about his prospects. "We've got more height, and we've got a lot of boys up from a good reserve team— I think that gives us a good chance," Mills said. Them's fightin' words from a coach.

While Bloomingburg's squad will average about 5 feet, 10 inches in height, the Warriors may average closer to 6 feet. Included will be Forwards Joe King (6' 2") and Ronald Ford (6' ½") and Center Herschel Williams (6' 2½"). That's a good start for any school.

Center Earl Williams and Guard Gene Caudill will be back from last year's squad, and Guard Tom Maynard seems to be on his way up. Others who will fill out the varsity and reserve squads are Jerry Coy, Lynn Ford, Jay Smith, Joe Belt, Lawrence Brown, Robert Belt, Elwood Rowland, Donald Conley and Gene Dailey.

* * *

NEW HOLLAND bases its high hopes on seven— count 'em, seven— returning seniors among his varsity stalwarts. They are Roger Yeoman, Kenny Speakman, John Lininger, Jim Landman, Bill Garrison, Charles Free and Dave Dennis.

Others on his squad are Harry Davis, Nelson Bochard, Trevor Bush, Myron Haggard, Gary Hott, Roger Knisley, Gene Large, Marlin McDaniel, Eddie Orihood, Dave Puffinbarger and Howard Wood.

Reserve games start at 7 p. m. and varsity contests between 8 and 8:30 p. m., just as in other seasons.

Victory Hopes Raised by Lions

Downfield Blocking Praised by Coaches

Hopes of winning Friday night's game at Hilliards mounted in the camp of the WHS Lions Thursday, following Wednesday evening's practice that was described as "very good" by Coach Fred Domenico and his staff.

What made them happiest was the downfield blocking. Domenico said: "It was as good as it was in the Rosary game. . .and they (the Lions) showed a comeback after the let-down in the Oak Hill game."

The tackling, however, admittedly has been giving the coaches some concern. They think it is not as good as it could be; that, while the boys don't lack for trying, the ball carriers too often are missed or permitted to slip out of their grasp.

* * *

WEDNESDAY evening's practice concentrated on the offense. The squad was into two offensive teams, one the Reds and the other the Blues, and one defensive team made up largely of the reserves.

The Reds and Blues alternated in running the WHS plays against the expected (from scouting reports) Hilliards defense put up by the reserves.

This was where the downfield blocking was polished up. Coaches Jack O'Rourke and Clyde Cramer took positions behind the defense to check the offensive blocking while Coaches Domenico and Marvin Merritt watched the offense for timing and precision.

Domenico explained that "the boys are learning to get that first block in the line and then, when that assignment is carried out, go downfield to take out at least one of the secondary." But, he emphasized that their first job was to get that first block, "otherwise there is no need to get the second one, because the ball carries will not get through the line."

* * *

AS THINGS stand now, there will be few, if any changes, in the lineups that went against the Rosary and Oak Hill teams. This includes liberal substitutions, Domenico said.

Only two of the squad missed the Wednesday practice because of illness, One was Gary Stoddard, fullback, and the other Tom Seaman, an end. Dick Welsh, a center, was back in uniform after a tussle with the flu.

Thursday's signal drill—and nothing more—will be held after school instead of at night, as has been customary.

Domenico said twice as many volunteers as are needed had offered to take the Lions to Hilliards Friday night in private cars. Usually, the squad makes its out-of-town trips by bus. A light truck will take the equipment.

The squad will leave the field house at Gardner Park at 5:15 p. m.

The WHS marching band also will make the trip to Hilliards to put on a unique musical travalogue in search of Hermandos Hide-out during the halftime of the game.

Chuck Mather Calls It Quits In Kansas

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Chuck Mather has thrown in the towel on four dismal years as football coach at the University of Kansas.

"The pressure is simply too great," he said Wednesday night in announcing he and his staff will withdraw at the end of the season. "We have no apologies for the time we've been at Kansas."

Mather didn't amplify his reference to pressure.

He brought a brilliant high school coaching record to Lawrence in 1954 but his Jayhawk teams have won only seven games, lost 26 and tied three. This season's record is 1-4-1.

It was Mather's first venture into college coaching. From 1937 Ohio won 111, lost 18 and tied 5.

Speculation about a successor to 1954 his high school teams in centered on Jack Mitchell, head football man at the University of Arkansas. A Kansas spokesman pointed out the director of athletics, the athletic board and the board of regents all have a say on the hiring of a new coach. He indicated no immediate action will be taken.

In a statement, Mather said:

"Last night our staff, with deep regret, came to the conclusion that we cannot solve the football problems at the University of Kansas even by winning the next four games. Therefore, we hereby submit our resignation."

Midwest Grid Expert Picks Big 10 Scores

Ohio State Forecast To Defeat Wildcats By Easy 21-7 Score

By JERRY LISKA
Midwest AP Sports Editor

CHICAGO (AP)—The old prognosticator, who missed only one pick last week (Wisconsin), tries to scare the spooks out of the Midwest football attic:

(Batting average to date, 32-8 for .800).

Michigan 18, Iowa 13 — You'll see it yourself on TV. The Wolverines somehow seem to have the whammy on the Hawkeyes, coached by old Wolverine Forest Evashevski. And this year, they get the dope on Iowa straight from the feed box. Michigan backfield coach Bump Elliott was an Iowa aide to Evashevski the past five seasons. Unbeaten Iowa hasn't faced a good passing team yet. Michigan has two chaps who can throw, Jim Van Pelt and Stan Noskin, and a flock who can catch.

Illinois 20, Purdue 13 — This should be a ding-dong battle between two Big Ten "spoilers." The Illini have the home advantage. Although Purdue upset Michigan State two weeks ago, the Illini without the element of surprise held the Spartans to a 19-14 victory last Saturday. Bobby Mitchell and Dale Smith are rolling better for the Illini every game.

Notre Dame 14, Navy 13—The unbeaten Irish are ripe for an upset. Navy is a sharp-passing, swift club defeated only by North Carolina in six starts. The Middies will strive mightily to do what Army couldn't do, the Cadets suffering a 23-21 defeat by the Irish Oct. 12. However, we have a hunch that the Irish, injuries and all, will pull some heroic stunt and go undefeated against Michigan State the following Saturday.

Michigan State 19, Wisconsin 13—Whereas Ohio State spurned the air against the Badgers, the Spartans will pass at the drop of a helmet. MSU, too, has the speed in Walt Kowalczyk and Blanche Martin to cope with the long-gainer threat of Danny Lewis, et al. But coach Milt Bruhn has done a whale of a job with his "Baby" Badgers this fall.

Ohio State 21, Northwestern 7—Unless the weatherman lends a helping hand to the riddled, winless Wildcats again, the Buckeyes should move another notch closer to the Big Ten title, or at least a Rose Bowl trip. Ohio State has had its troubles with Northwestern even though the Buckeyes won the last eight contests with the Wildcats. Don Clark, the bounding Buckeye, may have a big day.

Minnesota 26, Indiana 7—The Hoosiers' one-game winning streak ends. The Gophers are hunting raw meat after two fastings which broke their championship bubble. If they can move fast enough Saturday, they'll get it.

College of Pacific 13, Marquette 7—This is a fine chance for the Warriors to end their 16-game losing streak, but COP is just a little too tough.

Lakers Still Lack Old Winning Habit

DETROIT (AP)—There are a lot of new faces in the Minneapolis Lakers dressing room these days, but the winning habit that used to go with the name hasn't shown up yet.

The Lakers, after their 115-96 loss to the Detroit Pistons Wednesday night, now hold down the National Basketball Assn.'s western division cellar with an 0-2 record. The game also marked the Pistons' first victory.

George Yardley with 28 points, Bob Houbregs with 16 and ex-Laker Walt Dukes with 14 topped the Pistons scorers.

WHS Basketball Coach Pleased at Prospects

"We ought to have the best season we've had since I came here."

That's strong language. But Herb Russell, varsity basketball coach at Washington C. H. High School, stuck to it.

With varsity practice ready to start at 4 p. m. Friday, Russell said prospects for the coming season look "pretty good. . .really pretty good."

"At the very least," said Russell, whose Blue Lion hoopsters open their season here Nov. 29 against Bexley, "we ought to improve on last year's 10-8 record."

"And that's the very least. If things go right, and if we don't have any injuries, and if. . .well, just wait and see!" Russell said.

* * *

RUSSELL can put up a lot of evidence to substantiate his optimism. Of the 14 boys whom he expects out Friday afternoon, almost every one had shown creditable abilities in past seasons of play.

Heading the list is Tom Swaim, senior forward whom Russell is boosting for all - state honors. Swaim, an aggressive driver and rebounder with a flashy defense record was one of the mainstays of the squad last season. He was named to the all-South Central Ohio League team.

Swaim's biggest trouble last season was offense. His shooting was not as accurate as it could have been, and, at five feet, 11 inches, he had a height disadvantage to overcome.

But Swaim has been spending long hours on the court through the summer, and Russell says, tentatively, "I think his shooting has improved a good deal."

* * *

BESIDES SWAIM, there's plenty. Forward Larry Milstead, who led scoring last season with a 14-point average, will be back for another season. Center Jim McWilliams, an excellent rebounder, and guard Bill Herman, a topflight foul shooter, both are back on the roster.

Others expected for the first tryout are Bob Burris, Phil Johnson, Floyd Southward, Doug Rider, Roger McLean, Larry Bennett, Dave Korn, Ron Carter, Bill Southworth and Dick Welsh.

"And who knows", Russell said. "Someone may show up whom I don't really expect!"

Coaching the reserves will be Jack O'Rourke, who serves also as reserve football coach. Marvin Merritt, assistant football varsity coach, will take the junior high basketball squad when it goes into action later.

'Football Mothers' May Get Together To Learn Game

A meeting of "football mothers" is in prospect for next week, probably Thursday, Coach Fred Domenico of the WHS Lions disclosed today.

Domenico said so many mothers of the Lions had told him and the other coaches that they listen to football talk around home and would like to learn more about the game and the part their sons play in it that plans for a "Football Mothers" meeting already are beginning to take form.

The meeting, if the plans materialize, will be held in the field house at Gardner Park, where the boys dress for practice and games and where they go for the "skull practice" sessions.

The plans for the meeting, Domenico said, will include the showing of some game movies to illustrate the fundamentals of the game for the mothers.

Wives of the coaches also probably will be at the meeting to get acquainted with the mothers and to bring them into closer touch with the game and develop a relationship akin to that between the coaches and the fathers.

Domenico said that while the coaching staff stands ready to help set up the meeting, the whole idea actually is in the hands of the mothers.

Akins Rated Second As Welter Contender

NEW YORK (AP)—Virgil Akins is now listed second among contenders for the world welterweight crown vacated by middleweight champion Carmen Basilio.

Monthly ratings by Ring Magazine placed Akins behind Isaac Logart of Cuba, who had been the No. 2 contender behind former champ Tony Demarco of Boston. Akins knocked out Demarco in the 14th round of a scheduled 15-rounder Tuesday in Boston to bring about the shuffled ratings. Demarco now is third.

College Football Attendance Drops Except in South Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

College football attendance decreased in virtually every part of the country except the South and Southwest during the first half of the 1957 season.

But the over-all change was so small it probably could be explained by a few schedules that put the more attractive games later in the season this year—or by uncertain alumni who tossed a coin to decide whether or not they should go to the game on a threatening day.

An Associated Press survey of September and October major college games showed today that 303 played this year drew 350,360 fewer spectators than 313 games by the same teams last season. On the basis of average attendance per game, that shows a decrease of 1.26 percent—about 300 persons a game.

The Atlantic Coast, Southeastern, Big Eight, Southwest and Border Conferences all marked up gains, ranging from 8.2 percent in the Southwest to 17.3 percent in the Atlantic Coast. The major Eastern independent colleges also showed a slight gain—1.2 percent—due principally to the Army-Notre Dame game, which pulled some 96,000 spectators into the Philadelphia Municipal Stadium.

The larger independents scattered through other sections, whose totals are influenced by two big drawing cards — Notre Dame and Miami of Florida — experienced an over-all decline of 10.4 percent.

At this stage of the 1956 season, Notre Dame had played four home games before capacity crowds averaging over 59,000. This year the Irish have played at home only twice, against Indiana and Pitt, drawing 112,801 in all. Miami's home game attendance slipped by about 6,400 for four games.

While the two big leagues of Southern football registered respectable attendance gains, the smaller Southern Conference suffered the biggest percentage of loss—19.3 percent.

The mighty Big Ten, where Michigan can play before 101,001 spectators and Ohio State regularly draws around 80,000 for its home games, wound up with a 6.6 percent decline the first half of the season. Attendance in the troubled Pacific Coast Conference dropped 6.1 percent and in the Skyline Conference 6.9 percent.

The schedules and some bad weather figured in these changes.

The attendance decline, if it continues to the end of the season, reverses the trend of the past few years. Final figures for college football last season showed an over-all gain of about three percent over 1955.

Mrs. Robert Minor Wins Golfing Honor

A former Washington C. H. resident today holds the women's handicap golf championship of the Congressional Country Club in Washington, D. C.

She is Mrs. Robert Minor, the former Miss Joan Allen, daughter of Mrs. Howard S. Allen, 624 Oakland Ave., who started her golf at the Country Club here when she was in high school.

Mrs. Minor received the big trophy that goes with the honor and a smaller duplicate. Her name will be engraved on the big one, which will be passed along to the winner next year. The smaller one, she will keep.

The event, held each year on the birthday of the club pro, nationally-known Whiffy Cox, brings some of the top women golfers of the nation's Capital into competition.

Mr. and Mrs. Minor live in Bethesda, Md., a Washington suburb. They went to Washington nine years ago when Minor was on the legal staff of the Justice Department. Less than a year ago, he was appointed to the Interstate Commerce Commission by President Eisenhower.

TEXAS EASTERN CREWS ARE COMING TO WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE

Their job — to prepare "Little Big Inch" for transportation of petroleum products

Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation's Little Big Inch natural gas pipeline, which passes through this area, is now being reconverted to carry petroleum products. Pipeline crews who will shortly be moving into this vicinity to carry out reconditioning and testing operations will benefit the local economy. They will be using local facilities for eating and sleeping and will purchase some of their supplies here.

The reconditioning and testing operations are necessary to insure continued safe and proper operation of the line after its reconversion. In the testing process water will be pumped into the line and put under pressure. Any joint of the pipe which does not meet the test standards will be replaced before the line is put back in service.

Along its entire right-of-way Texas Eastern has a reputation of being a good corporate citizen. The crews working in this area will be under the direct supervision of Texas Eastern's experienced personnel who will insure that the company's policy of complete cooperation with local civic officials is carried out. Minor inconveniences which might result from the operation will be kept to a minimum.

To insure the most expeditious completion of the program, the public will be requested at certain times to stay clear of the pipeline right-of-way and farmers will be asked to keep their livestock off the line. The public will be notified at the proper time and low-flying aircraft piloted by experienced crewmen under Civil Aeronautics Administration authorization will patrol the right-of-way to assist in checking the line during these periods.

The Little Big Inch, upon completion of this reconversion program, will be one of the nation's largest common carriers of petroleum products. The system will link the refineries of the Gulf Coast and Mid-Continent areas with the rapidly expanding Midwestern-Chicago market area benefiting the people of both of these areas as well as contributing to the economy of the communities along the pipeline system.

We ask that the people of this area cooperate with us so that we can carry out the program in the shortest possible time.

Lawyer Asks Stiff Penalty For Revealing U. S. Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP)—Loyd Wright says Congress will give consideration early next year to a bill which would impose stiff fines and jail sentences on reporters and others who willfully disclose government secrets.

Wright, a Los Angeles attorney, headed a 12-man commission on government security which last June recommended extensive revisions in the nation's security regulations, tightening them in some instances and easing the rules in others.

Wright told the American Society for Industrial Security Wednesday he had been assured that the commission's proposed 106-section bill will be "one of the first orders of business when Congress reconvenes next January."

He also told newsmen he "regretted" a recent story in Aviation Week magazine, currently causing a furore in government circles. The magazine reported that the United States for some time has been keeping tabs on Russian missile tests with the aid of special long-range radar units based in neighboring Turkey.

"I regret that anyone would not think more clearly on the possibilities of assisting the enemy before publishing that type of thing," Wright added.

The magazine maintains no security breach was involved. It said the Russians and everyone concerned except the American people have known of the radar installations.

The commission's bill would provide for fines up to $10,000 and imprisonment up to five years for wilful disclosure of "secret" and "top secret" matter.

The best pass defense mark is by Illinois, holding enemy aerial yardage to a 53.3 average. MSU is second with 54.

Individual leaders include:

Rushing—Don Clark, Ohio State 62 for 332 and a 5.5 average; Walt Kowalczyk, MSU, 45 for 268 and 5.9; passing—Jim Ninowski, MSU, 23 out of 35 for 387 and 4 touchdowns; Tom Haller, Illinois 22 out of 40 for 308 and 3 touchdowns; total offense—Clark, 352 yards; Ninowski with 350.

Insurance Agent Gets $2000 To Help Defeat Union Drive

WASHINGTON (AP)—The investigative spotlight of the special Senate Rackets Committee has been focused on a Flint, Mich., insurance agent.

John (Jack) Carreras, a Flint agent for the Allstate Insurance Co., received $2,000 in 1954 for his work in helping to defeat a union organizing drive, according to testimony before the committee Wednesday.

The committee questioned the propriety of both the payment and the manner in which it was made.

The examination of the Michigan union fight was another phase of the committee's current look at Nathan Shefferman's Labor Relations Associates of Chicago. Shefferman has been described by committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy as a specialist in union busting.

Henry Moser of Evanston, Ill., senior vice president of All-State, testified that Shefferman's organization was used to fight an unsuccessful attempt of the AFL International Union of Insurance Agents in 1955 to organize Michigan's Allstate agents.

Fred Wheeler of Glen Ellyn, Ill., the Shefferman man sent to Michigan, testified that he asked Jack Johnson, manager of the Detroit All-State office, for the name of an employe opposed to the union. Carreras was named, and he was selected to head the "Vote No" Anti-Union Committee.

The union lost the bargaining election, 54-39.

Moser said the $2,000 was paid Carreras by the company, through Labor Relations Associates, to reimburse Carreras for the time lost in the anti-union activity.

"What it amounts to is you paid $2,000 for him to work against organized labor," Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) told Moser.

"I don't think that's a perfectly fair characterization," replied Moser.

But after McClellan repeated his characterization two more times, Moser said:

"I think that that's perfectly true, Senator."

Iowa Wonders If Michigan Is Real Jinx

IOWA CITY (AP)—Iowa confronts Michigan Saturday in the 19th renewal of the Hawkeyes' most frustrating football relationship.

The weird outcomes of some of the previous 18 meetings have gone far to popularize the belief Iowa is jinxed by the Wolverines.

And the one Iowa coach who has wanted most to beat Michigan has had the most discouraging results. He is Forest Evashevski, who as a great Michigan quarterback in 1939 had an important hand in administering one of the 15 Iowa defeats.

Evy's Iowa teams have lost the last four years to his alma mater by a total of 17 points. That is less than a touchdown a game.

On all but one of those occasions the Hawkeyes led by two touchdowns at halftime and in three instances they nursed a touchdown lead going into the final 15 minutes of play.

In 1953 and 1954—the first two seasons Evy's teams played Michigan — the Wolverines escaped with 14-13 victories. The next year it was 33-21 after Iowa carried a 21-13 lead into the final quarter.

Last fall only 66 seconds separated the Hawkeyes from their third triumph in the series. But again Michigan prevailed 17 - 14, after an 80-yard march which consumed most of the remaining 10 minutes of the game.

Lane Chalks Win, New Ring Rating

CHICAGO (AP)—Southpaw Kenny Lane, after a methodical 10-round victory over Orlando Zulueta, has a new distinction today.

The Muskegon, Mich., battler was awarded the No. 1 contender's spot in the junior welterweight division by the Illinois Athletic Commission.

This 140-pound class has been dormant since 1935 but Commission Chairman Frank Gilmer says: "We've revived it with the hope of stirring up a world championship at this weight."

Lane won a unanimous decision over Zulueta in the bout at Chicago Stadium Wednesday night to register his 16th straight triumph and a total of 49 against five defeats in his career.

Chuck Noll Heads For Reserve List

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns are expected to put Chuck Noll, veteran linebacker who broke an arm Sunday, on the injured reserve list. That means he will be out for the season.

His replacement probably will be Stan Sheriff, a 222-pounder who was released by the San Francisco 49ers after two games.

Sheriff played college football at Cal Poly. He was drafted by the Los Angeles Rams in 1954, but played that year with the Pittsburgh Steelers. After a hitch in the Army, he went to the 49ers, where he played middle guard.

Presidents Conference Adds Thiel as Member

CLEVELAND (AP)—Thiel College of Greenville, Pa., Wednesday became the eighth member of the Presidents Athletic Conference. The others are Case, John Carroll and Western Reserve, all of Cleveland; Wayne State, Detroit; Bethany, W. Va.; Washington and Jefferson, Washington, Pa., and Allegheny, Meadville, Pa.

Otterbein Classes Shut

COLUMBUS (AP)—Classes at Otterbein College in nearby Westerville have been suspended until Tuesday because of increasing influenza-like illness.

Lawyer Asks Stiff Penalty For Revealing U. S. Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP)—Loyd Wright says Congress will give consideration early next year to a bill which would impose stiff fines and jail sentences on reporters and others who willfully disclose government secrets.

Wright, a Los Angeles attorney, headed a 12-man commission on government security which last June recommended extensive revisions in the nation's security regulations, tightening them in some instances and easing the rules in others.

Wright told the American Society for Industrial Security Wednesday he had been assured that the commission's proposed 106-section bill will be "one of the first orders of business when Congress reconvenes next January."

He also told newsmen he "regretted" a recent story in Aviation Week magazine, currently causing a furore in government circles. The magazine reported that the United States for some time has been keeping tabs on Russian missile tests with the aid of special long-range radar units based in neighboring Turkey.

"I regret that anyone would not think more clearly on the possibilities of assisting the enemy before publishing that type of thing," Wright added.

The magazine maintains no security breach was involved. It said the Russians and everyone concerned except the American people have known of the radar installations.

The commission's bill would provide for fines up to $10,000 and imprisonment up to five years for wilful disclosure of "secret" and "top secret" matter.

Mich. State, Iowa Pacing Big Ten Data

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan State and Iowa still head the Big Ten's football statistical race.

Michigan State is the leading team on offense and the Hawkeyes dominate defense, official conference statistics show.

The Spartans have averaged 395.5 yards per conference game in passing and running. Ohio State is second in total offense with 344.7.

Ohio, however, is No. 1 in rushing with 298 to MSU's 255. Illinois is tops in passing with 143.3 while the Spartans are second with 140.5.

MSU is averaging 5.3 yards per play, tops in this department. Iowa is next with 5.2.

Iowa has held opponents to an average 4.7 points per game, 79 rushing yards, and 178.3 total yards for defensive honors.

Ohio State is second in point yield with 6.7 and rushing with 128.3. MSU is second in total offense yield with 205.

The best pass defense mark is by Illinois, holding enemy aerial yardage to a 53.3 average. MSU is second with 54.

Individual leaders include:

Rushing—Don Clark, Ohio State 62 for 332 and a 5.5 average; Walt Kowalczyk, MSU, 45 for 268 and 5.9; passing—Jim Ninowski, MSU, 23 out of 35 for 387 and 4 touchdowns; Tom Haller, Illinois 22 out of 40 for 308 and 3 touchdowns; total offense—Clark, 352 yards; Ninowski with 350.

Insurance Agent Gets $2000 To Help Defeat Union Drive

WASHINGTON (AP)—The investigative spotlight of the special Senate Rackets Committee has been focused on a Flint, Mich., insurance agent.

John (Jack) Carreras, a Flint agent for the Allstate Insurance Co., received $2,000 in 1954 for his work in helping to defeat a union organizing drive, according to testimony before the committee Wednesday.

The committee questioned the propriety of both the payment and the manner in which it was made.

The examination of the Michigan union fight was another phase of the committee's current look at Nathan Shefferman's Labor Relations Associates of Chicago Shefferman has been described by committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy as a specialist in union busting.

Henry Moser of Evanston, Ill., senior vice president of All-State, testified that Shefferman's organization was used to fight an unsuccessful attempt of the AFL International Union of Insurance Agents in 1955 to organize Michigan's Allstate agents.

Fred Wheeler of Glen Ellyn, Ill., the Shefferman man sent to Michigan, testified that he asked Jack Johnson, manager of the Detroit All-State office, for the name of an employe opposed to the union. Carreras was named, and he was selected to head the "Vote No" Anti-Union Committee.

The union lost the bargaining election, 54-39.

Moser said the $2,000 was paid Carreras by the company, through Labor Relations Associates, to reimburse Carreras for the time lost in the anti-union activity.

"What it amounts to is you paid $2,000 for him to work against organized labor," Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) told Moser.

"I don't think that's a perfectly fair characterization," replied Moser.

But after McClellan repeated his characterization two more times, Moser said:

"I think that that's perfectly true, Senator."

Lane Chalks Win, New Ring Rating

CHICAGO (AP)—Southpaw Kenny Lane, after a methodical 10-round victory over Orlando Zulueta, has a new distinction today.

The Muskegon, Mich., battler was awarded the No. 1 contender's spot in the junior welterweight division by the Illinois Athletic Commission.

This 140-pound class has been dormant since 1935 but Commission Chairman Frank Gilmer says: "We've revived it with the hope of stirring up a world championship at this weight."

Lane won a unanimous decision over Zulueta in the bout at Chicago Stadium Wednesday night to register his 16th straight triumph and a total of 49 against five defeats in his career.

Chuck Noll Heads For Reserve List

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns are expected to put Chuck Noll, veteran linebacker who broke an arm Sunday, on the injured reserve list. That means he will be out for the season.

His replacement probably will be Stan Sheriff, a 222-pounder who was released by the San Francisco 49ers after two games.

Sheriff played college football at Cal Poly. He was drafted by the Los Angeles Rams in 1954, but played that year with the Pittsburgh Steelers. After a hitch in the Army, he went to the 49ers, where he played middle guard.

Presidents Conference Adds Thiel as Member

The others are Case, John Carroll and Western Reserve, all of Cleveland; Wayne State, Detroit; Bethany, W. Va.; Washington and Jefferson, Washington, Pa., and Allegheny, Meadville, Pa.

Ohio Newspaper Tells Answer in Soviet Quiz

CLEVELAND (AP) — Radio Moscow said Wednesday night it disqualified Ohio entrants in a quiz contest because the answers had been published in the Cleveland Press. An English language broadcast monitored by radio station Were said the newspaper's action gave Ohioans an unfair advantage. The Russians said it got 1,270 mail entries, and awarded 10 prizes of radios, cameras and records. Winners were from various parts of the U. S. and Canada.

It's Tough Everywhere

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — A 52-year-old man, disgusted with life, leaped off a bridge into the Guyandotte River, but all he got was mud in his eye.

Climbing up the bank, he moaned:

"Everything's all wrong. Even the river is too shallow."

The Place Is Right; The Name's Hardin

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Chief Bob Hardin and his fire laddies busied themselves recently making some rustic signs for the city hall grounds; signs saying "entry," "exit" and such.

The signs are carefully made by cutting letters in wood with an electric router and then emblazoning them with yellow paint. Imagine the fire chief's embarrassment when he discovered that the sign so carefully made for the front of the fire station had his name spelled "Hadin" instead of Hardin.

Englishman Jibes Englishman In Fuss over Yank Tourist

NEW YORK (AP) — A transatlantic tiff over American tourists today had Englishmen pitted against Englishman.

There wasn't a Yank in sight to blame.

A battle of words started when Cassandra, a columnist for the London Mirror, sharply criticized the advertising campaign designed by the British Travel Assn. to lure U. S. visitors to Britain.

The ads, appear in nine nationally circulated magazines.

Particularly rousing Cassandra's wrath was an advertisement describing the shopping glories to be uncovered in England's antique stores, woolen shops and auctions.

"What a wretched picture this is of Britain!" rumbled Cassandra. "The supplicatory bazaar.

"What a blatant piece of bribery to catch the Yanks How the cynical admen (probably writing from the steam-heated Sparta of Madison avenue) have taken over"

Back came reply.

"We're not steam-heated vulgarian yahoos," remonstrated David Ogilvy. "A number of fairly throughful people work out the advertising."

Ogilvy heads the advertising agency of Ogilvy, Benson & Mather.

"The results are the best reply to criticism," added James T. Turbayne, English-born general manager of the New York office of the BTA, an official government bureau.

A BTA spokesman said that an English writer prepares nearly all the texts — and final approval is given in London by Jack Mauson, advertising manager and Englishman.

When the advertising campaign began in 1950, the travel office reports, there were 127,827 U. S. visitors to England who spent $73,780,000; in 1956 the number of travelers rose to 255,000, their expenditures to $128,714,000. The current year's figures are estimated at 270,000 wide-eyed wanderers spending $140,000,000.

Chinese-Born Scientists Cop Nobel Prizes

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Two young Chinese-born nuclear scientists working in America won the 1957 Nobel prize in physics today for removing important obstacles to the understanding of the functions of the atom and the universe.

The joint winners of the $42,000 award are Dr. Chen Ning Yang, 34-year-old professor of physics at the Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton, N. J., and Dr. Tsung Dao Lee, 30, Columbia University professor of physics who is on leave and also at the Princeton institute.

Completing the 1957 Nobel choices, the chemistry prize was awarded today to Sir Alexander Todd of Cambridge University, 50-year-old Scotland - born biologist, for fundamental research on matter inside the simplest of cells. The Nobel Foundation also cited his investigation of vitamin B12, the substance found in the human liver which is active against pernicious anemia, and experiments he now is making with the poison contained in hashish, the basis of opium.

The citation of the Swedish Academy of Science said Drs. Lee and Yang were honored "for their profound investigations of the so-called laws of parity, which have led to important discoveries regarding sub-atomic particles."

Ex-Sen. Welker, 50, Dies after Surgery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Herman Welker, an Idaho Republican who served one six-year term in the U. S. Senate, died Wednesday night at the age of 50.

Welker, who was defeated for re-election last year by Democrat Frank Church, died at the National Institute of Health following a second brain operation.

An earlier operation was performed at the clinical center Oct. 17 to relieve pressure on the brain and to explore the possibility of a brain tumor. A second operation on Monday presumably was to remove a tumor.

Negro Family To Be Moved In White Area

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—A family of Southern Negroes will be moved into an exclusive, all white neighborhood in a Northern city within 60 days, the Chronicle said today.

State Sen. A. A. Fowler would neither identify the family nor name the city but said the home is in "an outstanding, quiet, respectable neighborhood in the $75,000 class," the paper reported.

"The location is such that it will give one of the country's leading exponents of integration a chance to practice some of the 'mixing' he has been preaching to the people of Georgia and the South," Fowler was quoted.

Fowler, Atty. Roy V. Harris of August, and State Welfare Director Allan Kemper organized the American Resettlement Foundation Inc., whose object is to settle low income Southern Negro families in upper class northern neighborhoods.

Fowler told the paper that an option on the house was accepted Wednesday. He said the family would be charged $1 a year rent on the $75,000 home.

Fowler said a group of attorneys will be standing by in the event residents of the Northern Neighborhood attempt to block the Negro family from setting up housekeeping.

Auto Victim's Father Sues For $100,000

Driver Indicted For Manslaughter Named Defendant

T. Joseph Hundley of Lebanon, father of Timothy J. Hundley and administrator of his estate, Friday morning filed suit in Common Pleas Court here against Albert Williams, Hillsboro, asking $100,000 judgement for the death of his son.

Timothy Hundley, 18, died Aug. 27 in University Hospital, Columbus, of injuries received when the car driven by Williams struck him at 8 o'clock the previous night at a construction project on the CCC Highway 5 miles east of here. Williams was driving east at the time.

Young Hundley, a 1957 graduate of Lebanon High School, was a flagman at the construction project when he met his death.

* * *

THE SUIT asks $100,000 judgement on two grounds: (1) The plaintiff claims Williams was operating his car without due regard for the victim's safety or rights and (2) that Williams was driving at a speed of 40 miles per hour, greater, under the circumstances, than would permit him to stop within the assured clear distance ahead.

At the time of the accident, Deputy Sheriff Charles Hays said Williams told him he did not see Hundley until it was too late to stop.

Williams was arraigned in Municipal Court Aug. 28 on a charge of involuntary manslaughter filed by Sheriff Orland Hays. He was bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond by Judge Max G. Dice after he pleaded not guilty.

He was indicted by the grand jury for second degree manslaughter on Sept. 9.

Williams entered a not guilty plea when he was arraigned on the indictment in Common Pleas Court Oct. 3 and Judge John P. Case set his trial for 9 a. m. Dec. 2. Bond of $1,000 set by Judge Dice was continued by Judge Case.

U. S. Treasury Hopes To Hold To Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Treasury officials said today that they have every intention of staying within the $275 billion limit on the national debt.

And they emphasized they don't expect any congressional drive for increased defense spending to alter that plan.

The debt right now is about $900 million short of the ceiling imposed by Congress—not much of a margin for a time of year when government spending traditionally outruns tax collections by a considerable amount.

Projections indicate the debt will climb to within $200 million of the limit before corporation tax payments next spring start to take the heat off.

Even then they won't be out of the woods if there is an unexpected drain on funds.

The $275 billion limit was imposed by Congress in 1946. For the fiscal years 1955 and 1956, however, Congress granted a temporary increase of $6 billion. For fiscal 1957, which ended last June 30, the temporary increase was $3 billion, to a total of $278 billion.

There is one way the Treasury can wriggle off the hook if things get too tight. It can ask other government agencies which now borrow from the Treasury to borrow money from the public.

Experts Say Farm Income To Top '56

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm officials expressed confidence today that agricultural income this year will top last year's despite two consecutive months of declining farm prices.

In a monthly report Wednesday, the Agriculture Department said farm prices dropped 2 per cnet between mid-September and mid-October. This decline largely reflected lower prices for hogs, cattle, lambs, corn and cotton.

Prices had dropped 1 per cent during the previous month.

Nevertheless, the farm price level remained about 2½ per cent above that of a year earlier.

The relationship between prices received by farmers and prices paid by them for goods and services used in production and family living is an important factor in determining the amount of money farmers have left for their incomes.

This relationship was the same as a year ago and averages the same for the first 10 months of this year as during all of 1956.

As long as this relationship continues at this level, there is good prospect, officials said, that 1957 income will be above that of 1956. This prospect reflects the probability that farmers will have a larger volume of commodities to sell this year than last.

Service Rivalry Probe Predicted

DAYTON (AP)—The next session of Congress will give serious consideration to rivalry between the Army, Navy and Air Force in America's missile development program, says U. S. Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan).

Carlson told a press conference here Wednesday that interservice rivalry "has held back the United States in the field of missiles."

He recommended a single coordinated missile program headed by civilians and "all three branches of the military."

"I don't see how we could take the missile program away from the military," he said.

We've About Reached Limit On Human Life Expectancy

CLEVELAND (AP) — Human beings have about reached the limit on how long they can expect to live.

This conclusion was reported today by Dr. Morris Rockstein, associate professor of physiology at New York University, to the opening session of the 10th annual meeting of the Gerontological Society. Gerontology is the scientific study of old age.

To back up his conclusion he cited studies of animals and mortality date which shows that—like the color of their eyes, hair and skin—human beings inherit most of the conditions which decide how long they'll live.

Since man has no control over these inherited conditions, he said, human beings are arbitrarily limited to about the present length of life.

"With a considerable number of records of 100 years or over existing for the longevity of male and female humans," he said, "this suggests itself as being close to the potential maximum for the majority of human beings of the future."

One proof, he said, of the limit lies in the fact that despite the advances in medicine and public health the life expectancy of people who have reached 65 hasn't changed much over the years.

Another, he said, is the evidence from animal experiments which shows that the life span is almost always shorter for offspring which are produced by older parents.

Rockstein said, however, that despite the fact that human life is limited by heredity, many actual living conditions affect how long a person may live. And, he suggested, by the proper control of these conditions more and more people could expect to reach their inherited limit.

These conditions, he said, include climate and diet.

Auto Victim's Father Sues For $100,000

Driver Indicted For Manslaughter Named Defendant

T. Joseph Hundley of Lebanon, father of Timothy J. Hundley and administrator of his estate, Friday morning filed suit in Common Pleas Court here against Albert Williams, Hillsboro, asking $100,000 judgement for the death of his son.

Timothy Hundley, 18, died Aug. 27 in University Hospital, Columbus, of injuries received when the car driven by Williams struck him at 8 o'clock the previous night at a construction project on the CCC Highway 5 miles east of here. Williams was driving east at the time.

In the suit for damages his father claims Williams disregarded his son's signal with a lighted lantern and drove his car into him.

Williams was arraigned in Municipal Court Aug. 28 on a charge of involuntary manslaughter filed by Sheriff Orland Hays. He was bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond by Judge Max G. Dice after he pleaded not guilty.

He was indicted by the grand jury for second degree manslaughter on Sept. 9.

Williams entered a not guilty plea when he was arraigned on the indictment in Common Pleas Court Oct. 3 and Judge John P. Case set his trial for 9 a. m. Dec. 2. Bond of $1,000 set by Judge Dice was continued by Judge Case.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—A family of Southern Negroes will be moved into an exclusive, all white neighborhood in a Northern city within 60 days, the Chronicle said today.

State Sen. A. A. Fowler would neither identify the family nor name the city but said the home is in "an outstanding, quiet, respectable neighborhood in the $75,000 class," the paper reported.

"The location is such that it will give one of the country's leading exponents of integration a chance to practice some of the 'mixing' he has been preaching to the people of Georgia and the South," Fowler was quoted.

Fowler, Atty. Roy V. Harris of August, and State Welfare Director Allan Kemper organized the American Resettlement Foundation Inc., whose object is to settle low income Southern Negro families in upper class northern neighborhoods.

Fowler told the paper that an option on the house was accepted Wednesday. He said the family would be charged $1 a year rent on the $75,000 home.

Fowler said a group of attorneys will be standing by in the event residents of the Northern Neighborhood attempt to block the Negro family from setting up housekeeping.

Experts Say Farm Income To Top '56

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm officials expressed confidence today that agricultural income this year will top last year's despite two consecutive months of declining farm prices.

In a monthly report Wednesday, the Agriculture Department said farm prices dropped 2 per cnet between mid-September and mid-October. This decline largely reflected lower prices for hogs, cattle, lambs, corn and cotton.

Prices had dropped 1 per cent during the previous month.

Nevertheless, the farm price level remained about 2½ per cent above that of a year earlier.

The relationship between prices received by farmers and prices paid by them for goods and services used in production and family living is an important factor in determining the amount of money farmers have left for their incomes.

This relationship was the same as a year ago and averages the same for the first 10 months of this year as during all of 1956.

As long as this relationship continues at this level, there is good prospect, officials said, that 1957 income will be above that of 1956. This prospect reflects the probability that farmers will have a larger volume of commodities to sell this year than last.

Service Rivalry Probe Predicted

DAYTON (AP)—The next session of Congress will give serious consideration to rivalry between the Army, Navy and Air Force in America's missile development program, says U. S. Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan).

Carlson told a press conference here Wednesday that interservice rivalry "has held back the United States in the field of missiles."

He recommended a single coordinated missile program headed by civilians and "all three branches of the military."

"I don't see how we could take the missile program away from the military," he said.

We've About Reached Limit On Human Life Expectancy

CLEVELAND (AP) — Human beings have about reached the limit on how long they can expect to live.

This conclusion was reported today by Dr. Morris Rockstein, associate professor of physiology at New York University, to the opening session of the 10th annual meeting of the Gerontological Society. Gerontology is the scientific study of old age.

To back up his conclusion he cited studies of animals and mortality date which shows that—like the color of their eyes, hair and skin—human beings inherit most of the conditions which decide how long they'll live.

Since man has no control over these inherited conditions, he said, human beings are arbitrarily limited to about the present length of life.

"With a considerable number of records of 100 years or over existing for the longevity of male and female humans," he said, "this suggests itself as being close to the potential maximum for the majority of human beings of the future."

One proof, he said, of the limit lies in the fact that despite the advances in medicine and public health the life expectancy of people who have reached 65 hasn't changed much over the years.

Another, he said, is the evidence from animal experiments which shows that the life span is almost always shorter for offspring which are produced by older parents.

Rockstein said, however, that despite the fact that human life is limited by heredity, many actual living conditions affect how long a person may live. And, he suggested, by the proper control of these conditions more and more people could expect to reach their inherited limit.

These conditions, he said, include climate and diet.
